

Neusy Notes From Neighboring Towns

GATHERED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

LEBANON.

(From the Times.)

Vein Smith came in Sunday for a visit with his father who was seriously injured last Wednesday.

George Duckler received a telegram Friday evening stating that his wife, who is visiting in Seattle, Wash., had been seriously burned.

A small cyclone visited the country a few miles southeast of Lebanon Sunday evening. We understand that quite a lot of damage done at the W. G. Rollins home.

Perry Criss, who formerly lived south of Lebanon but who went to Fort Worth, Texas, a short time ago to work, died at the latter place Saturday, July 20, of typhoid fever.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. John Dudley died and was buried Tuesday. This is the last one of the twins born last week, the other one having died a short time after birth.

SMITH CENTER

(From the Messenger)

All kinds of disastrous crop reports come in from round about at short intervals.

The Odd Fellows have already begun work on their new hall on South Main street.

The farmers report the chinch bugs doing considerable damage in a good many of the corn fields in the Reamsville neighborhood.

Dr. Montgomery was at Riverton yesterday taking out an eye for Mr. A. J. Hannen, who had his eye badly lacerated about a year ago, making it necessary to take out the member.

BLADEN

(From the Enterprise)

L. H. Feis, our up-to-date butcher, this week installed a number of new automatic fans and now has them in operation.

D. Crom sold his quarter section of land four miles southwest of town this week. The purchase price was $11,400, or $70 per acre.

The Bladen band gave their first free concert on the street last Saturday evening and drew a good crowd of listeners. Bladen now has a band they can well be proud of as they are beginning to turn out some good music.

RIVERTON

(From the Review.)

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Groat died Tuesday and was buried Wednesday.

Mr. Haynes died Sunday morning and was buried Monday afternoon in the Riverton cemetery. Mr. Haynes has been in poor health for a long time.

With the privilege of remaining with us until the 31st of this month Andrew Beck will celebrate his 84th birthday. Andrew was born in Germany on the banks of the Rhine, but came to America at an early age in life and spent thirty three birthdays in Webster and Franklin counties and with a continuance of his present health Mr. Beck will spend more birthdays.

BLOOMINGTON

(From the Advocate)

Mrs. E. P. Marsh is confined to her home by a very severe attack of fever.

Dr. J. B. Sumner has purchased a two seated automobile of the Holzman company.

Levi Hager, of Ash Grove, died on July 19. He was born in Vermont in 1844.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Harmon of Holdrege are the proud parents of a son born to them last Tuesday.

MANKATO

(From the Monitor)

R. W. Turner has a new 20 horse power automobile, bought of Lafa Linton of Lebanon.

Will Chilcott who was lucky enough to draw claim No. 25 in the recent government land drawing at Billings, Montana, returned last evening.

Dan Deitrick reports that T.H. Brinkworth's boy, who broke his leg last week, is improving and that it will not be necessary to amputate his foot.

Jim Gutelius, once famous in Jewell county has been elected president of the International Association of Auctioneers of Kansas City. Gutelius now lives in Kansas City.

SUPERIOR

(From the Express.)

The Henningsen Produce Co., is arranging to build another addition to their already large and complete plant. A dressing and packing addition is to be put up at once to accommodate the handling of poultry.

The State Supreme court has reversed the decision of the district court in the State vs. Heidebaugh for the burning of the Guthrie barn south of Superior. Heidebaugh was convicted on what appeared to be good evidence, and was under a two year sentence. An appeal was taken with the above result and now he is free.

One of the landmarks of this country is a large cottonwood tree on the Benson Hunter farm about three miles north of the city, now owned by W. H. Diehl. It is probably the largest, and maybe the oldest tree in the county, and it measures 17 feet and 7 inches in circumference, and has one limb that extends out fully 63 feet. The tree and its branches take up and occupy over an acre of ground. Those who have seen the tree of late think it shows signs of dying.

BLUE HILL

(From the Leader.)

J. J. Martin has commenced the excavation for his new building.

Threshing returns are coming in from various parts of the surrounding country and are ranging from twelve to twenty eight bushels to the acre.

Mrs. L. Blumenthal met with a painful injury last Saturday when she ran a rusty needle into the palm of her right hand, which penetrated the bone and broke off, leaving a piece of it in the bone. She came to town and had a doctor remove the broken piece of needle.

GUIDE ROCK

(From the Signal.)

Chicken thieves are getting in their work around town if reports are true. We understand they are local parties and have almost been caught in the act once or twice.

H. Wilson is one of the youngest boys in town notwithstanding the fact that 74 summers have passed over his head. He recently purchased a bicycle and during the wee small hours of the morning while the rest of the town is peacefully slumbering, he may be seen on the street near the parsonage learning to master the untamed steed.

Ed Cox and wife departed Monday morning for Long Beach California, for a visit. He drove to Superior Sunday to see about the tickets as the agent here stated that No. 11 would not stop under any consideration. He told the Burlington people at Superior that if they wouldn't stop No. 11 at Guide Rock for him he would go over the Santa Fe. We noticed that No. 11 stopped Monday morning and Mr. and Mrs. Cox are no doubt nearly to the end of their trip.

CAMPBELL

(From the Citizen.)

Mrs. Henry Kumke was taken to Omaha Monday by her husband, where she goes to seek medical aid.

The appalling story in last week's Citizen in regard to the breaking of F. G. Mason's leg one day last week, has turned out to be a hoax from start to finish.

George Adler and daughter, Mrs. Alice Riber went down to Omaha in response to a summons from the hospital. Mrs. Riber's husband was operated on for appendicitis, and it is feared he is not doing well.

Leonel Chevalier, the 10-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Chevalier, fell from a horse Tuesday afternoon, breaking both bones of one arm below the elbow. He was coming from the pasture on horseback leading two other animals, when his hat blew off. The horses which were being led became frightened, and jumping backward, threw the boy to the ground.

Pineules are for the kidneys and bladder. They bring quick relief to backache, rheumatism, lumbago, tired worn out feeling. They produce natural action of the kidneys in filtering waste matter out of the blood. 30 days treatment $1. Money refunded if Pineules are not satisfactory. Sold by Henry Cook's Drug Store.

EDIBLE COFFINS.

Pastry Making in the Early Stages of English Cookery.

At a very early period the orientals were familiar with a kind of pastry, a mixture of flour, oil and honey, and for centuries pastry making went no further, even among the nations in the south of Europe. But in the beginning of the middle ages a change began to take place in the method of mixing the ingredients, and some other substances were brought into use. Butter, eggs and salt found their way into pastry making, and the result was a manifest improvement. Paste next came to be used as an inclosure for meat, seasoned with spices, etc. Afterward it went a step further, the next use being for the inclosure of creams, fruit, preserves, etc., and later still it began to take the many fanciful shapes in which it has since been commonly found. In the early stages of English cookery the pastry cases were called coffins or "coffynes" and were made in various sizes from "gret coffynes with low liddes" for the "tartes of flesche" to the "smalle coffynes" for "tartolletes" of "flesche or flesche," mixed with "stuf of boylled figges ground and good powdure and spices."

Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew," it may here be noted, calls a little cap "a custard coffin." These coffins correspond with the "vol-au-vent" of today.—London Saturday Review.

THE LOST SOVEREIGN.

A Trick That is Sometimes Played on the London Cabby.

Have you ever tried to play on a cabman that old joke of the "lost sovereign?" It's very funny. A friend tried it last summer in London and succeeded too. He took a "growler" after midnight at Piccadilly Circus to go to his lodgings at Bayswater. Remembering the staleness of the "lost sovereign" dodge, he thought it would hardly "go down" with a bright, cunning cabby, but resolved to try for the fun of it.

Just as he came in front of a public house a few doors from his home the "fare" stuck his head out of the cab window and ordered the driver to halt. "I say, cabby, I've dropped a 'sov.' It must be on the bottom of the cab. Just pull up at that 'pub.' till I run in and get a match, so that I can find the coin."

"All right, sir," said the cabby and pulled up opposite the door of the tavern. The fare alighted and had taken scarcely three steps in the direction of the "pub." when, lo, Mr. Cabby whipped up his horse and flew away into the darkness of the night, carrying with him, as he supposed, that sovereign snugly concealed in the cushions of the cab.—London Tit-Bits.

How Snake Poison Kills.

The action of poisons upon the system is and always has been one of the most interesting of subjects. Just how and why it kills have been determined through a series of experiments made by scientists. The following description is one of the best and most lucid of any that has been given to the public: "The venom may be roughly separated into two parts, one acting upon the blood and the other upon the nerves. When injected it immediately begins to create terrible destruction in the blood vessels. The walls of the veins are eaten away, and an internal hemorrhage takes place. While this is going on a portion of the venom is attacking the nerves. Particularly susceptible to its ravages is the 'vasomotor' system, a nerve center which controls the muscles of respiration. Paralysis takes place in these organs, and the victim generally dies from an inability to breathe."—Exchange.

A Pleasant Sort of Sea.

The power of the surf is a thing about which many of us have but the most hazy ideas, and indeed the ordinary conditions with which we are surrounded prevent us from fully appreciating what it can be at times. The people of the island of Chincoteague, which is about a mile and a half wide, have, however, opportunities for judging this experience, which they must find the reverse of pleasant. On its eastern side and between it and the ocean is Assateague Island, which is also a mile and a half wide, but the power with which the waves come is so great that at some places the surf sweeps entirely over both islands.—London Standard.

A Talented House Agent.

Mrs. Homesicker—You certainly don't expect anybody to take this house! Why, the floors all run down hill. Agent (a smart man)—It was built in that way on purpose, mum, to keep peace in the family. Greatest invention of the age, mum. Mrs. Homesicker—Keep peace in the family? What do you mean? Agent—It's all right, mum; nothing like it. Whenever your husband drops his collar buttons they'll roll down to that wall, and he'll always know where to find 'em.—London Tit-Bits.

A Comparison.

"I admit I have the fault you mention," said the conceited man, self-complacently, "but it's the only fault I have, and it's a small one."
"Yes," replied Knox, "just like the small hole that makes a plugged nickel no good."—Philadelphia Press.

Ought to Survive.

Anxious Mother—Oh, doctor, do you think Robbie will get well? Doctor—No doubt of it; no doubt of it. I've given him medicine for everything that he could possibly have, so we're bound to strike it right.—Toledo Blade.

There is nothing so easy but that it becomes difficult when you do it with reluctance.—Terence.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM CURED IN 3 DAYS

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had inflammatory rheumatism in every muscle and joint; her suffering was terrible and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed six weeks and had eight physicians, but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by H. E. Grice, Druggist, Red Cloud.
