

Do You Love Music?

If you do (and the man who does not, according to Shakespeare, is "fit for stratagems, treasons and spoils"), you will find no music maker so easy to buy, so easy to play and so easy to listen to as the Phonograph. The Phonograph plays everybody's music. You can hear upon it just what you like--the old ballads, songs that your mother sang when you were a boy, and the latest popular sketch from comic opera. They are all sung equally well and are reproduced perfectly in your home by the Phonograph.

THAW IS IN ASYLUM

COURT HOLDS THAT HE IS A DANGEROUS LUNATIC.

Prisoner Says Path to Liberty Is Open Through Habeas Corpus Proceedings—Alienists Employed by Defense Arrive at Hospital.

New York, Feb. 3.—Adjudged not guilty of the murder of Stanford White by reason of insanity at the time the fatal shots were fired, Harry Kendall Thaw was held by the court to be a dangerous lunatic and was whirled away to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan. It was a quick transition from the dingy little cell in the Tombs, which had been the young man's home for more than eighteen months, to the white-bedded wards of the big asylum tucked away on the snow-covered sloping banks of the Hudson river, fifty miles above the city. The verdict came after twenty-five hours of waiting, when everyone connected with the case had abandoned every hope of an agreement ever being reached in this or any other trial. Four hours after the foreman's lips had framed the words, "Not guilty," with the accompanying insanity clause, Thaw, protesting he was sane, was on his way to Matteawan. A little after midnight he had been received in the institution under commitment papers, which directed his detention "until discharged by due course of law."

Begins Routine of Simple Life.
Thaw began the routine of a simple life, which the authorities at the hospital say will make his long stay in the Tombs prison in New York city seem like the height of gaiety in comparison. The new patient in the observation ward slept soundly the first night, the presence of the fifty other men in the dormitory not giving him the slightest concern. He arose in the morning at 6 o'clock and ate a hearty breakfast at the "knife and fork table."

Only fifty-four men out of the more than seven hundred in the institution are allowed this privilege, the others being restricted to spoons. Thaw seemed much refreshed from his sound sleep. About five hundred men were in the main dining room when Thaw reached the breakfast table, and he was the center of attention. The noverty of the noted patient's presence had not worn off by dinner time and he was compelled again to eat under the scrutiny of many eyes. No arrangements for specially prepared meals having yet been made for him, Thaw shared the hospital fare with all the others. His dinner included roast pork, potatoes, sauer kraut, bread, butter and coffee.

Attends Divine Services.
Thaw attended divine services in the hospital auditorium, conducted by the Rev. Harry Sheldon, pastor of the Fishkill Landing Methodist Episcopal church. One hundred patients were present and Thaw had expressed a desire to attend.

Thaw declared to one of the attendants that he probably would not be in the hospital more than one week. He said his lawyers would sue out a writ habeas corpus in his behalf and he was sure he would be allowed his liberty as the result of a hearing in court or an inquiry before a commission.

During his stay in the observation ward prior to being assigned to some particular division or to private quarters, Thaw will be under the immediate supervision of Dr. A. T. Baker, one of the medical assistants to Superintendent Lamb. Dr. Baker said he would not allow Thaw to have liquor and tobacco unless his condition seemed to demand them for a time in medical moderation.

Thaw brought a large sum of money with him to the hospital, but finding he would not be allowed its custody, handed it to a newspaper man, who turned it over to his counsel. During the week provision will be made by the family for special meals and table delicacies for Thaw, the money being placed in the hands of the attorneys.

Dr. Britton D. Evans of Morris Plains and Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe of New York, alienists, arrived at the hospital. They were employed by the defense in both trials of Harry K. Thaw, and while both evaded questions regarding their presence here, it is said they came at the instigation of Mrs. William Thaw, to examine her son and be prepared with evidence when habeas corpus proceedings are brought up to liberate him.

Port au Prince, Jan. 28.—The government troops occupied Gonaives without any resistance.

MANUEL IS NOW KING

DICTATOR FRANCO GIVES UP POWER IN PORTUGAL.

Boy Succeeds Father Who Died, With Crown Prince, by Assassins' Bullets at Lisbon—Queen Weeps Beside Biers of Husband and Son.

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—All Portugal is overwhelmed at the killing of the king and the crown prince. Though torn by internal dissensions the past few months, uprisings in the streets, outrages with knife and bomb and always fearful lest these signs of revolution would culminate in some dreadful outburst of passion, Portugal was not prepared for the blow that fell Saturday, when King Carlos and Prince Luiz Philippe were shot to death in a public place, where thousands had gathered to greet their home-coming. All night Queen Amelie, in the royal palace, sat between the biers where rested the bodies of her husband and her son, prostrated with grief.

Details of Assassination.
No more beautiful day could be imagined than that which will mark the day on which King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz met their death at the hands of assassins. Returning from a sojourn at the king's estate, at Villa Vicosa, accompanied by the queen, the crown prince and the infant Manuel, the sovereign seemingly was in happy mood when he stepped into the carriage in waiting at the railroad station. All the surrounding streets were filled with gay, light-hearted throngs, waiting to greet the king, and, though guards were stationed all along the route, no one had thought of the dastardly attempt which was to come. The people were allowed to circulate as freely as they pleased and for a short time so great were the crowds the driver of the carriage had difficulty in making a start. It was because of the beautiful weather that an open carriage was in waiting for the royal family, and when they took their places they were greeted with some lifting of hats, but mostly in silence.

Shot to Death in Carriage.
Then, as the carriage turned into the Rua do Arsenal, there was a cracking of guns and a shower of bullets tore their way into the bodies of the king and crown prince and the little prince, who proved an easy target. The assassins, numbering six in all, boldly ran up to the sides of the carriage and poured in a hail of bullets before the stupefied escort could intervene. The king and crown prince, half rising, fell back onto the cushions, the blood gushing from many wounds. The coachman brought his whip across the flanks of his horses and with a bound they dashed away, disappearing into the arsenal quadrangle. The panic stricken people, who had fled on all sides, could see the queen leaning over the crown prince and her younger son, who also was bleeding from wounds made by the assassins' bullets.

How many shots were fired no one can say, but it was a veritable fusillade coming from the right side of the street. The effort of the crown prince, who was sitting opposite to the king, to rise, was pitiful, and without avail, for he just lifted himself sufficiently to pitch forward and fall over the prostrate body of his father. Queen Amelie, uttering a scream that could be heard by all who had not become frenzied by the attack, threw herself towards her sons, shielding their bodies with her own. She frantically struck at the murderers with a bouquet of roses which she had been carrying, but even in the face of this the men fired again and again. As he saw his father and his brother fall, Prince Manuel whipped out a revolver and discharged it at the men, but was himself struck on the right arm by a bullet from a carbine. A footman in the carriage also was wounded, and it was stated that a bullet grazed the queen's shoulder, but did not do her harm.

Three Regicides Slain.
Only mounted police accompanied the carriage, as the king had refused military escort. The attack came from the rear, for it was found afterward that the king had been shot in the back of the neck, and it was so entirely unexpected that the murderers had emptied their carbines and revolvers almost before the police knew what was going on, and had turned to flee into the crowds that now, panic-stricken, had dropped back before their weapons. Then the guard charged upon them, pursuing them down the street and riddling three of them with bullets. Hundreds of the people joined in the pursuit, and the others were made prisoners.

Boy King on Throne.

A boy king, who henceforth will be known as Manuel II, is today the ruler of the Kingdom of Portugal and the revolution into which the instigators of the bloody events of Saturday had hoped to plunge the country has not up to the present engulfed the nation.

Premier Franco has relinquished power and a new cabinet has been formed.

The republicans disclaim responsibility for the assassinations, which they lay at the doors of the anarchists, but the identification of a dead regicide as a cavalry sergeant is accepted by many officials as proof that the assassinations were the work of revolutionaries, who had successfully spread the propaganda, smuggled in arms and bombs and who, headed by prominent republicans, plotted to proclaim a republic a fortnight ago.

One of the remaining dead regicides has been identified as store clerk, or named Alfredo Costa.

GOLD LOOT RECOVERED

Two Bullion Bricks Found in Debris of Burned Saloon at Sidney.

Omaha, Feb. 1.—Superintendent Patterson of the Pacific Express company returned to Omaha from Sidney, Neb., bringing with him two large bricks of bullion, believed to represent part of the loot of a robbery of the company's office in Sidney, Neb., in March, 1880.

The metal was found buried in the debris of a saloon which burned two weeks ago. The robbery was the boldest of its kind ever committed in the west, and the bullion which had been received that day by stage from the Black Hills was valued at $12,000. One of the bricks was sold to the Denver mint a year after the robbery. Sheriff McCarthy, who then owned the saloon which burned recently, was believed to be the leader of the robber band, but the express company was unable to obtain his indictment. His brother was later hanged by vigilantes. McCarthy has been dead several years. Superintendent Patterson is trying to establish identification of the metal. He says the bullion value is indefinite, but he will have it assayed at once.

Records of the Pacific Express company show that $11,000 was paid to the shippers of the gold bricks stolen at Sidney.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED

Nebraska Delegation Will Hold Another Meeting Wednesday.

Washington, Feb. 3.—After two conferences extending over a long period of time members of the Nebraska delegation adjourned their caucus until Wednesday, at 4 o'clock, when they hope to select a successor to Elmer H. Stephenson, collector of internal revenue for the district of Nebraska. At the close of the second conference Representative Hinshaw, secretary of the delegation, announced that no agreement had been reached relative to a plan looking to the distribution of state-wide patronage, but that things looked bright for an agreement Wednesday.

Many Claims Contested.

Kimball, Neb., Feb. 3.—A larger number of contest cases than ever before are being heard by the clerk of the district court. The price of relinquishments of homesteads has gone so high, in many cases reaching $1,500, that people are watching every claim in the county for a chance to contest it. In about nine cases out of ten the contestant wins. The day when a shanty holds a homestead is past in Kimball county. One must live on the land now and cultivate it, doing his duty as a homesteader in strict compliance with the law.

No Extra Session in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Feb. 1.—Governor Sheldon said he would not call an extra session of the legislature for the passage of a law guaranteeing bank deposits. Resolutions recently passed by the Omaha Real Estate exchange expressed the need of an extra session for enacting such a law. "I have not received requests sufficient to justify me in calling an extraordinary session," said the governor.

Railway Board Orders New Depot.

Lincoln, Feb. 1.—The state railway commission passed a resolution declaring it had power to compel the building of railway depots, and passed a resolution ordering the Rock Island railroad to build one at the town of University Place. The commission went further in its decision and declared it had the power to compel construction whether the improvement is remunerative or not.

Eloping Couple Captured.

Omaha Feb. 3.—Detective Dunn and W. O. Stricker, an attorney of Aurelia, Ia., arrived in Omaha from Douglas, Neb., having in custody Lloyd Wilson, a barber of Aurelia, who is wanted in that town on the charge of adultery, having eloped Jan. 20 from that place with Miss Gertrude Waddell, the young daughter of O. D. Waddell, one of the wealthiest and most prominent men of northwestern Iowa.
