

CONSTANCY—My Valentine.

By WALTER HURT.

By the garlanded gate of the garden I wait,
Where the reddest of roses run riot,
Where the brown thrush a unadorned sings to his mate
And quivers his tongue through the quiet.
In the languorous dusk of the lavender dusk
I pray for your promised returning;
Through the marvelous mist of the dawn's amethyst
The watch-fires of Love still are burning.
While softest of skies with the depths of your eyes
Their blessing of blue benediction above you,
With all its beats my fondest heart repeats:
"I love you—I love you—I love you."

In the dust of distrust, in the blight of the night,
Whatever of woe may betide me,
I reach out my hands over desolate sands
And find your own ready to guide me.
When life becomes strife with miseries rife
And gladness goes down in the gloom,
I grope toward the grace of your jasmine face—
And the world is a garden in bloom.
In a thousand of years with their teaching of tears
My lips learn to tell how they miss you;
In reverent dreams forever it seems
I kiss you, and kiss you, and kiss you.

When June is a swoon 'neath the kisses of noon,
Or yet in the nights of November,
My faith is without any season of doubt
The dreams of the past to dismember.
While Memory creeps back through the twilight of Time
To pause at the place where we parted
And pluck from the dust a poor fragment of rhyme
Love dropped at your feet, broken-hearted.
And though well I know wherever you go
That heaven's sweet care will caress you,
I ceaselessly pray through the dark and the day—
"God bless you, and bless you, and bless you."

Coughs of Children

Especially night coughs. Nature needs a little help to quiet the irritation, control the inflammation, check the progress of the disease. Our advice is—give the children Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your doctor if this is his advice also. He knows best. Do as he says.

We publish our formulas
We banish alcohol from our medicines
We urge you to consult your doctor

Ayer's

If you think constipation is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. He will disabuse you of that notion in short order. "Correct it, at once!" he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills. A mild liver pill, all vegetable.

Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Wise and Otherwise.

The echo always has the last word!
Living on love is all right between meals!
It upsets a man terribly to lose his balance at the bank!
Many a black mustache has painted a young woman's face red!
It is not considered good form to ask the pork packer's wife to "render" something on the piano!

Many a husband is hungry for the love his wife wastes on the dog!

A woman's darned curiosity is always responsible for the husband's lies!

Many men believe honesty pays in the long run, but they are too fat to run long!

The Diogenes of today, hunting for an honest man, would have his lantern stolen!

Many a man would sacrifice the biscuits mother used to make for the dough that uncle made!

It almost makes a man a woman hater when he thinks it is only the female mosquitoes that bite him!

The man about to be operated on for an enlarged liver sent for a minister. He wanted to be opened with prayer!

A bald-headed man will stand for hours watching flies get stuck on fly paper, and feel only partially revenged at that!

Too many rich philosophers tell you that money doesn't make happiness, and then they go out and sandbag everybody in sight for more of the filthy lucre.

When an office girl takes pity on a stray cat she usually goes out, buys a nickel's worth of pickles and then wonders why the cat is so ungrateful as not to eat them.

A fellow who had been criticised by the editor of a local newspaper applied to a lawyer to know how to break up the paper and run it six months. He was charged $2 for the advice.

Passing through a certain part of the country one day a stranger read this sign: "Danger! If any man or woman lets his or her cow stray into this here cornfield, his or her tail shall be cut off, as the case may be."

A St. James, Mo., newspaper office was shot into with buckshot by the local grocer because of his ad, which should have read: "A fresh stock of dairy butter daily." The printer used an "h" instead of a "d" in the word "dairy." The printer takes more chances than any other man on earth.

A merchant asked an editor in a certain Michigan town to roast the city administration for letting an itinerant peddler come in and undersell him on goods. This is what the editor wrote: "City Dads—You will hereby take notice that you are roasted for permitting peddlers to sell goods here. The merchant for whom we do this favor has his job printing done in Chicago."

A negro arraigned in a south Missouri court on the charge of stealing a cow pleaded not guilty. "Ah nevah stole dat cow," he explained to the judge. "Yoh Honah, she took a fancy toe me and follered me home. Ah tried ter shoo her back, but, no sah, she wouldn't go. Dat night she bawled so hahd Ah had ter let huh in my bahn so's mah fambly could git some sleep."

One winter afternoon Mark Twain took the train for his home, but a terrific snowstorm was raging, and about half way to his suburb the train was snowed in. All night the passengers were imprisoned, but early in the morning they managed to reach a nearby telegraph station and Mark sent the following dispatch to his office: "Will not be in the office. Have not got home yesterday yet."

He Always Remembered.

A smile lurked at the corners of Mrs. Lombard's mouth as she listened to the plaint of the school friend whom she had not seen for more than ten years. "I'm afraid, dear," she said, "you'll have to reconstruct some of your plans. You see, I married a forgetful man too."

"Why, you told me not ten minutes ago that your husband had never yet forgotten your birthday or your wedding anniversary," cried her friend, "and you told me you'd been married nearly eleven years! That's ever since the year after father took us all abroad."

"Yes," said Mrs. Lombard demurely, "I have. That's a long time, isn't it? But, you see, one thing was in my favor—I was born on the Fourth of July. Mr. Lombard couldn't very well forget the national holiday. And as soon as I'd found out how forgetful he was I decided to be married on another holiday."

"I suppose as you were abroad you didn't realize that the date of my wedding was unusual—people aren't often married on the 22d of February, I think. But, you see, by a little judicious planning I've been saved the necessity of reminding him about our anniversary."—Youth's Companion.

Sweetly Thoughtful.

The De Jones back lawn was a lawn in name only. It was really an arid desert—bald, so to speak—and in dry weather it was always as dusty as a motor track. To the astonishment of Mrs. De Smythe, who lived next door, she one day saw her devoted husband turning the garden hose upon the De Jones "lawn."

"Well, I never!" she exclaimed. "I'm sure I wouldn't trouble to lay the dust in the De Jones' back yard. John, especially as they are such a hateful lot of gossips. Small thanks you'll get for your trouble anyway."

Hubby turned to his better half with a smile which told of mixed pleasure and vindictiveness.

"That's all right, my dear. Their darling little Flido was washed snow white this morning. Now he's out there rolling about like a barrel and rubbing the mud well into his fleecy coat. Trust your husband, my sweet, for real, unadulterated thoughtfulness!"—London Scraps.

Women and "Sport."

When a big shoot takes place in the coverts near one of our country houses the occasion is made a sort of society gathering. The ladies of the house party grace it with their presence, and other ladies of the neighborhood are glad to be allowed the honor of such company. Thus a large and fashionable party assembles, and while each beat is in progress the girls and women try to look on unmoved while a wounded hare kicks and squeals upon the ground for minutes which seem interminable to the sensitive onlooker until the beat is over and the dogs are loosed to finish off the cripples. And, though the hare's piteous shrieking makes its case seem the worst, the mere tumbling over and over of a wounded bird is a shocking sight to see as the time passes and no one goes forward to release it of its life.—London Mail.

An essay on the piano by Jimmy Jones: "A pianer are a insterment of torshure, made mostly to annoy the nabors on. Everybody in the naborhood's got it in for the gurl that bangs the pianer. It are for many purposes, one of which are for the young swel wot comes to see his gurl. At them times she alus tunes you can't tell apart, which is classikal music. Unkel Bill sais if he goes ter hell he nos the devil'll put him in a room with a gurl who plais classikal songs on a pianer."

Mrs. J. C. Wolf.

Mrs. Martha A. Wolf, aged 65 years, died Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Reed, east of Red Cloud. Funeral services were held Monday, conducted by Rev. G. W. Hummel.

An old lady was carefully brushing her hair one morning in winter in the presence of a small grandson. As is usual when the air is cold and crisp, her hair was bristling. "Why, grandmother, what makes your hair stick out like that?" asked the small boy in wonder. "Only the electricity that gets into my hair these days," she replied. "Well, if we haven't got the funniest family I ever saw! You've got electricity in your hair and ma's got gas in her stomach."
