Mack Fentress, accompanied by a friend who was on the same battleship with him, came in Saturday from the west. Two well known citizens of Inavale, who were in Red Cloud Saturday, took the evening train for home. One of them happened to be "broke," and when the conductor asked for his fare he raised a rumpus. The conductor threatened to put him off the train, whereupon his companion offered to pay his fare. This so enraged the party of the first part that he took a smash at the party of the second part, landing heavily upon him. Next time "Bill" offers to pay "How's" fare—he won't.

On account of some dissatisfaction on the part of some members of the band the new leader, Mr. Bert Tansey, resigned at last night's meeting of the organization. The major portion of the members express themselves as having been well satisfied with Mr. Tansey's leadership, but he could not be prevailed upon to remain and listen to the "knocking" of recalcitrant members. Upon inquiry we learn that Mr. Tansey is as able a cornetist as the Red Cloud boys have been able to secure, being courteous and gentlemanly to all. As a last resort the band will be compelled to "knock out" the jealous "knockers."

About 10 o'clock last night when the electric light plant blew a half dozen intermittent blasts those who heard it fell to wondering what could possibly have happened. Others hurried to the plant find that Mr. Green, the night dynamo attendant and engineer, had placed the index finger of his left hand on one of the dice-box valves while oiling and accidentally had the first joint cut off. Being in much pain he could not keep up steam with one hand and fearing that the lights would go out he whistled for help. He was accompanied to town by some of the visitors when Drs. Creighton and Mitchell dressed the wound. This morning Mr. Green seems as good natured as ever, but one can sense the pain back his good humor.

President Steward having unexpectedly resigned as manager of the Red Cloud Business college, the public spirited citizens of Red Cloud at once deemed it incumbent upon themselves to secure the management of the college without necessitating a loss of either time or money to those in attendance. With this object in view, a committee having been duly appointed, conferred with the board of education to secure their consent to appoint Prof. Moritz as manager of the college. The request of the committee being favorably considered, the commercial club in conjunction with other prominent business men of the city assumed financial control and have instructed Prof. Moritz to reorganize the school and place it upon a permanent and stable basis. The college being financed by the leading business men of the city is a guarantee in itself of its future stability. Under the reorganization thorough instruction will be given in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic and penmanship and students are invited to enter at any time for instruction along these lines.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

On Thursday evening of last week a number of the W. C. T. U. ladies took the oratorical contest class to Cowles to give them the opportunity of contesting again. A warm welcome awaited our arrival there. Arrangements had been made for our entertainment and a committee of girls of that little burg escorted us to their various homes, where we received a hearty welcome. In the evening we were greeted by an appreciative audience and at the close of the entertainment the chorus was requested to again sing "De Walls Am Comin' Down," to which they responded. The medal was awarded to Ethel Wisecarver and was presented by Rev. Myers of M. E. church. During the time required for the decision of the judges Elizabeth Overman recited the selection which won her the medal at the contest here. Like all the others it was received with an ovation. Rev. Myers extended thanks for the evening's entertainment with an invitation for us to again visit them. We are sure that every member of the visiting party will always carry a warm spot in their heart for the people of Cowles, and we are also sure that they deserve rich blessings.

What's the matter with Red Cloud? She's all right. When the parents of fourteen families will give their daughters for a temperance entertainment and so willingly lend their assistance is it any wonder we exclaim she's all right? And what is the matter with the ministers, the newspapers, the

The legislature of Ohio has passed the Rose county option bill by a vote of 79 to 36. It provides that elections may be held in any county to vote on the question of banishing the saloons, and in the event of any county going "wet" no township or residence district shall be effected thereby. Stringent regulations have made for the enforcement of the law, which does not go into effect until the first of September.

Traveling Man Goes Insane.

A. J. Moore of Villisca, Iowa, a traveling salesman for the Hand-Sewed Shoe Co. of Omaha, went insane at his room in the Hotel Royal in this city Monday evening, and for a time made things lively for the employes of that hostelry. It seems that Moore had been indulging in the flowing bowl too freely and became afflicted with paresis. Monday evening he came down from his room and, standing in the doorway leading to the office of the hotel, declared that some one was trying to kill him. He repeated this performance several times, until Marshal Kincaid and Sheriff Hedge were summoned, when he was finally confined to his room under guard. His wife was notified and she wired Sheriff Hedge to bring him home. The sheriff left with the demented man for Villisca on No. 11 Wednesday morning.

A New York detective says there are probably at least 1,000 men in that city living under names assumed after reaching the age of twenty-one years, many of them respected and trusted citizens. He adds, "Men who have been unfortunate in other cities, who have committed some petty crime and want to hide from the world, come here to begin life anew, leaving their old names and reputation behind."
