The recital given by Miss Josie Igon's pupils at the Congregational church Tuesday evening was largely attended by an appreciative audience. The program was made up of piano and vocal solos and duets. Each performer is deserving of special mention, but time and space will not permit. Sufficient to say that each one was almost perfect in their part, and the performance reflects great credit on the ability of Miss Igon as an instructor. The entertainment was a great treat for those who were permitted to be present.

Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia:—His sentences were rounded and polished. His rhetoric was above reproach, and his oratory equal to that of a Clay or a Webster.
E. U. Overman has let the contract for the architectural plans for his new residence to C. W. Way of Hastings, and work will begin on the structure at once.
Ed Overing brought a sample of gooseberries to this office that he picked in Iowa, and they were certainly "whoppers." They were almost as large as the ordinary wild plum.
Miss Edna Breneman of New London, Iowa, and Miss Gladys Zimm of West Point, Ill., who have been visiting with their uncle, E. U. Overman, and family, returned home Thursday.
Journal, Atlanta, Georgia:—As a lecturer J. G. Camp of Georgia is the equal of Gov. Bob Taylor or John Temple Graves, and as an eloquent speaker he cannot be surpassed in the South.
I have heard Wendling, Gonsalus, Dixon, Graves, Burdette, Conwell and McIntyre. We never had a man on our lecture course who gave such universal satisfaction as did Camp.—Chas. T. Schenk, Monroe, Iowa. At the Red Cloud Chautauqua.
Coulter, Urbana, Ill.:—Joseph G. Camp, the orator of the South, was great. He is a natural orator. His southern accent is especially pleasant. His philosophy is sound, and his thought is expressed in beautiful language. His lecture is decidedly poetical and eloquent. His rhetoric is beyond reproach.
E. J. Overing Jr. and family returned home from Leighton, Iowa, Wednesday morning, where they had been visiting relatives. At Ashland they had a serious time, having to get off the train and walk across bridges the train could not cross. The bridge at one place went out just a few minutes after they had crossed, and Ed says it is as close a call as he cares for.

Balm for the Aged.
The aged parent was greatly, very greatly, in the dumps.
"For, look you," he said, "I don't know half as much as my eldest daughter—she told me so a hundred times; and Jim and Bill can simply lay it all over their dad when it comes to arguing; and my wife says that if ever there was a stupid man about the house it's me and no mistake."
"But," we said, "remember you have the bulge of them in one way. Limited as your intellect may be, you are still the only one of the bunch that can earn the daily soup and salad."
The aged parent now smiled and went his way completely reassured by our specious reasoning.—Puck.
New Peril for French Navy.
France faces a new peril in opium—not new in the strictest sense, but assuming new proportions, as evidenced in the recent trial for treason of the naval officer, Ulmo. French naval officers say that the use of opium, smoked, is general among both officers and men of all ages, though it is asserted by them that officers do not indulge their taste in this way while on the sea. Apologists even assert that the "moderate" use of the drug, "with frequent and long interruptions," is a good tonic. This frankness betrays a state of mind of serious import. How to check the use of opium and how to inculcate in the navy a sentiment against it is a big problem.
