NUMBER 43

ONE mistake men often make is in not having clothes enough. They seem to think two suits of clothes bought at one time, or two overcoats, would be extravagant.

The fact is, if you buy our Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes, two suits or two overcoats at a time would be economy. A raincoat, shown here, or a fancy fabric overcoat for daily wear; and a black or oxford overcoat for dress occasions; a fancy weave suit of some new color and pattern for business, and a black or blue serge for changing occasionally, and for dressier times; every man ought to have such an outfit.

You'd find it economy; and the clothes will all last longer if you don't wear them continuously; get them pressed occasionally.

We want to see our customers dressed right. We'll take care of it for you if you'll let us.

The State Journal is trying awful hard to get people to give that daily a trial. Its offer now is to send the paper from date until January 1, 1909, for only 50 cents without Sunday, or 75 cents with Sunday. The publishers feel sure that anyone who tries The State Journal will stick. However, they have adopted an absolute rule of stopping every subscriber when his term is out. If there is anything that makes a man mad it is to subscribe for a city daily and then have to fight with the publishers to get it stopped or pay for something he doesn't want. The Journal's new plan will be popular.

For the Alfalfa Palace.

Just how to cure alfalfa and what sized plants to send to the Alfalfa Palace in Omaha, which is to be one of the interesting buildings of the National Corn Exposition, has been a puzzle to some growers, but William James, superintendent of the Nebraska alfalfa exhibit, has sent out a circular to Nebraska growers which contains some information for growers in all sections where alfalfa is an important farm product.

Samples for exhibition should consist of medium sized stalks with the heaviest possible foliage, leaves free from rust or fungus growth, well cured and in sheaves three or four inches in diameter at the point where tied near the center of the sheaf", writes Mr. James.

To cure alfalfa for exhibition do not allow the samples to lay in the sunlight after they are cut. When the stalks are secured, tie a string around the butts, placing from fifteen to thirty stalks on a string. Make the sheaves small and prevent mould. Hang them up in a dark room to cure. When cured take down carefully, pack in a box and ship on a damp day if possible.

The Nebraska superintendent is also securing samples from growers showing the largest possible amount of bloom; alfalfa heads containing the largest quantity of seed, and plants showing as much of the roots as possible.

The admission of the National Corn Exposition to be held at Omaha, December 9 to 19, is to be 50 cents, but the board of directors decided at a recent meeting to reduce the admission to 25 cents for the exhibition opens, which may be ordered from the management of the exposition, room 600-67-608, Bee Building, Omaha. These commutation tickets contain thirty-two admissions in all, for morning, afternoon and evening admission and sell for $5. They will not be sold under any circumstances after the exposition opens in December.
