SEE WATCH FROZEN IN ICE

Many view Strange Test of timekeeping This Week. Frozen Solid But Still Keeps Perfect Time.

What is probly the most unique and altogether remarkable exhibition of timekeeping quality in a watch, will take place next week at the store of Newhouse Brothers, Jewelers and Watchmakers. This is nothing more nor less than a standard South Bend Watch taken out of stock and frozen in a solid cake of ice.

As though it were an animate thing, it seems almost a cruelty to subject so delicate a piece of mechanism as a modern watch to this severe test, but the watch does not seem to mind it as much as the sympathetic looker-on. This test is simply a forcible and convincing demonstration of the fact that the movements of the South Bend Watches are adjusted to heat and cold in the most perfect manner ever achieved in the science of watchmaking. While the test is not entirely new, having previously been made at South Bend and other places, we believe, it is seen for the first time in Red Cloud.

This test is stated to be the most severe that a delicate timepiece can be subjected to and it speaks volumes for American enterprize and the skill of American watch makers that it has been possible to produce a watch so perfect in construction and adjustment that not even freezing it up can effect its timekeeping.

Indeed, so remarkable is the test that foreign watch makers who have so long boasted of their supremacy can not even now realize that it can be done.

One of the leading Paris jewelers' journals, "Revue de L'Horlogerie-Bijouterie," expressed surprise and disbelief even yet in the possibility of this test upon hearing of its having been made in a recent jewelers' convention in Chicgo. It is to prove its possibility that 10,000 leading jewelers' throughout the country are making this exhibition this week.

The fame of "the watch in the ice" has spread all over the world and it can be seen next week at the establishment of Newhouse Brothers. The superior timekeeping qualities of the South Bend Watch lie in its wonderful balance wheel which automatically adjusts it to heat and cold, and its perfect adjustment and construction.

The "watch in ice" will be on exhibition all next week, Nov. 15-21.
