Many of the good roads enthusiasts of the city went out this week in automobiles and worked the roads without money and without price. We are pleased to see this willingness on the part of our townsmen to be useful and take their part with the farmer and the road overseer in making country roads passable. A stitch in time saves nine and the better the roads the more valuable the land and the more peaceful the state of mind.

The Hastings correspondent to the Lincoln Daily Star certainly has a nose for sensationalism. In yesterday's issue of that paper appears an item stating that there had been a number of deaths in this vicinity and many cases of spinal meningitis, and that the state board of health had been appealed to as the local physicians were unable to cope with the disease. It is true that a fatal disease has appeared here, and whether it is spinal meningitis or not seems to be a mooted question among the physicians. However, no alarm need be felt as the local doctors have the cases well in hand and no further fatalities are reported. Blue Hill Leader.

Progressive business men, the fellows who are forging ahead, realize that judicious advertising is an important element of success. They have learned that no matter how good their wares may be or how good the values they offer, the buying public will not be aware of either unless their attention is called to them. If John Wanamaker finds that it pays to invest $500,000.000 a year in advertising the lesser lights find that an investment proportionate to their capital is likewise remunerative. If you have something the people want tell them so thru the medium of the newspaper. Sometimes we hear the remark that advertising does not pay, that it is money wasted but the evidence is all to the contrary. The sale of every meritorious article can be greatly augmented by the right kind of advertisements. Get before the public and keep there. When you buy space be sure to word your talk so that it will bring results.

Why is there always a dearth of news when we are not inspired? Why does the warm weather come in the summer time and why are we not always at our best? Its easier, far easier to sit in the shade of the old elm tree and dream than it is for the editor to produce articles of human interest from the gentle breezes which fan the leaves. But when great drops of perspiration drop down the editorial pen and burn the copy inspiration lies itself over the back yard fence and the beautiful sentiments rush to the "twilight zone" and refuse to arrange themselves in tangible form. Editors are human so long with us yet a little while till the North wind makes its accustomed visit and our inspiration (disposition to work) returns.

August 9th will surely be a red letter day in the history of this city. Two rival attractions each great in themselves will exert their utmost powers to draw the attention of the people.

For the first time since this country was settled by the whites they will be given opportunity to hear the celebrated forecaster of the weather, L. H. Hicks, and it may be the last time. Those of us who have followed his prognostic for years have reached the conclusion long ago that his forecasts are not the result of skillful guessing but are determined by careful observations and long study. That there is a reason for more rain in this country during recent years is unquestioned and undoubtedly Mr. Hicks will give us much information along this and other lines.

The other attraction is Campbell Bros. circus which has gained an enviable reputation for the excellence of its performance. We have this solution to offer. Let the children attend the circus and the adults hear Mr. Hicks. Shows are all very similar and having seen one is the same as seeing all, but we cannot possibly afford to miss the opportunity of hearing the great lecture on the laws of nature and the weather.

After these entertainments are concluded the base ball game will lull both crowds.
