TUNA A REMARKABLE FISH

Swaggering Musketeer of the Sea is the Largest of the Game or Bony Fishes.

Charles Frederick Holder, the California naturalist, thus describes that remarkable fish the tuna: "The tuna is a pelagic fish, a free lance, an ocean rover, a sort of swaggering musketeer of the sea, the largest of what may be termed the game or bony fishes, attaining a maximum weight of nearly 2,000 pounds and an approximate length of fourteen feet or more. Such a fish is very exceptional, though specimens weighing 1,500 pounds have been taken on the New England coast. I once entered a school in a big launch. The school divided to port and starboard as we passed through it, and I had a view of one or two fishes that appeared to be more than half as long as the boat.

"These fishes spend the winter in warm latitudes, and migrate north as far as the mouth of the St. Lawrence. They are found in the Mediterranean, and north, to the Loffoden island; yet so far the efforts of anglers, except at Santa Catalina, have failed to take them with the rod. Even here there is a stretch of but eight miles or so where they can be satisfactorily played and taken with rod and reel.

"This region lies on the north side of Santa Catalina, from Avalon to Long Point, and to the east as many more, facing the north, and generally smooth—more like a Scottish loch than a fishing ground 20 miles out to sea."

TAMENESS OF A SEA LION

Old Ben, Weighing Half a Ton, is Often Met on the Streets of Avalon.

In describing the islands lying off the southern coast of California Frederick Holder writes: "The feature which will really amaze the wanderer among the Channel Islands is the tameness of some animals. To meet a bull sea lion weighing approximately half a ton on the main avenue of a town, 50 feet from the water, is a possibility of a startling nature, yet I have seen Old Ben, the head of the Santa Catalina sea lion rookery, on Crescent avenue, Avalon, surrounded by tourists who snapped their cameras at him with impunity.

"At that time Ben could be induced to come ashore when the lure was a fat, long-finned tuna, but one day he climbed upon the wharf, coming entirely up the steps, following the man with a fish. Then some unreasonable person made a threatening demonstration; Ben started for the step, lost his hold, slipped and fell, smashing them and wounding himself. For a long time he remembered this, but gradually his faith in human beings has returned.

"He is good-tempered and never attempts to bite. But he is a savage looking animal, and when he comes leaping up on the boat landing, driving off women and children by mere ferocity of appearance, and seizing their fish, as he did recently, he makes a very clever imitation of a ferocious beast."

A New One.

Nimble wits and a glib tongue frequently save erring New York "coppers" on trial before the deputy commissioner at police headquarters. Not long ago a giant patrolman, accused of being about a quarter of a mile off his beat, evaded this excuse: "You see, it was like this, your honor. I was patrolling my post, when I thought I heard a man up the street yelling 'Fire! Fire!' I ran in the direction of the sound, and would you believe me, Mr. Commissioner, there stood a fellow out on the sidewalk trying to wake up a friend of his on the second floor, and he was yelling with all his might, 'Meyer! Meyer!'" "Well, that's a brand new one," said the trial commissioner, the suspicion of a smile crossing his face. "Complaint dismissed."

ODD FELLOWS CELEBRATE.

Photographed by Stevens Brothers, Red Cloud, Nebraska.

One of the most enjoyable banquets that it was impossible for him to deliver an after dinner speech, but as the committee insisted he sought the services of an attorney. He went to Bro. Overman who prevailed upon him to do his best and write out the speech. This he did and then Bro. Overman suggested that they change speeches because he had spoken so often that people would welcome something new. This was done. "But," said Mr. Garber, "After hearing my speech delivered I am ashamed to give his," and sat down. The house was immediately in an uproar, and so it was through the entire program.

Those present expressed themselves freely concerning the pleasure they enjoyed and one and all declared that they had never attended a more successful gathering. The Odd Fellows of this city have received a new impetus from the honor of the state has conferred upon them by selecting one of their number to hold the highest office in the gift of Odd Fellowship. This lodge is increasing rapidly in members and expects before long to build a new modern lodge building when will accommodate present requirements. It has already a comfortable sum of money at interest and is in an excellent financial condition. It seeks its membership from the substantial element in all walks of life and has made an enviable record. Here's hoping that the lodge will grow in members, service and efficiency.

She Knew Who Peter Was.

It was at a Sunday school examination, and the superintendent was showing off the results of his labors. During the exercises he asked the children who could tell him anything about Peter. No one answered. The question was repeated several times till finally a little girl held up her hand. "Well, my dear," said the superintendent, "that's right; I am glad to see that there is one little girl who will put these larger boys and girls to shame." The little girl came forward to the platform and was told to tell the audience what she knew of Peter. She put her finger in her mouth, and looking very smiling said:

Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater, Had a wife and couldn't keep her; Put her in a pumpkin shell, And there he kept her very well. Amid the roar that followed she hurried gaily to her seat.
