One of the most embarrassing things a country editor has to contend with is the disposition of people to wait until the last moment of going to press and then rush in with their items which they "want in this week sure." This is particularly the case with those who wish to make announcements which they expect to have inserted gratis. People do not reflect upon the fact that the paper is made up during the whole week and that its capacity is limited to just so much and the matter gauged accordingly. If the editor should await the convenience of those who have something they want published he would not get his paper out until the next week and then he would have to delay two or three days until some kind friend had made up his mind about a notice he wants in but which he hasn't been able to prepare just to suit him. A great many people don't get their notices published in consequence of this disposition to put off to the last minute, but those not interested never notice the omission; the paper appears on time and the world moves on just the same.

Charles Zinn Overman.
Born September 25th, 1903; entered the "upper fold" July 30th, 1911; seven years, ten months, five days; brief record of a rare and beautiful life.

Yet brief as it was, it revealed the forces that make successful the longest life; born apparently sound and healthy, there was early developed the fact of disease, which, although its character was finally determined and understood, yet baffled medical skill, and the body became emaciated and for many months his life was very uncertain, but finally he rallied slowly, and with a masterful spirit he overcame measurably the obstacle of ill health and became physically quite strong. At five years of age he entered the public school and for three annual periods did excellent work, maintaining very high grades; promoted regularly to the third grade, he was not permitted to take up its work, but received higher promotion instead, and is already in that school where "they do always see the face" of the Divine Teacher, and are "as the angels of God."

Although a child, he was eager to assume the obligations of mature life. Almost anything in the way of definite accomplishment pleased him, and he worked unremittingly.

Yearning for the large excitement that the coming years would yield, eager-hearted as a boy when first he leaves his father's field.

His singular spirit of manliness is attested by the fact that he was known among his classmates and comrades as "Charles," very seldom indeed as "Charley." He was the acknowledged leader of his class because of the genius of accomplishment which he possessed. His mental grasp of fact and event was very noticeable. A sermon or a lecture, especially if devoid of needless repetitions and platitudes, secured his attention unwearingly to the end, and his lustrous eyes confirmed to others the vision of truth which he had gained. With others of his class in school he was a great lover of flowers, and the humblest blossom by the roadway had its refining lesson to his heart and led him to "Look through nature up to nature's God."

His last illness was brief, and there was in its anxious hours a recurrence of those weary days when love fanned the spark of life into the flame which lasted for seven precious years, but waned and flickered feebly, and went out. "God's finger touched him and he slept."

Then fell upon the house a sudden gloom: A shadow on those features fair and thin; And softly from that hushed and darkened room.

Two angels issued, where but one went in. "Safe in the arms of Jesus," "Until the day break, and the shadows flee away," he sweetly rests.

In the glory of the eternal morning those who loved and ministered to him here shall meet him, and know him, and abide with him through the changeless years of God.

To Our Friends.

We hereby most sincerely thank you for the great kindness shown us in our sad bereavement. You have taught us the blessed fact that there are so many loving, sympathetic hearts among the people of Red Cloud. We are thankful to have raised our family and lived among you. Our prayer is that we may ever merit your friendship and in some way, in a measure, repay your kindness.

Mitchell-Chaffin (Deceased)

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell Sunday afternoon, July 30, at five o'clock, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Pearl, to Mr. Leroy L. Chaffin, Perry E. Henry officiating. The wedding was a very quiet one, besides the members of the family only, two Miss Bailes and Mrs. Henry, were present. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the dining room, where all enjoyed the bountiful repast prepared for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaffin took the early Monday morning train for points in the western part of the state, where they will spend a couple of weeks visiting before settling down in their new home. Both are well known in this vicinity, having been born and raised in Webster county. The groom is one of Webster county's industrious young farmers, while the bride will well know how to take her place in the kitchen as a farmer's wife. Surely all who know Roy and Florence will join us in wishing them a pleasant and prosperous journey through life.

To Automobile Owners.

The next meeting of the Webster County Automobile association is to be held in Cowles, Thursday, August 17th, and you are urgently invited to attend and add your name to the roll if you are not already a member. There is work for us to do. L. E. FAIR, Secretary.
