BAD BOY IN THE GROCERY

He Raised Cain With the Cat, the Beans and Other Things, but Suffered Later.

A bad boy entered a grocery store in Bridge street.

"What'll it be, son?" asked the grocer.

"Give me a smoked herring, and wrap it up," said the boy. Then he looked around for diversion.

The store cat was asleep in the sawdust. The boy put his foot on the cat's paw. The cat kowled with pain and fled for the shelter of the cracker barrel.

A bag of beans was standing in reach. The boy kicked a hole in the bag, so that the beans ran out on the floor.

"You're a fresh one, ain't you?" said the grocer.

"G'wan. Hurry up with that herring," replied the boy. "Can't you see that my time is valuable?"

A decayed orange lay on the floor beside the orange crate, waiting to be swept up. The boy carefully returned it to the crate.

Then he toyed with the dried beef cutter and put it out of gear, after which he knocked a stack of condensed cream cans into the dill pickle barrel.

"Here you are. Now get out," said the grocer, handing the boy a package. "I ought to spank you, only I'm busy, so I'll leave it for your mother to do."

In five minutes the boy entered the store again. He had the package in his hand and he had been crying.

"What did you go and give me a lamp chimney for, you lobster?" he said. "I told you I wanted a smoked herring."

"Didn't I give you a herring?" asked the grocer sympathetically. "That's too bad. What did your mother say?"

"What do you s'pose?" retorted the boy. "She licked me besides, and it's all your fault."—Newark News.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN TRUE

How Calhoun Webster With His Unfailing Optimism Had the Better of the Deacon.

Scott Bond, a rich Arkansas planter, said at the recent convention of the National Negro Business League in New York: "The open places are the places for you, the farm lands. You won't be sick out there, and the ground will love you like a brother."

"I a man optimist for my farm brother. I know he must succeed. And any argument you bring against his success I can answer optimistically. In fact, I'm like Calhoun Washington, who said bravely, no matter what misfortune happened, 'Well, it might have been worse.'"

"But the deacon thought he'd got the best of the optimist, Calhoun, and so he said to him one day: 'I had a dreadful dream last night. I thought I saw the bad place. There was a great lake of boiling, blazing pitch, and we all were swimming in it—you and I, and all our friends. And when we'd get near the shore and try to climb out,imps with horns and tails would jab red-hot pitchforks into our faces.'"

"Well, well," said Calhoun. He thought a moment, then he added: "But it might have been worse, eh?"

"How might it have been worse, you fool?" shouted the deacon, angrily.

"Why," said Calhoun, "it might have been true."

Brown Eyes and Color Blindness.
Color blindness is one of the great drawbacks to a large percentage of men who would enlist in the United States marine corps, according to the recruiting officers.

"We have a box filled with different colored yarn." Sergeant R. A. Drayton, of that branch of the service, said: "We ask the prospective recruit to pick out green, for instance, if he is color blind he will invariably pick all the red yarn. We place it all back in the box again and ask him to pick out the red. In nine cases out of ten out will come the green."

"Another strange thing I have noticed is that most persons who are color blind have brown eyes. Once in a while a person with eyes of a different color is affected that way, but as a general rule they are persons with brown eyes."

Girdled World in Auto.
Mrs. Harriet Fisher of Trenton, N. J., is known as the "anvil queen," being one of the largest manufacturers of anvils in the world. Last year she started out on a globe-girdling tour, taking with her a maid and a manservant. In thirteen months she completed her trip around the world, 18,000 miles of which she made in her car. During the whole journey she had no serious accidents, and although she penetrated far into the uncivilized regions of Asia, she experienced little more difficulty than if she had been touring in America.

A New Zealand Skate.
A letter just received at Portland recounts how a marine on his majesty's ship New Zealand while fishing over the side of the vessel in Whiddy bay, near Bantry, hooked an enormous skate. It was so heavy that six sailors were required to haul it onto the ship's deck. When at length aboard the vessel it was found to scale 137 pounds and to measure six feet from the nose to the tail and four feet six inches across the back. Its mouth was sufficiently capacious to take a large sized football.
