Retailers Will Have Good Time In Omaha

Omaha, Neb., March 5th. When the merchants of the state meet in annual convention in Omaha on March 12th, they are going to be busy from the time they reach the city. The program will take most of their time during the day. In the evenings it will be theatre parties and a big banquet, which will keep them busy.

On Tuesday evening, the opening day, a surprise entertainment will be offered. The committee in charge refuses to tell what it will be but it will be a good time, sure.

A surprise is also being arranged for the ladies on this evening. But the next night, March 13, the ladies and gentlemen will join in the banquet at the Hotel Rome and the theatre party at the Orpheum, which will follow.

L. C. Langhorst, president of the association, predicts the biggest attendance in the history of the association. More than 500 have already stated they were going to attend. Invitations have been sent to merchants in surrounding states, asking them to take part in the convention. Many from Kansas and Iowa and South Dakota will mingle with their Nebraska brethren and find out how things are done in the glorious commonwealth of Nebraska.

The convention will open on March 12th and last for three days. While the visitors are in Omaha, they will be guests of the city and will have the city turned over to them.

County Sunday school Convention

The interest in the County Sunday School Convention indicates that there will be a large proportion of the schools represented. But to get the best results, every school however remote, should have one or more delegates present.

Remember that this is the time when you can secure expert help in the solution of many problems. The state workers assigned to this convention, Miss Margaret E. Brown, Elementary Superintendent, and W. H. Kimberly Adult Superintendent, will be prepared to render all the assistance desired.

All pastors, superintendents, teachers, and others officially connected with the Sunday school, who are interested in knowing more about The Twentieth Century Sunday School, Graded Lessons, Organized Class Work, The Teen' Age, and many other phases of the work, should plan to be present. Plenty of time will be given to ask questions of the state workers.

Do not forget the time March 13-14, nor the place Red Cloud.

Christian Church

Sunday is the day for regular preaching both morning and evening. Morning subject "The Elect Lady and Her Mission." Evening, "How are We Saved?" Special music. Come and we will do thee good.—C. F. Rose.

Seed Special Benefit or not

There is less objection expressed these days to farm professors than there was a few years ago. Farmers generally and the public as well now know that it takes brains to operate a farm and that the old idea that a man could farm when he could not do anything else is outworn. The various seed-own specials which have been covering the state during the past week have again brought the matter up for discussion and it is a rare case indeed for a farmer to say that the man with the white collar is presumptuous when he attempts to tell the farmers how to farm. The facts are all the other way. For instance take the men who were with the special that held a session here last Thursday. These men were all farmers and successful ones too. Not only did they have the practical experience on the farm from boyhood up but they also received the technical education as given by our state agricultural school and hence they spoke with positive knowledge. In times past farmers selected their seed when planting time came and usually succeeded in getting a good stand but some times they failed. Scientific methods have demonstrated that no man can tell whether corn will grow or not until he has made a test of the seed. This year is an unusual one in that nearly seventy-five per cent of corn raised last year is unfit for seed because the germ is dead. No one wants to waste his time planting dead seed. These men have shown the farmers how to make a test of their seed corn so they will know before it goes into the ground whether it will grow or not.

The agricultural school is doing a vast amount of good by carrying on experiments which the farmer has not the time nor the facilities to do and he gets all the benefit. They have demonstrated that the best corn for seed is that which was raised in the immediate vicinity in which it is to be planted. In other words it is acclimated and is better than any imported seed. Seed gathered sixty miles away is less valuable than that gathered ten miles away. Length of the growing season, rainfall and soil conditions vary as we travel east or west. These special trains talked to seventy-two thousand people during last week in this state and if as a result of their lectures one bushel of corn be added to the average yield per acre it will mean a saving to Nebraska farmers of more than three million dollars. Certainly worth while.

Citizens Convention

The citizens convention met in the court house last night and put up the following ticket:

Mayor, D. W. Farnum.
Clerk, O. C. Teel.
Treasurer, S. R. Fierman.
Engineer, Geo. Overing.
Councilman 1st ward,
W. A. Stierwood, 2 year term.
W. R. Samuels, 1 year term.
Councilman 2nd ward,
F. W. Cowden, 2 year term.
Paul Stony, 1 year term.
Members of School Board,
Dr. E. A. Creighton.
Dr. T. A. Trumble.

There was a large attendance at this meeting and the utmost harmony prevailed. For the first time perhaps in the history of the city this convention was participated in by all parties. The republican party met Monday night and after perfecting an organization adjourned to meet with the citizens and after that organization had selected its candidates the republicans immediately called themselves together and endorsed the ticket.

The men nominated are among our best business men and we expect a most satisfactory administration. It would be difficult indeed to select a body of men from among our citizens who are better able to conduct the affairs of this city than the gentlemen selected. They all have the interests of the city at heart and are practical business men and they will act harmoniously together.

A New Law

The General Election Law of Nebraska, amended in 1911, provides that in the year 1912, and every four years thereafter, the primary election shall be held on the forty fifth day before the first Monday in June. The election boards are usually appointed to serve one year but the Attorney General has decided that the clause in the "each year before the primary" makes it necessary that the Clerk of the District appoint the new election board fifteen days prior to the date of the primary, which is April 19th.
