The Argus recognizes Theodore Roosevelt as the chosen candidate of the voters of the republican party in Nebraska and all the republican states. As such we shall support him earnestly.—Argus.

We were under the impression that Teddy had renounced all affiliation with the republican party and that he is going it alone but it seems that we have been mistaken since our esteemed contemporary has declared that he is the sure enough nominee of the grand old party.

All gossipers and tattlers are bad enough, but deliver us from a woman who tattles, one who from envy and jealousy will attempt to blight the fair name of the woman who has been her companion by making a house to house canvass, telling a tale here and one there, me thinks I can see the demon now, as she enters the home of the one she desires to injure by unfolding her story, she commences thus, "Oh, I have something to tell you," but you must not repeat it, it was just told to me and must surely be true, it is about Mary Doe, or Jane Roe. Mother says it is awful, and that I cannot go with her any more. You can see the evil in this tattler now. She has made the first thrust, stabbed her young friend in the back with the piece of false news, and thus she makes her rounds from place to place, doing all the harm she can. Reflect about this awful habit of talking too much, and shun a tattler as you would a rattlesnake.

The meeting arranged by the G. A. R. of this city to listen to the lecture of Hon. R. D. Sutherland on Abraham Lincoln was quite well attended. There was not as large an audience of scholars from the public schools as there should have been when a subject of this nature is represented by a speaker of Mr. Sutherland's reputation and ability. For the more advanced pupils, few exercises are more profitable than to listen to a speech on a subject with which they should have knowledge, by a man in whom they should have some interest, and then participate with their teacher in a criticism of the performance. Every pupil in the twelfth grade should have sufficient familiarity with Lincoln and his times, to judge in some measure as to the character of a lecture on this theme. Every pupil of that rank should have sufficient interest in a man who has served this district in Congress, and is again a candidate for such service, to hear an address of the kind given Monday night with profit.

Mr. Sutherland lacks but little of a really noble presence. He has a fine voice, a pleasant manner, ease of elocution and at times rises to genuine eloquence of utterance. Of course his address was essentially an eulogium of the martyred president, and there are few people nowadays who would be disposed to detract anything from even an exaggerated panegyric upon the man who for half a century has been classed with Washington. Lincoln was a great, many-sided character, and no lecturer can begin to exhibit him in all his variety and greatness in a single discourse. One should rather attempt, not complete portraiture, but a partial exposition. It would be interesting and profitable to give a review of the debate between him and Douglas. Another interesting subject would be the conduct of the war. Another would be the conduct of the foreign affairs. His relations with his cabinet and congress would probably occupy an hour. His attitude to the press of the country, his treatment of prisoners, his manner towards the border states, and towards the northern opposition, his views on reconstruction, and the policies he pursued in that regard, are topics each of which could advantageously occupy an evening. His career from boyhood to maturity, his from the log cabin to Fall Suits, Coats and Skirts with a genuine pepper smartness in every line and stitch. They are from the style creating factories that do things first and best. If you will take the time to give them a looking over, we have the time any time to show them.

Just as one turns to a thermometer to learn temperature, so one must turn to this store to learn correct styles in Women's Wear. We are the recognized barometer in this territory of what is not only new but what is correctly new. When a style finds its way to our departments, that alone is a guarantee that the wearer of that style will be dressed in perfect harmony with the season's most approved fashion, and for this style satisfaction you pay less here than in any other store in this or other cities.

CLOAKS

The most popular fabrics this season are Chinchilla, Boucle', Zilelines and other hairy effects. In short, rough fabrics are the stylish thing in coats.

Grays, Tans and Browns are the favorites. Buttons are used in large numbers, are large and to a great extent highly colored.

SUITS

Suits have jackets 32 to 34 inches long. In materials, serges are still the most popular fabric, although there is a strong liking for hairy effects. Skirts are being made a trifle wider than for Spring and appear much more graceful.

SKIRTS

Every woman feels the need of an extra skirt, for either dress or street wear, and you can get the kinds here that conform absolutely to the latest fashion, in both material and cut. They are made with the utmost care and you will find exactly what you want here, at the price you wish to pay.

We have large, complete stocks of Coats, Suits and Skirts, each and every garment being priced as low as possible, consistent with the quality.

Not alone in the Ready-to-Wear sections are we prepared for you, but all through the store we have received the New Fall and Winter Merchandise and will be pleased to have you come and see them.

The second meeting of the Men's Educational Association was held in high school room Thursday evening. The Association, which, by the way is as yet, not formally organized or named, showed a great increase in interest, and a number new members. After the roll call, which was quite generally answered with short talks on matters of current interest, cited for the most part from the latest periodicals, the chairman called on Mr. I. O. Walker for a song.

Mr. Walker responded with a song, which he informed us was the favorite song of his mother. He rendered it with unexpected dramatic and musical ability. Mr. Walker has an exceptional voice, in compass, volume and sweetness, and he gives evidence of thorough culture. If this new organization does nothing more than acquaint the community with the extent and variety of local ability which has been suffered to exist in our midst unknown and unappreciated, it will do a great work. The subject of the evening's discussion was then given an hour, and of all present, there was not one who did not have something to say, and some of the suggestions were very timely and suggestive. The topic was, "The changes that may be made in our Chautauquas to make them more advantageous to the community."

Among the various suggestions were the following: First there should be no permanent platform manager, but a new manager should be appointed for each day, who should give his services for nothing. This would permit an additional one-hundred dollars to be appropriated for talent. There should be one day devoted to the discussion of subjects of a purely agricultural nature. There should be one day devoted to home talent, musical, reading, oratorial, including the school children. Prof. Moritz, with the help of Miss Coon, was asked to give this matter consideration, so that the school children of the entire county should have a day to look forward to in connection with the Chautauqua program.

It was also suggested that, instead of so many musical companies one vocalist of high class, such as Excel, Eichorn, Billhorn, should be employed for the entire week, and, in addition to giving selections, should drill a chorus, and give a new inspiration to the music that is in us all. It was thought that one hundred dollars might secure the services of such a man, while that amount of money is required to obtain one concert troupe for one day's entertainment.

It was also suggested that a critic should be appointed to follow each lecturer with a ten minute criticism of the lecture. The trouble with the Chautauquas, as now conducted, is that the lecturers and entertainers have become the hirelings of the bureaus, which farm them out, just as base ball players are bought and sold. While these bureaus confer some advantages upon the talent and the community, they are rapidly becoming a possible nuisance in their efforts to monopolize the sources of entertainment.

What is needed is an organization of a number of small chautauquas into a chautauqua district, which could then offer better terms to lecturers and musicians than the bureaus could do, and thus have a larger choice in the selection of entertainers and instructors. In any event, the next Red Cloud Chautauqua will show a degree of independence of the bureaus. After an hour's earnest and interested discussion of the matter, the meeting selected as the topic for the next gathering the desirability of organizing a commercial club in the city, as a branch of the association. The next meeting will be Thursday, the 26th at the High school room. All men especially graduates and under graduates of the public schools are cordially invited to attend and participate. Some additional features, besides the roll call and discussion are promised. Remember the hour, 8 o'clock p. m.

Why Not Support And Elect a Home Man?

As Nuckolls county has a resident who is a candidate for congress from this district, why not give him a rousing majority in this county and thus help elect him. He is a good citizen, and in every way qualified to fill the important office. He has served two terms in this capacity and made a good record.

R. D. Sutherland was born on a farm in Scotch Grove, Jones county, Iowa, April 27th, 1862.

Came west and in 1890 was elected County Attorney of Nuckolls county, Nebraska, serving three terms.

Elected a member of the 55th and 56th Congresses. A member of the committee on Private Land Claims, also of Irrigation of Arid Lands. Also the committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures.

Aided materially in bringing out a report from the committee on Irrigation of Arid Lands, in the last session of the 56th Congress. The Irrigation law passed the next Congress.

Did it ever occur to you that a single telephone would be of no value, or that a thousand or even ten thousand telephones in Nebraska would not meet your needs?

With a hundred and fifty thousand telephones in the state, the service probably reaches nearly everyone with whom you care to communicate.
