Talk With Shakespeare.

"But, Bill," says Shakespeare's friend, "Til be bodkinized if I see the sense in that song Ophelia sings, nor why you put the song in there for her anyhow.

When you've been in the show game as long as I have," replies Shakespeare, still a bit excited over the first performance of "Hamlet," "you'll know that when the producer wants a song in a scene, the soug goes in. Besides, this girl that's playing Ophelia was a hit in musical comedy, and the manager argued that the public expected to hear her sing somewhere in the piece. Let's go over to the Mermald and buy drinks for the critics."

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 3.

THE SIGN AND THE LEAVEN.

LESSON TEXT-Mark 5:11-25. GOLDEN TEXT-"Jesus spake unto, them, saying, I am the Light of the world: He that followeth Me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life."-John 5:12 R. V.

In order properly to understand this lesson we ought to study carefully the parallel passage in Matthew 15:39 to 16:12, also to read carefully John 8:12 to 32. The persistent Pharisees were ever upon his track seeking to find wherein to accuse him. Claiming to come from and to represent the Father, they ask Jesus to show them a sign from heaven. Turning upon them, he says, "You observe the condition of the sky and foretell what weather to expect the coming day and yet you cannot discern the sign of the times." As though to say, "I have come and performed those things that have been prophesied of me as the Messiah and yet you cannot read in my life the fulfillment of these signs of my office." In Luke 12: 54-56 Jesus makes a similar statement: "When ye see a cloud in the west, straightway ye say, there cometh a shower; and so it cometh to pass; . . . Ye hypocrites, ye know how to interpret the face of the earth and the heaven; but how is it that ye know not how to interpret this time?"

His Ideal.

Their question involved a suggestion that his works might be accounted for in many ways other than the rightful interpretation (John 10:37, 38), but their demand was for some particular demonstration. They were not looking for a spiritual manifestation and so far at their request he sighed, because they did not conform to his ideal; he rebuked them by telling them that their wickedness should have one sign that would be an eternal seal upon his deity.

Reaching the other side of the lake, the disciples realize their hunger and discover that they have but one loaf of bread among them. Jesus seizes the occasion to warn them of the evil which he had combated with the Pharisees whom they had just left.

If anyone has any question as to the scriptural teaching upon the subject of heaven, this passage ought to answer their query. Mark tells us that Jesus warns them against the leaven of the Pharisees and of Herod, while Matthew records the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees. There is no difference in the two, for Herod belonged to the Sadducees. There was, however, guite a difference between these two parties. The teaching of the Pharisees laid great fered everything. I was in bed for four emphasis upon the ceremonial observor five days at a time ance of the law and the traditions of every month, and so the elders. The Sadducees laid great weak I could hardly emphasis upon the denial of the su-walk. I cramped and pernatural, they did not believe in the resurrection from the dead. There was this in common, however, that they both substituted the false for the true.

ATTRACTION OF THE TYROL Towering Mountain Peaks Continue to Challenge Man to Attempt Their Conquest.

London, England .- The Tyrol, that rugged land of mountain warfare, has lost much of its lust for battle. But far above its vine-clad valleys and trag-uplifted castles, hoary with srim memories of hurtling slaughter, there rises a region of embattled spires where the joy of victory may yet be tasted. The battle is not with lukes and their legions, but with those solemn sentinels of the silences, the towering peaks of the Dolomites These rocky giants, says George D Abraham in the Strand Magazine, with their defenses of gloomy precipice, icy slope and storm-swept ridge. still challenge man to the fray. Faith, upholds the simile well, for the man who climbs its shattered face trusts more to faith than to secure abiding places for hand or foot. "Hope springs eternal" with the climber of the Funffingerspitze, to Englishmen the best known and most famous of the Dolomites, for, however steep and threatening its beetling cliffs, the rocks are firm and trustworthy.

As to Langkofelspitze, charity is mainly required; only the guides know the most engrossing route of ascent, and the reward they ask is as high as the peak itself. And in this case the greatest of these is not charity, but hope; in other words, the Answer to the Question.

The misunderstanding of this warning upon the part of the disciples was a common occurrence and continued until after Pentecost. In this case, however, Jesus tells them plainly why they did not understand (v. 17). Jesus knew and could read their hearts (Heb. 4:13). How like the disciples of old are we today.

The disciples had been with Jesus a long time and observed his mighty acts, yet they confused the material with the spiritual. It was against this sort of leaven he warned them, rather than some kind of bread.

We now turn to the third section of our lesson, the healing of the blind man vv. 22-26. There are four cases of restored eyesight mentioned in the gospels, three of whom are brought, and one came alone. In this case others bring the man and intercede for him (v. 22). Last week we observed a case of a progressive cure and here we have another. Jesus led the man by the hand outside the village and making clay with spittle opened his eyes. Again we would emphasize the fact that "they observed him, that they might accuse him," and hence every act on each separate occasion had a significance and a suggestiveness for that particular occasion, a meaning entirely ir-relevant at any other the. Why this man did not see at first we are not told, but surely 'twas through no fault on the part of Jesus. Nor was it the mere use of the spittle that effected the cure, but rather a demonstration of the fact that Jesus can heal with or without means.

The Golden Text seems to be at variance with the facts revealed in this lesson and yet when we turn from examining the disciples with their lack of perception and from the Pharisees whose hard hearts demanded a sign and gase upon Jesus as he deals with these two classes and with the blind man we see the truth in the text. He is the Light and by his patient dealing, by his rebuke, by his instruction, he led them to the light that they might have a true understanding of life. As we, too, follow him we must be conscious of our duliness.
