FRANK J. MUNDAY.

Word was received in this city from Denver announcing the death of a former resident of this city, J. S. Dyer aged 61 years. He had been living in Denver for the past 10 years where he had been in business up to a few years ago and since that time he has been travelling for a commission firm. His death was very sudden. He ate dinner and was feeling good, but soon took worse and died without regaining consciousness at 6 o'clock. The body was taken to his old home at Rushville, Mo., for interment. He leaves a wife, a daughter Mrs. Mabel Shay, and four sons, Edward, Everett, John D. and Bert, and an aged mother to mourn his death. The Chief along with their many friends extend sympathy to them in their sad hour of affliction.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and assistance during our late hour of trial. Words fail to express our gratitude for the sympathy and kindness extended.

Serious Accident

While driving west of the W. H. Thomas place Friday evening in an automobile Clark Crow, Lyman Essig, Miss Elenor Gilham, Miss Maude Crow and Miss Hazel Saladen met with very painful accidents. The machine was speeding along at about fifty miles an hour when for some reason the driver lost control and the car plunged into a bank along the side of the road. The rear end of the machine pitched ten feet into the air tossing the occupants out on the banks. Some of them rolled over under the machine. All were very severely bruised. Miss Gilham did not regain consciousness for several hours. All five are rapidly recovering at the present time. The machine is almost a total loss.

HOW IS YOUR COAL BIN?

The mercury goes down and down
Coaxed on by zero weather
The coal bin too! and with a frown
You see them go down together
While we can't stop
The mercury from going to the bottom
We are prepared
TO FILL YOUR BINS TO THE TOP

New York High Schools Will Teach Nebraska

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 25th. Literature on Nebraska and Omaha was sent to 150 High Schools in the state of New York last week by the Bureau of Publicity. Nebraska's opportunities as well as commercial facts relative to the state will be taught in the High Schools of New York, through an arrangement made by the Bureau with W. E. Bartholomew, of Albany, inspector of Commercial Education.

Nebraska's Future Prosperity

The farm products of Nebraska, including her life stock, reached the inconceivable total last year of $600,222,466; this is $510 for every person residing in the state; $2,550 per family of five. The prosperity of Nebraska's farms is shared by every soul within her borders.

Compare this with any other agricultural community on earth and you will feel proud of Nebraska, for she leads the procession.

In the next ten years Nebraska will produce from her farms and sell in the market places of the world, products equal in value to one-sixth of all the present value of all the farms in the United States, including the value of the lands, of the buildings, of the implements, machinery, live stock and all present improvements.

Is it worth anything to have a part in that?

And this much can be and will be done, without materially increasing the present rate of production per acre. When the boys now learning the principles of successful agriculture in the schools begin to apply their knowledge, Nebraska production will increase materially. The boys in the corn contests are now raising twice as many bushels per acre as the old farmers; when these boys get to running the farms the railroads will have to build double tracks.

Nebraska is peculiarly fortunate in having some advantages not possessed by less favored states; she has 40,000 square miles of loess soil, wonderful in its almost inexhaustible fertility and unmatched in the western hemisphere. She has transportation and market facilities unrivalled in their efficiency. She has the best organization of her agriculture for business of any state in the Union. She has a public school system without a peer.

Nebraska does not have to build these agencies; she has them.

Get this into your consciousness. Nebraska is even now entering upon the greatest period of her progress. She is the dominant commonwealth in the agricultural empire. Watch her grow. Help her grow.

You who have faith in Nebraska and contribute to her development will share in this prosperity which will come so surely as time endures.

For the stores of plenty which fill our garner and for the promise of still larger future blessings, Nebraskans have abundant reason for gratitude and hopefulness for this Thanksgiving Day.

The way to get money out of land is to improve it. The way to get good out of this community is to develop it.
