Last week a reporter of this paper was informed that Frank Huffer was rejoicing over the arrival of a baby at his house, but could not believe the statement. However, knowing Frank to be a good man, and news being a bit scarce, we took a chance and published the same. But the cruel hand of fate was against us, and the ink was hardly dry on the paper, before we had learned of our mistake and that the real reason of Frank's setting up the cigars was—just a birthday. It was a serious mistake and we are truly sorry of it and shall in the future try and mention only such parties in connection with such events as we know will appreciate it.

Do you expect a valentine?

"We use every bit of corn and alfalfa we raise, and we certainly raise an enormous amount of both these feeds," A. F. Pill of Inavale, Neb., made this remark in talking over the feeding situation. "The amount of alfalfa raised there ought to be sufficient to feed twice the amount of stock we have, but we certainly get away with it."—Tuesday's Kansas City Daily Drivers Telegram.
E. J. Overing Jr. treated the pupils of School District No. 3, taught by Miss Fay Teel, to a very interesting address on the "Life of Abraham Lincoln" on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Overing is an orator of well known ability, and he handled his subject in his usual free and easy manner, and the pupils demonstrated by their strict attention that they thoroughly enjoyed the address, and that Mr. Overing had used due diligence in his presentation of this heavy subject in order that it could be properly grasped by these not fully matured young minds.
There is a story going the rounds this week about one, Chas. Whittaker, a well known blacksmith and implement man of this city, and who up until last Monday had always enjoyed the reputation of being a brave man—even though it is true, perhaps, that he never participated in the battle of Bull Run. It seems that he borrowed a horse and buggy from his sister, and while driving to the depot, whether he was bent to transact a little business, the horse became frightened and in edging to one side, caused the harness to become tangled up, thus causing Chas. to feel as though something serious was about to happen, whereupon he was seen to desert the rig, and it was only after a friend had come to his aid and consented to lead the horse back up town, that he was persuaded to again get into the buggy. Such acts as these deserve a Carnegie medal!
