A detailed account of the storm can be found on the inside pages of this issue.

A few Sundays ago there were no services held in any of our churches, not a bell was heard and one could not help but note the solemnity of it. What would our town be if we never heard a church bell? What a contrast it was Easter morning when the chimes from some edifice of worship can be heard for miles around and the streets are crowded with children on their way to Sunday School. Are not the bells and the spires pointing Heavenward a source of inspiration to all whether we be on our way to church or not?
