RED CLOUD,

NEBRASKA

Senate File No. 27

This bill, Senator Hummel informs us, has become a law. It may prove a very important measure to Red Cloud, if the city puts itself in an attitude to realize its advantages.

The bill provides for state aid to high schools of the proper equipment for the conduct of courses in agriculture, manual training and home economics, to the extent of half the expense of conducting such department, not to exceed, however, the sum of $1250 per year.

Not more than thirty high schools shall receive this aid during the years 1913 and 1914.

To avail ourselves of this advantage, this district must incur an additional expenditure of perhaps twenty dollars per month, because we are already expending nearly two hundred dollars a month in this direction. We must also have a five acre tract of agricultural land within two miles of the school house upon which agricultural experiments may be carried on.

Professor Moritz has received encouraging replies as to the probability of Red Cloud's selection as one of these thirty schools.

Should the city schools meet the requirements of the law and win the selection of the state superintendent, it need not be long ere the schools take a high rank in these courses, sufficient to increase the high school attendance to four or five hundred, and make this city the centre of a practical education for a large extent of territory. In these days of automobiles, when a score or two of miles is but a trifling distance, with such facilities offered to the youth of the county and the adjacent ones, there will be a stimulus to the trade and growth of the city that we can not now estimate.

Every boy or girl who comes here for his education brings his parents for trade and business.

In dreaming of railways that do not come, we have overlooked the drawing power of the educational facilities which are in our power to furnish.

For the first time in the history of the district we have a superintendent who has exhibited marked ability in his management of subordinate teachers, and the pupils, combined with faculty of impressing favorably any gathering of the business men and scholars of the community. He has united with these qualities an alertness in perceiving opportunities for the development of the school and a readiness to seize and make use of all the means at hand to further the progress of the school's efficiency.

The Chief believes, that, under his superintendency our schools are about to reach a high reputation which will prove of more worth in dollars and cents than most people can realize.

Where It Hurts

We do not know how much money is sent out of this town to buy things that could be bought here at home. We know there is some.

The important thing is whether the amount that is being sent away is less or more, is decreasing or increasing. If the percentage of such money is decreasing, very well. If it is increasing the town is in a bad way.

If it was 2 per cent year before last and 2 1/2 per cent last year, and is likely to be 3 per cent this year, it is easy to see which way this town is going.

If that kind of trading is increasing, the value of property in this town is decreasing. Business property is worth less. The homes of this town are worth less.

There are people who are saving cents in price and losing dollars in quality, and incidentally decreasing the value of their property and their labor.

Some people realize that mail order buying hurts the local merchant, but they say there is no reason why they should worry about him. Certainly not. What they ought to worry about is themselves.

1913 Will Be Lucky For Home Builders

who sidetrack procrastination for action and get busy early on their building plans. The kind of lumber you would be satisfied with is as cheap now as you will ever see it and, at the prices we are quoting on the quality you would expect, we say with all emphasis—"BUILD NOW". With our knowledge of the different woods and their application to home building we can doubtless show you how you can attain your ideal home at a much less cost than you think. Price-per-thous. and for lumber is very misleading to the inexperienced, but when a plan is figured judiciously and the right lumber specified in the right place the total cost is often a pleasant revelation. Our business requires this exacting knowledge and we are sure we can satisfy you in price, quality and service. Let's talk it over. We have everything from joist to shingles.
