FIRE.

THE ALARM is a dreadful thing for the man without insurance. Every time he sees the engines racing along his heart comes up in his throat if the fire is anywhere near his place. What folly, what mistaken economy.

THE COST OF INSURANCE is so small that it need hardly be considered. The freedom from worry alone is worth it many times over. Have us insure you to-day.

Price-Per-Thousand On Building Lumber

In eastern Nebraska probably more alfalfa is sown in August than in all other months combined. Seeding at this time is economical of both land and labor, as opportunity is given to harvest a crop of small grain, and the field need not be mown to keep down the weeds as is necessary in spring seeding. The field where alfalfa is to be sown should be disked if possible immediately following the binder. This pulverizes the top soil and conserves moisture. The ground should be plowed as early as the crop can be removed, and worked until the seed bed is fine, and well primed. Shallow plowing usually gives better results than deep as the seed bed is more easily primed and there is less danger of winter killing. Many men have secured excellent results by merely disking the ground several times. It should, however, have been plowed deep before the preceding crop was put in. When the seed bed is prepared the farmer may wait until weather conditions are favorable before sowing his seed. It is best to sow following a good rain. This primes the soil and puts it in condition not only to start the seed but to keep the plants growing. The field should be harrowed as soon after the rain as the ground can be worked and the seed may either be sown broadcast and harrowed in, or sown with a press drill. The seed are small and therefore should not be covered deeply, an inch being a good depth for ordinary soils. From fifteen to eighteen pounds of seed per acre is sufficient where the seed is of good quality and the seed bed has been well prepared, but under no circumstances should a man put off the preparation of his soil or sowing his seed until late. The plants need to get a good start in order to stand the winter, and late September or October sowing does not give them time to become well rooted.

Scientific Point Cleared Up. A German astronomer has published a series of tables which seem to show a connection between the appearance of sun spots and the wabbling motion of the earth on its axis, due, perhaps, to a variation in the sun's magnetism.
