Market reports thus far indicate that the farmers of Kansas and Nebraska are far from dumping their wheat, as it was feared they would feel obliged to do, are holding much of it back in hope of better prices a little later. Since the price of wheat at any given time is based mainly on estimates of the total supply, and not on accidents, thrilling rescues, fires at the supply coming to market, the sea, train wrecks, automobile accidents. holding of grain out of market has not thrilling and interesting from start to the great effect on prices that is com- finish. monly claimed for it. But there is a psychological aspect of the flooding of each week in the Sunday Omaha World Heraid. a market that tends to bring prices below the natural level. The farmers will get some profit that would otherwise go to speculators if they are able to spread their wheat marketing over several months instead of a few weeks. -Thursday's State Journal.

ing was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at which time the proposed removal of the Franklin Creamery to this city was discussed. Messrs, G. A. Adams and Wa-Dependenuer, of the Franklin company were present, and it was learned from these gentlemen that they had no definite proposition to offer at this time, but would ascertain the sentiment of the people of this city. They machinery to this place, where they age plant, an fee cream factory and

The gentlemen made it clear that they wished to have Red Cloud capital invested in the enterprise, and that they were willing to invest sufficient money as to permit of them retaining a controlling interest in the enter

The matter was discussed thorough'y by those present, and it was the prevailing sentiment of the meeting that the location of the creamery at this place would be a good thing for the city for several reasons, chief among them being the fact that the farmer would receive better prices for their cream than they are at the present time securing.

The president of the Chamber o Commerce was instructed to appoint a committee to consist of five members of the Chamber of Commerce, five business men and five farmers to further investigate the matter and no definite action will be taken until after the meeting of this committee.
