JUST THE CHILDREN MOURNER

None Came to Claim the Body of Old George, the Cornetist.

About us everywhere in the fogs of the human tide are drifting mysteries we accept without inquiry. There are such people in Sacramento as "Old George, the cornetist," who recently fell dead in New York city.

Day after day he appeared at the same corner, offered his familiar tunes to the admiring children and the sometimes abjuring adults, and collected the pennies wherewith to buy food, clothing and shelter.

No one ever asked him his right name, but the children loved him. Then one morning, as Old George raised his horn to his lips, it clattered to the pavement, and the song he was planning to give the crowd rattled in his throat as he toppled over—dead.

The children mourned him for several days. No one came to claim his body.

Better Than War.

"The whole world is preparing for war," said William Jennings Bryan at a pacifist dinner.

"I know a man in Miami whose good lady suddenly went in for spiritualism. Did he declare war? No; he did not. He did better.

"Instead of declaring war, the Miami man took to accompanying his wife to all her spiritualistic seances, and at every seance he got the handsome medium to procure him messages from his first wife, who was dead—and, ah, such tender, such loving messages as they were!

"By this method the Miami man soon put an end to the spiritualistic idea in his household."

Reasonable Aspiration.

"I suppose you have high ambitions for your boy?"
"Well, I wouldn't say that exactly; but I do hope that he won't turn out to be the male assistant to a female dancing teacher."

Concentrated Satisfaction

A great many former users of tea and coffee have learned that there is a pure food beverage made from wheat, which has a delightful flavor.

It never exacts of its users the tribute of sleeplessness, heart-flutter, headache and other ills often caused by the drug, caffeine, in coffee and tea.

Instant Postum

suggests the snappy flavor of mild java coffee, but is absolutely free from caffeine or any harmful ingredient. Instant Postum is in condensed, soluble form, and wonderfully convenient for the home—for the picnic—for travel—everywhere.

If tea or coffee interferes with comfort or success, as it does for many users, try a shift to Postum.
