Methodist Church News
 (Church and Parsonage opposite Court House, west, F. M. Draflner, Minister)

Be kindly affectionate one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another.
 We feel much encouraged by the fine audiences that have greeted us, last Sunday being an increase over the first Sunday; we appreciate fully the large number of men who are attending, we have tried to be the kind of a preacher that men like to hear, and we want the men to come.
 The fall of a sinner is like the fall of a meteor—the farther he falls the faster he is consumed.
 The pastor was called to Cowles Thursday to conduct the funeral of a neighbor lady of our boyhood days.
 The Boards of Stewards held an important meeting at the parsonage last Monday evening; two matters of special interest were adopted as the permanent method of providing for all our church finances in the future and the church fiscal year was fixed to begin the first of September. Duplex envelopes have been ordered and the Board will be ready to make the canvass in a few days. The pastor will have a word to say on these matters at next Sunday's services.
 We have begun our usual canvass of all the homes of the city which we make on coming to a new charge, in order that we may get acquainted and acquire such information as will make it possible for us to do our work in a more intelligent way; and we are glad to record that in no community have we been received with more frankness and cordiality than in the homes we have been privileged to visit here so far.
