

PLAN NOW Your Summer Mountain Tour

From Middle and Eastern Nebraska you may go to Glacier National Park either direct or via Denver and Central Wyoming, with 700 miles of mountain panoramas Denver to the Yellowstone. You can visit Rocky Mountain National Estes Park; you can make an automobile tour of Yellowstone via the Cody-Scenic way. In Glacier you will find the climax of the rugged grandeur of the Rockies.

If your destination is Yellowstone Park, you may go either direct in through sleepers to the Cody-Scenic entrance, or via Denver, to the Cody entrance, coming out via Gardiner.

Rocky Mountain National Estes Park, just north of Denver, will attract in 1917 the greatest summer throng on record. Burlington tickets take you via Lyons or via Loveland.

Due to the awakening by the East to the mountain grandeur of the West whether you choose one mountain locality or make a sweeping circuit tour of the Rockies, you will have plenty of company. Make your plans early. Ask our publications.

Kansas City Market

Kansas City Stock Yards, April 16, 1917—Cattle receipts of 13000 sold mostly steady today, some steer sales 10 lower, top 12.75. Hog receipts were 12000, market steady early but 10 lower at the close, top $16.25. Sheep and lambs sold steady to straggle with some haggling over prices, receipts 5000, top lambs $15.60.

BEEF CATTLE

Kansas native steers sold at $12.65 and $12.75, and two loads of choice pulp fed Westerns brought $12.75. These top cattle sold steady. Middle grades of native steers were 10 lower, sales from $10.50 to 12.25, light-weight silage fed steers $8.75 to 10.25. Whatever weakness there was on steers today was due to the fact that Chicago had a good run both last spots in the market. The general situation is strong, and advances are scheduled, especially on top grades. Cows and butcher grades sold steady today, with good cows at $9 to $10.75, lower grades of cows and canners downwards to $6.50. Bulls bring $8.50 to $10, veal calves up to $13.

STOCKERS and FEEDERS

Feeders sold up to $11.15 last week and stock steers to $10.30, all of the decline of the week before having been regained. The market is steady today, with most of the stock steers selling at $8.25 and upwards, feeders, $9.50. During the first half of April this year 26000 stockers and feeders went to the country from here 6000 more than same days last year.

HOGS

For nearly a week packers have used every effort to depress prices, but the top today was $16.25, only 5 cents under the highest point reached so far this year, paid last Thursday. Shippers made the early market, paying up to $16.25 but packers held out, and bought their hogs 10 lower, at $16.15, bulk of sales $15.70 to $16.15. It is believed that the packers' position is arbitrary, and that the market will make some strong advances in the near future, although it is likely that the Government will stop the advance within reasonable limits.

SHEEP and LAMBS

Lambs sold up to $15.60, not quite top quality mostly of the good lambs around $15.50, clipped lambs about $3 under wool skins, yearlings worth up to $14.25, wethers $13.25, ewes, $13, clipped Angora brusher goats sell up to $7.50 fat ones $8, unclipped Angoras to killers up to $9, slick-haired goats $6.50 and upwards. Receipts will run light here for a month or six weeks and the market should rule strong. J. A. RICKART, Cor.

Kill Flies Now

Kill at once every fly you can find and burn his body.

Observers say that there are many reasons to believe there will be more flies this season than for a number of years.

The killing of just one fly now means there will be billions and trillions less next summer.

Clean up your own premises; see and insist that your neighbors do likewise.

Especially clean "out-of-the-way" places, and every nook and cranny. Flies will not go where there is nothing to eat, and their principal diet is too filthy to mention.

Big Crops From Gardens

Planting a garden is a patriotic act almost every citizen can perform if he does not enlist, says the horticulture department of the university. Back yards and vacant lots will yield astonishingly large quantities of food if handled rightly.

By careful planning, more than one crop can often be grown on the same soil the same season. By companion cropping, plants can be grown successfully as close as 6 inches apart. Rotation, or the growing of crops in such order that the soil will not be drained of the same elements continuously, also results in greater yields. Further information may be secured upon application to the college of agriculture, Lincoln.

A trial order will convince that our printing is the kind you want—the best.

WILSON URGES UNITY FOR SUCCESS OF THE WAR

President Makes Address to the People on their War-Time Conduct—Appeal Should Be Read by All Citizens and Heeded

Washington, April 15—In a personal appeal addressed tonight to his fellow countrymen, President Wilson calls upon every American citizen—man, woman and child—to join together to make the nation a unit for the preservation of its ideals and for triumph of democracy in the world war.

"The supreme test of the nation has come," says the address. "We must all speak, act and serve together."

Putting the navy on a war footing and raising a great army are the simplest parts of the great task ahead, the president declares, and he urges all the people with particular emphasis on his words to the farmers, to concentrate their energies, practice economy, prove unselfishness and demonstrate efficiency. The address follows:—

"My fellow countrymen: The entrance of our beloved country into the grim and terrible war for democracy and human rights which has shaken the world, creates so many problems of national life and action which call for immediate consideration and settlement that I hope you will permit me to address you a few words of earnest counsel and appeal with regard to them.

"We are rapidly putting our navy upon an effective war footing and are about to create and equip a great army, but these are the simplest parts of the great task to which we have addressed ourselves. There is not a single selfish element, so far as I can see, in the cause we are fighting for. We are fighting for what we believe and wish to be the rights of mankind and for the future peace and security of the world. To do this great thing worthily and successfully we must devote ourselves to the service without regard to profit or material advantage and with an energy and intelligence that will rise to the level of the enterprise itself. We must realize to the full how great the task is and how many things—how many kinds and elements of capacity and service and self-sacrifice it involves. These, then, are the things we must do and do well besides fighting—the things without which fighting would be fruitless.

"We must supply abundant food for ourselves and for our armies and our seamen not alone but also for a large part of the nations with whom we have now made common cause, in whose support and by whose sides we shall be fighting.

Must Supply Allies.

"We must supply ships by the hundreds out of our ship yards, to carry to the other side of the sea, submarine or no submarine, what will every day be needed there and abundant material out of our fields and our mines and our factories with which not only to clothe and equip our own forces on land and on sea, but also to clothe and support our people for whom the gallant fellows under arms can no longer work, to help clothe and equip the armies with which we are cooperating in Europe and to keep the fires going in ships at sea and in the furnaces of hundreds of factories across the sea; steel out of which to make arms and ammunition, both here and there; rails for worn out railways back of the fighting fronts, locomotives and rolling stock to take the place of those every day going to pieces; mules, horses, cattle for labor and military purposes; everything with which the people of England, France, Russia and Italy have usually supplied themselves, but cannot now afford the men, the material or the machinery to make.

"It is evident to every thinking man that our industries, in farms, in ship yards, in the mines, in the factories, must be made more prolific and more efficient than ever and that they must be more economically managed and better adapted to the particular requirements of our task than they have been; and what I want to say is that the men and the women who devote their thought and their energies to these things will be serving their country and conducting the fight for peace and freedom just as truly and just as effectively as the men on the battlefield or in the trenches. The industrial forces of the country, men and women alike, will be a great national, a great international army of service—a notable and honored host engaged in the service of the nation and the world, the efficient friends and saviors of free men everywhere. Thousands, nay, hundreds of thousands of men otherwise liable to military service will of right and necessity be excused from that service and assigned to the fundamental, sustaining work of the fields and factories and mines, and they will be as much part of the great patriotic forces of the nation as the men under fire.

Addresses Farmers.

"I take the liberty therefore of addressing this word to the farmers of the country, and to all who work on the farms: The supreme need of our own nation and of the nations with which we are cooperating is an abundance of supplies, and especially of foodstuffs. The importance of an adequate food supply, especially for the present year, is superlative. Without abundant food, alike for the armies and the peoples now at war, the whole great enterprise upon which we have embarked, will break and fail. The world's food reserves are low. Not only during the present emergency but for some time after peace shall have come both our own people and a large proportion of the people of Europe must rely upon the harvests of America. Upon the farmers of this country, therefore, in large measure, rests the fate of the war and the fate of the nations. May the nation not count upon them to omit no step that will increase the production of their land or that will bring about the most effectual cooperation in the sale and distribution of their food products. The time is short. It is of the most imperative importance that everything possible be done and done immediately to make sure of large harvests. I call upon young men and old alike and upon the abeddoled boys of the land to accept and act upon this duty—to turn in hosts to the farms and make certain that no pains and no other labor is lacking in this great matter.

Urges Abundant Acreage

"I particularly appeal to the farmers of the south to plant abundant foodstuffs as well as cotton. They can show their patriotism in no better way or more convincing way than by resisting the great temptation of the present price of cotton and helping upon a great scale to feed the nation and the people everywhere who are fighting for their liberties and for their own. The variety of their crops will be the visible measure of their comprehension of their national duty.

"The government of the United States and the governments of the several states stand ready to cooperate. They will do everything possible to assist the farmers in securing an adequate supply of seed, an adequate force of laborers when they are most needed at harvest time, and the means of expediting shipments of fertilizers and farm machinery, as well as of the crops themselves when harvested. The course of trade shall be as unhampered as it is possible to make it and there shall be no unwarranted manipulation of the nation's food supply by those who handle it on its way to the consumer. This is our opportunity to demonstrate the efficiency of the great democracy and we shall not fall short of it.

"And let me say to the middle man of every sort, whether they are handling our foods or our raw materials for manufacture or the products of our mills and factories: The eyes of the country will be especially upon you. This is your opportunity for signal service, efficient and disinterested. The country expects you, as it expects all others to forego unusual profits, to organize and expedite shipments of supplies of every kind, especially food stuffs, with an eye to the service you are rendering and in the spirit of those who enlist in the ranks, for their people, not for themselves. I shall confidently expect you to deserve and win the confidence of the people of every sort and station.

"To the men who run the railways of this country, whether they be managers or employes, let me say that the railways are the arteries of the nation's life and that upon them rests the immense responsibility of seeing to it that those arteries suffer no obstruction of any kind, no inefficiency or slackened power. To the merchant let me suggest the motto: "Small profits and quick service," and to the ship builder the thought that the life of the war depends upon him. The food and the war supplies must be carried across the seas, no matter how many ships are sent to the bottom. To the miner let me say that he stands where the farmer does: The work of the world waits on him. If he slackens or fails, armies and statesmen are helpless. He also is enlisted in the great service army. The manufacturer does not need to be told, I hope, that the nation looks to him to speed and perfect every process; and I want only to remind his employes that the services are absolutely indispensable and are counted on by every man who loves the country and its liberties.

"Let me suggest that every one who creates or cultivates a garden helps, and helps greatly to solve the problem of the feeding of the nations and that every housewife who practices strict economy puts herself in the ranks of those who serve the nation. This is the time for America to correct her unparadonable fault of wastefulness and extravagance. Let every man and every woman assume the duty of careful, provident use and expenditure as a public duty, as a dictate of patriotism which no-one can now expect ever to be excused or forgiven for ignoring.

"In the hope that this statement of the needs of the nation and of the world in this hour of supreme crisis may stimulate those to whom it comes and remind all who need reminder of the solemn duties of a time such as the world has never seen before. I beg that all editors and publishers everywhere will give as prominent publication and as wide circulation as possible to this appeal. I venture to suggest also, to all advertising agencies that they would perhaps render a very substantial and timely service to the country if they would give it widespread repetition. And I hope that clergymen will not think the theme of it an unworthy or inappropriate subject of comment and homily from their pulpits.

"The supreme test of the nation has come. We must all speak, act and serve together.

WOODROW WILSON."
