he will get by as he is the limit, so don't worry. We will try and stay together. They transfer and move them so many times. Oh, yes, mamma, I got a letter from Marie and Mrs. Ross. They spoke of you folks and how much they thought of you. They recognized our letters and so wrote to us. I tell you words can't express how we appreciate them. Also got a letter from Cousin Vera. While I think of it, mamma, you tell the Red Cross, and the P. E. O's how thankful we were for their remembrances that they sent us while we were at Kelly Field. We were going to write a letter and send it to be published thanking them, but never got to it. Do not know whether the other boys did so or not. You put an article in the paper thanking them for Vern and myself.

Got two boxes of home made candy the other day, and it was mighty good. The other boys said: "Gee, but you get lots of good things." It pleases them as I divide with them and they with us.

I am in the Y. M. C. A. building where I can see them drill.

I think Verne will be out in a few days so don't worry. Hope when this letter reaches you it will find you all O. K. and well. Think about you so much.

Your loving sons,

Advertisement.

Mary Sibbitt has been identified with reform work from childhood. A direct descendant from Martha Washington, she has the sterling qualities of a leader, is an earnest thinker, delving into the merits of the cause she represents and is so thoroughly convinced of its righteousness that she carries conviction to the hearts and minds of her audience.

She spent eight years as a missionary teacher among the blanket Indians for the Friends church, was missionary in Colorado for six years and in touch with the city missionary work of such cities as Pueblo. Since 1898 she has been in the lecture field.

She is a member of the executive board of temperance and legislation for the five years' meeting of the Friends church of America, the highest position the church can give in reform work.

She has spoken in most of the western states and has spent much time in the north and east in the interest of reform work.

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 15, 1914.

I regard Mrs. Mary Sibbitt as one of the big women of our time. To the earnestness of a crusader she adds the strength of a remarkable personality and the undoubted gifts of an orator. She is a force for civic righteousness and no one in this day is doing better work for prohibition and the program of social purity, which travels hand in hand with the warfare against the drink evil.—Henry J. Allen.

Mrs. Sibbitt will lecture at Red
