Defiling the Flag

As the war goes on and the casualty list brings home our losses, we read of mobs forcing pro-Germans to kiss the flag. The crowd laughs and cheers and the mob disperses with a smug feeling that it has done something finely patriotic.

In reality it has done the meanest thing a mob can do. The poor fool that it has manhandled is not cured of his disloyalty, but rather is confirmed in it by having suffered violence at the hands of American citizens; but that is the least of the evil that has been done. To those of us who are loyal that flag represents all that we hold dearest and most sacred in life. It is the visible emblem of our right to worship God as we please; our right to free speech and a free press; our right to put whom we choose into office, and to hold, ourselves, any office that we have ability to attain. It stands for our right to make our own laws, and to repeal them when they no longer please us. It is an omnipresent and indestructible memorial to the faith and courage and self-sacrifice of our fathers who died for it, and of our sons who are dying for it now. It is dear as a sister, as beautiful as a mother.

And into the presence of that symbol of purity and noble sentiment you lead a traitor and force him to press his foul lips to its immaculate folds! The flag cannot resist, but how every fibre of it must shrink and revolt! It cannot rebel against or protest against the insult, but forever after it must float a little less proudly, must carry itself with a little less lofty consciousness.

To be allowed to kiss that flag is not a penance, but a privilege—the privilege of patriots, patriots only. It is not for traitors.—Youth's Companion.

Fall Market Week

Ringling Bros. Circus

Word comes that Ringling Brothers' mammoth circus is to exhibit afternoon and night at Hastings, Friday August 9.

Always the leaders in introducing the newest and greatest features the famous showmen this season announce the most remarkable program of their career. There is a brand new spectacle of gigantic proportions entitled "In Days of Old." Produced on the biggest stage ever built, it tells the story of the golden age of Ivanhoe, Robin Hood and King Arthur. An entire trainload of scenery is carried. The cast numbers 1,250 actors and there is an entrancing ballet of 300 dancing girls. A thousand arctic sensations follow the spectacle on the main-tent program. There are great troupes of seals, dogs and monkeys that walk on tight ropes and ride horseback; herds of elephants in all new tricks; international athletes in feats of amazing strength; slides for life from tent-top to the ground by men suspended by the hair, and one—the great Hillary—who "jumps the gap" with skates attached to his head. The world's greatest stars, such as May Wirth, who leaps from the ground to galloping steed with baskets tied to her feet, are presented in great number. There are twice as many clowns as before, a menagerie of 1,000 splendid animals and, to introduce the holiday, an all new street parade three miles long.

Increase production, decrease consumption, save and lend to the Government. Every cent lent to the United States is used to support, strengthen, and aid our soldiers in France.

From the battle fields in France there comes an unspoken call that should find an answer in every American heart. The recent great events in Europe, the successes of American arms on the fields of France should spur every American to greater effort.

Our people at home should not rest on the laurels of our soldiers in France. Every death on the field of honor in the line of duty and for our country's cause should be a call to us for every sacrifice and every exertion to aid the cause for which our soldiers are fighting, for which our soldiers have died.

Buying agencies for foreign countries have expressed a preference for a return this fall to lighter weight hogs. J. P. Cotton, Chief of the Meat Division of the Federal Food Administration, and who buys meat for the armies and civil population of the allies, has notified Z. T. Leftwich, St. Paul, Neb., vice president of the Federal Meat Producers' Association, of this desire for light hogs. This probably means that light weight hogs will find decided favor on the market.

Several garden vegetables may be successfully grown during August and September. Among them are turnips, endive, lettuce and radishes. Turnips will do well sowed broadcast, and White Globe is a good variety. Endive may be sowed broadcast and then transplanted or may be drilled in rows 12 inches apart and thinned to 12 inches apart in the rows. Endive may be used for salad and greens. Radishes and lettuce will do well if sowed in early August, especially with favorable weather.

The results of feeding five lots of lambs at the Nebraska Experiment Station have been set forth in a bulletin for free distribution. Experiments were conducted on the following methods of feeding lambs in the fall: The use of silage in fall feeding; the cornfield and dry lot; clipping lambs for cornfield feeding; the addition of oil meal and cottonseed nut cake to the cornfield ration; lambs in the cornfield and on blue grass. The bulletin will be sent on request to the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station, Lincoln, Neb.

Tuesday, August 27, Farmers who are interested in silos will make a tour in this county. On this date all the different makes of silos will be seen and the owners will give their experience. On this trip we will see Pure Bred live stock, self feeders, etc., that is of interest to the farmers. The County Agent is organizing Boy's Judging Teams in the county to represent the different towns. A final contest will be held at Red Cloud this fall in connection with the Webster County Farmer's Institute to determine which town has the best team. Prizes will be offered for the best team and also for the best individual.

KNOW HOW TO RAISE A BOY?

If You Did You Would Solve All the Problems of Mankind and Conquer the World.

"How to Raise a Boy? Why, if anybody knew how to raise a boy he would conquer the world. He would take his place at the head of all philosophers—and stand as the most exalted of men! If there could be written rules of rearing children, all problems would be solved. There would be no distress in the world, no crime, no blots upon the whole face of the earth," says the Dayton News.

"Boys are born and proceed to grow. They have heaped upon them from their earliest understanding all manner of admonitions. They have showered upon them more human love than any other creatures that are born. They have more care and attention—and pay less attention to it—than any other things that come into the world. Now and then one develops into a criminal; now and then one breaks the hearts of all who have had anything to do with him. But none of them follow precepts or advice. None of them develop along lines they are taught. None of them turn out exactly as those who have them in charge expect them to turn out.

"It is this way: A mother has two sons. They receive the same care and attention. Their environment is identical. They eat the same food. They have equal opportunities or advantages as regards education. They study under the same teachers—or refuse to study under them. Theoretically, they ought to make the same kind of men, for they have been brought up together. But they don't. They are nothing alike when they are grown. One is good, the other bad. One is studious, the other refuses to study. One is reliable, the other unrelia-ble. No, there is no way of telling how a boy ought to be raised."

HOUSES HEATED WITH SMOKE

Inhabitants of Korea Have Ingenious Way of Making the Floor Serve as a Huge Stove.

The rigorous winter of Korea, which deters many Japanese from settling there, is made endurable, says the Herald of Asia, by means of heating contrivances called ondol. This is a very ingenious way of heating a whole room by making smoke and heated air pass under the floor. In fact, the floor serves as a huge stove.

A floor is first made of mud and is intersected by three or four flues which spring from the fireplace at one side of the house and converge into the chimney at the other. Large slabs of stone are laid over this mud floor with its parallel flues. The joints are made airtight with clay, and a layer of clay is added on the top. Finally the whole is covered with thick oiled paper. The fireplace is outside of the wall at one side and the smoke passes through those flues in the floor on its way to the chimney at the other end of the house. In this way the whole room is effectively warmed. Neither stove nor hibachi is needed in such a room, even during an exceedingly cold day, and it is a real comfort to sleep in it, feeling, as one does, the soft warmth enveloping the whole body from beneath.

Paintings and Tapestries.

The relative value of paintings and tapestries at the very time that tapestries were being produced in large numbers—the fifteenth century, when weavers of Arras, Lille, Tournai, Brussels, Bruges and Paris, to say nothing of those of Italy and Spain, were turning them out in profusion—may surprise some unacquainted with the history of weaving. Pope Leo X paid to Raphael the equivalent of $10,000 for the ten panels of the Apostles, and Peter Van Alst, the Brussels weaver who converted the design into cloth, received $150,000. This sum, as now preserved in the Vatican, is valued at a million and a half, although much of its color has faded. But while Raphael probably executed his paintings in six months, it took Van Alst and his assistants four years to finish them on the looms, while, of course, the intrinsic value of the gold thread and other loom materials was considerable.

Light in Sugar Crystals.

A soft bluish light has occasionally been seen when a scoop was scraped across solidly caked sugar in the bin. Loose sugar does not show this glow nor does granulated. A scientist says that the cause of the peculiar light is in the fracturing of the sugar crystals. Luminescence of this type accompanies the breaking of crystals of a number of different substances, but in none is it more pronounced than in rock candy. To get the best effect place lumps of rock candy between the jaws of nut crackers or forceps and suddenly crush the crystal to fragments. If the room has previously been darkened the flash of light may be seen at a distance of 20 yards or more.

Had Experience.

A lecturer was touring the country giving travel talks to school children on the interests and industries of their country. "Now, children," he said, pleasantly, in leading up to his subject, "I wonder how many of you have ever seen a canebrake?" Silence. "What, no one? Ah, there's a little fellow, way back there. My boy, have you seen a canebrake?" "Well, I didn't exactly see it. But I was right under one once when it did."
