

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy. Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fullness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once. If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this. Adv.

Every Little Task a Burden?

To the women worn-out with weak kidneys, housework is a heavy burden. Back ache, sick headaches, nervousness, dizziness, "blue" spells and a weak, tired condition, make the simplest tasks difficult and the ever-present daily duties give the weakened kidneys no time to recover. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have brought relief and comfort to thousands of weak, suffering women.

A Nebraska Case
Mrs. Harriet Stump, McLane & Seventeenth Sts., Falls City, Neb., says: "I suffered terribly from my kidneys. I had rheumatic pains in my back and sides. After using three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was entirely cured. My limbs, which had been swollen, were reduced to normal size and the soreness all disappeared from my joints. That was over five years ago and the trouble has never returned."

President Wilson Bringing Back Completed Draft of League of Nations Plan.

SEVERER ARMISTICE TERMS

Arrogant Huns to Be Made to Realize They Were Whipped—Ebert Elected President of the German Republic—Revolt Against the King of Roumania.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.
President Wilson is bringing home with him the virtually complete draft of the constitution of the League of Nations that is to ally if not to end most of the world's ills. Despite marked opposition in some quarters, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George, earnestly supported by the smaller nations, were able to have presented a document that met with the approval of the commission of the league, and this was then presented to the plenary session of the peace conference, with every prospect that it would be adopted.

As it stands, the plan provides for a small body of representatives of all the nations concerned, which shall meet every few months in a place to be internationalized. Every difference between nations is to be submitted to this governing body and to be decided within three months, during which time the contending parties must refrain from acts of hostility. If the decision is not accepted, the case will be submitted to arbitrators, and if the country they place in the wrong does not accept the ruling and has recourse to arms, all other nations in a position to do so will take up arms against it. No country is obliged to go to war with the offending nation, but all must join in an economic boycott of the latter.

France, which, since the outbreak of the great war, justly considers herself an outpost nation guarding a frontier of civilization, strongly urged the creation of an immediate international army and navy to enforce the rulings of the society of nations. Leon Bourgeois argued earnestly for the constitution of such a force and for the placing of it in France until all danger of an attack by Germany was at an end. This was opposed, especially by American and British representatives, who showed that it was contrary to the constitutions of their countries. The long discussion ended in an agreement that if a country should be attacked, in violation of the rules of the league, the attacked country would employ her military forces as "covering troops" and await aid from those other nations that could most easily give it.

It is scarcely conceivable that this solution of the question can be satisfactory to France. The great war demonstrated that in a sudden shock attack a nation can suffer immense damage before her allies can mobilize their forces and transport them to the scene of conflict. This is just what France fears will happen again with Germany again as the aggressor, and her alarm, though it may be as foolish as some correspondents think it, will not be allayed until or unless the Huns render the Huns militarily impotent before the treaty of peace is signed. There is a growing feeling in Paris that the American and British delegates are disposed to be too lenient with Germany and too prone to adopt the insidious claim of the Germans themselves that their former rulers and not the people were responsible for the war and its horrors. The French resent the well-known fact that the German people as a whole ardently supported their government in the conduct of the war and gave approval to the outrages committed by officers and soldiers alike.

Having adopted a constitution and elected Friedrich Ebert as president of the German republic, the Germans in their national assembly at Weimar became more arrogant than ever. Their attitude was accurately reflected by Ebert who, in his speech accepting the office, said: "We shall combat domination by force to the utmost, from whatever direction it may come. We wish to found our state only on the basis of right and on our freedom to shape our destinies at home and abroad."

Matthias Erzberger, before meeting the entente chiefs to negotiate an extension of the armistice, conferred with officials in Berlin, and it was said they determined that he should demand that the allies recognize the new German government.

All this, and the fact that the enemy countries were preserving enough war material to permit them to equip quickly an army of 3,000,000 men, had full effect on the supreme war council when it decided on conditions of renewal of the armistice. The military members and the newly added economic members agreed on the terms, which are designed to place Germany in such a situation that she cannot renew military operations. The German authorities were called on to furnish full information of the war material of all kinds in their possession. The council also decided, according to one correspondent "to make Germany realize that we are the conquerors and that it is not a 'white peace' that we are seeking to impose on her."

According to reliable information, the armistice is renewed for a very brief time, the allies reserving the right to suspend it if Germany fails to carry out the new clauses, which include the cessation of hostilities against the Poles. Meanwhile a special commission is to draw up armistice terms to last until the peace treaty is signed. These terms will provide for the demobilization of the German army and the disarmament of the nation under the supervision of the allies. The German government, it was said, was given to understand plainly that if it was recalcitrant the resumption of the war by the allies was by no means out of the question.

The firm attitude of the supreme war council possibly was due in some measure to an impressive speech by Premier Clemenceau, in which he showed the council the necessity of taking all precautions against the treacherous Huns. In this he was supported by President Wilson.

If Germany submits and acts in apparent good faith, it is likely some economic measures will be adopted that would facilitate the resumption of her peace activities to a considerable extent. But if this goes too far France will have another cause of complaint, for both she and Belgium argue, with seeming justice, that their industries, destroyed by the Huns, should be restored before the Germans are permitted to resume commercial relations and capture the markets.

Among the interesting developments of the week was the dispute between China and Japan, relating to the disposition of Shantung province and Tsingtao and in general the concessions which China had been forced to grant to Germany. These, it appears, Japan is trying to obtain for herself, and China relies on the peace conference for protection. The council of the five great powers asked that all secret agreements made by Japan and China with each other and other nations since the beginning of the war be submitted to it. This was in accord with the desires of the Chinese, and the Japanese government complied with the demand.

The Japanese threw another small monkeywrench into the machinery by the flat statement that they intended to hang onto the Caroline and Marshall Islands, which they took from Germany, notwithstanding the expressed will of the peace conference that all the captured colonies should be governed by mandatories of the League of Nations. The outcome of this is uncertain.

The prospects of the proposed meeting of Russian factions and advisers from the allied nations at Prinkip are growing better. Seven of the governments in Russia, including the Estonians, Letts and Lithuanians, are willing to participate, though the first named maintain that they have now

ROCKS HIS BABY BACK TO LIFE

Father's Last Loving Rite Restores Child Believed to Be Dead.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Little four-year-old Laverne Scattergood was pronounced dead. Her father and mother were heartbroken and the attending nurse went about the task of getting the death robes ready and preparing the body for the undertaker.

E. A. Scattergood, the father, entered the room with tears streaming from his eyes. He had been accustomed to rocking baby every night, and he decided to take the little one Suddenly Came a Scream From the Father.

In his arms for the last time. He rocked and cried while the nurse went on with her work. Suddenly there came a scream from the father, and the nurse hurried to him.

"She is living," he said; "she is living, and I know it."

The nurse thought she saw signs of life. Baby was placed in her bed, hot water bottles were applied, and violent rubbing started the circulation. When the doctor arrived the baby was very much alive.

All that happened a few days ago. Now little Laverne is improving and the doctor expects her to recover from pneumonia.

"All the time she was sick," said the father, "I thought that if I could rock her as I did every night she would get better. When they said she was dead, I believed it. But I decided to rock her just once more, and maybe I am not glad that I decided to."

EARNs MONEY TO PAY FINE

Farmer Then Returns to Court and Announces That He Is Ready to Serve Sentence.

Seattle, Wash.—Miles Powell, a farmer, was before the federal court here charged with operating a liquor still.

"What's your business?" asked Judge Jeremiah Netere.

"My business is to plead guilty to the charge," said Powell.

"Your candor is refreshing," murmured the court.

Powell was asked if he thought he could pay the minimum fine. He said he could not, but was willing to go to work and earn the money. When he again appeared in court recently he brought with him the $100 fine and announced he was willing to start serving his sentence of 30 days in jail. He is now "doing time."

SHORT CHANGE ARTISTS BUSY

Dust Off Old System and Use It With Considerable Success on Merchants in Georgia.

Macon, Ga.—Short change artists have been bliking stores and shops in Macon for several weeks past. The system, though quite old, was dusted off again and used here.

One of the trio would make a small purchase and give a $10 bill. When he received change he would discover suddenly that he had a coin of the right denomination and handing the cashier part of the change ask that a $5 bill be given him. When this was done he suddenly thrust the $5 bill back at the cashier and asked that his $10 bill be given back. Meanwhile his confederates were loudly clamoring to be waited on immediately, saying they were in a hurry.

Horse Bests Machine in General Mix-Up

Manchester, Conn.—When a horse driven by Charles Wardel collided with an automobile driven by Charles Packard here the horse mounted the hood of the auto and plunged both feet through the windshield of the car, demolishing it completely. WAITER TOOK NO CHANCES Simply Removed Objects of Temptation From the Immediate Vicinity of Fair Hotel Guests.

Two Indianapolis women were eating lunch in a hotel in a city not 100 miles from the Hoosier capital.

"My, what a pretty silver sugar and cream set!" exclaimed one. "They would fit nicely on my dining-room table at home."

"Yes," said the other. "I can readily understand how an irresistible impulse often strikes the hotel diner at the expense of the management." And she picked up the dainty sugar bowl and examined it carefully.

The lunch proceeded. The waiter meanwhile had been fitting back and forth. Presently both diners looked at each other simultaneously. With almost a single voice they exclaimed: "Did you take that sugar bowl?" For the sugar bowl had mysteriously disappeared. Both denied the accusation.

But as they wended their way out of the dining room they noticed that their waiter had removed temptation by placing the sugar bowl on an adjoining table.
