Auspicious Opening

The four-night University Entertainment opened Wednesday evening at the Orpheum with a representative audience present. Prof. Guernsey Jones was the speaker and his subject "The League of Nations."

Some disappointment was expressed because he was not more positive as to conclusions. The critics should remember that these are details yet unsettled. No one knows.

The lecture was a clear and academic presentation of facts and history appertaining to the subject. Conclusions were left to each individual, the speaker himself declaring that as regards the future he did not know.

The Cadet Band will discourse music this evening; the University Chorus of thirty voices appears Friday evening, and Saturday the University Players present the delightful comedy, "The Doll's House."

Attention! As You Were

Back at the old stand again after many months absence spent in serving Uncle Sam. As I have been discharged from service I will again take up my former place among Red Cloud's circle of business men.

It is also with pleasure I announce that my old friend and standby, "Quig" will again be connected with the "Chief" just as soon as he can complete arrangements to vacate the position he is now holding on one of Filmore county's leading newspapers.

To date my time has been taken up renewing former acquaintances and getting the business end of the office re-arranged to my liking, so have been unable to give the mechanical end the attention it deserves.

Another week will see things in line, and "Quig" with us again.

We will then be in a position to give careful attention to the wants of the "Chief's" many patrons.

Thanking you, one and all, for the many business courtesies extended to the "Chief" in the past, and soliciting a generous share of your patronage in the future, I am,
A. B. McARTHUR

Upson-Arnold Wedding

At three o'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, March 27th, Miss Louise Upson and Chas. Arnold were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. J. Upson, of Odell, Neb., Rev. Pruett officiating.

The bride was charmingly attired in blue silk, the groom appearing in his soldier's suit.

The young lady was for two years principal of Franklin High School, is unusually talented and of high social standing. The groom is a son of Mrs. A. Arnold, of Inavale, and is a prosperous farmer so well known and highly respected to require no further introduction.

After a sumptuous wedding repast and a volume of good wishes for their future happiness, the happy couple departed on a brief wedding trip and on returning will settle on the groom's farm near Inavale.

Mrs. Arnold and sons, Arthur and James, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gurney, and Mrs. Loseke, all of Inavale, were in attendance at the wedding.

Mr. Arnold, who has but recently returned from eighteen months army service, is to be congratulated upon the auspicious event which marks the termination of his career as a soldier, and the Chief joins with a host of friends in wishing happiness and prosperity to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Arnold.

Red Cloud Banker Inherits

The will of the late W. T. Auld, Omaha capitalist, has been filed for probate under an agreement with two nieces, Eola Peterson and Alice Unzicker of Omaha, by which these two are to receive $40,000 apiece instead of $20,000 as named in the will, says Tuesday's Omaha Daily Bee. They had threatened a contest and had engaged counsel.

J. W. Auld, a nephew, of Red Cloud, Neb., received the bulk of the estate, or $1,250,000, according to the will and the agreement which was made before the filing at Red Cloud. The dead banker was president of the Red Cloud Bank of which this favorite nephew was cashier.

Harry S. Clarke, president of the Corn Exchange bank, of this city and J. W. Auld of Red Cloud are made executors.

E. F. Folda and J. J. Sullivan, who signed the will as witnesses, testified at the probating.

Mr. Auld died in California about two months ago. He made his will in Omaha, in November, before leaving for California.

Declamatory Contest

Despite the rainy weather a large audience attended the High School Declamatory Contest held in the assembly rooms last Tuesday evening.

Miss Helen Lemon won first place, Earl Patten second, in the serious class. Miss Mildred Mercer first in humorous grade. The losers need not feel discouraged as their commendable efforts gave the judges a hard task in picking the winners.

Rev. Silveria, of Hastings, Beatrice McKeighan, of Lincoln, and County Attorney Howard Foe were the judges.

Appropriate and most excellent music was rendered by Miss Owen's orchestra and the High School Quartette.

There were nine readings given and the contestants were: First—Lucile Harwood, "The Judgment Way"; Second—Corinne Neuerberg, "Three Things"; Third—Earl Patten, "President Wilson's Address To The Governors"; Fourth—Helen Lemon, "When The Fleet Goes By"; Fifth—Goldie George, "The Telephone Romance"; Sixth—Ruth Averill, "The Leperess"; Seventh—Mildred Mercer, "Jane"; Eighth—Blanche Sherer, "A Voice From A Far Country"; Ninth—Thelma McBride, "The Little Rebel."

These were under the training of Mrs. Geo. Kalley and their work is evidence of careful and skilled effort on her part.

Miss Venia Henderson is home from Omaha this week.

The Hidden Truth

Anna Case, the world-famous American prima donna, will be seen in her first picture, "The Hidden Truth," at the Orpheum theatre on Monday and Tuesday, April 7 and 8. The picture was supervised under the personal direction of Julius Steger, and is distributed by Select Pictures Corporation.

In this picture of Western mining camps and Eastern society, Anna Case is called upon to portray a wide range of character. As Helen Merrill, the heroine of the story, she is first introduced to us as a dancing girl in a dance hall in a mining camp out West. She befriends Myrtle Cadby, another dancing girl, whose husband mistreats her.

Myrtle becomes ill and on her death bed gives Helen a letter which she says is to an old friend of her father's in the East. She tells Helen to go there, as she will be treated kindly. When Myrtle dies, Helen comes East.

She arrives at the home of Charles Taylor, the man to whom the letter is addressed. Love soon enters their lives and they become engaged. Taylor discovers that Helen has been misrepresenting herself, and tells her he no longer loves her. She saves him from being swindled in a mining deal and he finds that, no matter who she is, he loves her for herself alone.

Attorney W. H. Miller of Bloomington was attending district court in this city on Wednesday.

Although There Are Many Devices

for the reproduction of sound, only one is identified with a name which is eminent in the realm of scientific discovery. That one is the NEW EDISON, "the phonograph with a soul." This wonderful instrument is the product of the greatest inventive brain of our times. The famous tone tests have established its pre-eminence beyond question.
