Beebe's birthday which occurred the day previous. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church and congratulations and well wishes extended to the Rev. gentleman. They presented him with a massive leather upholstered chair, and many other articles, as tokens of appreciation of his work for the church. "Pitfalls of a big city" is a picture of remarkable contrasts. At the very moment when the splendid reception is taking place in a wealthy home, great things are happening in the underworld. Gladys Brockwell has an extraordinary part in which her powerful personality is shown to better advantage than in any other picture she has made. She plays the part of a woman crook, who lives where the poor and the derelicts of a great city live and strives to rise above her environment. This project will also stimulate a wholesome interest in better poultry management and will do much to set folks thinking about the poultry business in the right way. There are, no doubt, poultry breeders in Webster county whose flocks should be represented in this contest. A good business awaits those breeders who present evidence of an interest in breeding better strains, by making an entry in the contest. The names of breeders making entries will be widely advertised when the contest reports are issued. This in itself will bring considerable business. Ten standard-bred pullets will constitute an entry. The contest starts November 1st. For further information call at the County Agent's office or write Frank Muesel, University Farm, Lincoln. Let's put Webster county on the map by entering into this contest. County Agricultural Agent, HENRY R. I here quote from a letter from Bird City, written July 14th, 1919. "Harvest is on in full blast and we are harvesting an immense crop. Some of my fields will go from 30 to 40 bushels per acre." Call and get a list of the lands that I have for sale. Now is the time to buy before another advance in prices. J. H. BAILEY.

Many People Enjoy the Big Home Coming Celebration

Another great day for Red Cloud has come and gone, one that will be long remembered by every one that was present—The Home Coming Day, Thursday, July 17th. People came in multitudes from every direction by train, auto and team, and ere the clock announced the noonday hour the streets of the city were thronged with people. An elaborate display of flags and decorations announced to the visitors that the city was in readiness for the gala event. By this time the acrobats had arrived and could be seen soaring hundreds of feet above the city. It was the property of Dr. Brewster of Beaver City, piloted by Mr. Stevens. Possessed of a desire to experience the sensation of floating thru the space that until recently was only visited by the birds, Dr. Mitchell, C. J. Platt, Dr. McBride, F. G. Turnure, F. A. Good and Lloyd Barker went joy riding in the big machine. As for music it was here galore. The Hastings band, the Jesse James show band and Red Cloud's big home band made things merry during the entire day. The parade was held at one thirty. The sailors being in the lead followed by two platoons of soldiers and the Hastings and Red Cloud bands marching up and down Webster street. Over a hundred soldiers and sailors taken part in the same. The ball game at 3 p. m. in which Baden and Red Cloud wrestled for the honors satisfied the longing of the base ball fans. Red Cloud defeated their opponents by a score of 6 to 7. The $50 purse offered for the winner in the 100 yard foot race (entered by about twenty-five) was won by Orville Richey of Cowles. The canteen service of the Red Cross at the Holland House satisfied the appetites of many soldiers and sailors. The merry-go-round, ferris wheel, Orpheum Theater and the Jesse James show furnished a variety of entertainment for the visitors and citizens. One big feature of the event was the Schenbeck Jazz orchestra which furnished the music for the open air dance in the evening, on the big platform on South Webster street. At a late hour the crowd dispersed—tired but happy, each and every one entirely satisfied with the program that had been arranged for their amusement. Messrs. Pedersen and Tulleys of the John Tulleys Auditing office of Lincoln are checking up the county officers books for the past four years. F. A. Good of Cowles and Fred Gund of Blue Hill have announced their intentions of entering the race for delegate to the constitutional convention. Without a doubt either of these gentlemen would give our people the representation they deserve, both being well versed on the topics and problems of the day. As the time approaches, in all probability some of our local men will be prevailed upon to also toss their hat into the ring. Many men possessing the ability to serve in this capacity may be had here, if the matter was brought before them in a strong enough manner to induce them to file an application. The time for filing for this office expires August 30th.

METHODIST DOINGS Echoes from the Centenary celebration at Columbus, Ohio: The executive cabinet of the Interchurch Movement, with headquarters in New York, is visiting the Methodist-Centenary Celebration in Columbus, Ohio, to study the exposition with a view of holding similar expositions, under the direction of the Interchurch Movement. Various large cities of strategic importance and geographically located will be chosen for the exposition. One result of Centenary culminating indubitable proof of the practical value of the Methodist Centenary celebration in Columbus, Ohio, is found in the fact that following the appeals that were made on the first day of special meetings, 600 persons pledged themselves to a life of Christian service in whatever field of activity their particular talents may fit them. The significance of these pledges in connection with the Centenary movement is seen from the fact that the annual accessions to church workers in the Methodist field average 600 a year, so that one day's solicitation after two weeks of the celebration has resulted in the equivalent of a year's work throughout the church in the entire United States. Of the 600, approximately 100 will be ministers. In the near future we expect to give a complete report of what the local church has contributed to the Centenary, both in a financial way and young people who have consecrated themselves for life service. Next Sunday being Chautauqua Sunday there will be no meetings held in the church except the Sunday School at 10 a. m. J. D. HAMMEL, Pastor. Notice to Creditors. In the County Court of Webster County, Nebraska. In the matter of the estate of Louise Darwin, deceased. Creditors of said estate will take notice that the time limited for presentation and filing of claims against said estate is November 21st, 1919, and for the payment of debts is December 7th, 1919, that I will sit at the county court room in said county on the 23d day of August, 1919, to examine, hear and allow all claims duly filed which are a first or second lien upon said estate, and on the 22d day of November, 1919, to examine, hear, allow and adjust all claims and objections of general creditors duly filed. Dated this 16th day of July, A. D. 1919. (Seal) A. D. RANNEY, County Judge.

Delicate Mechanism

Despite its scope Swift & Company is a business of infinite details, requiring infinite attention.

Experienced men must know livestock buying with a knowledge of weight, price, the amount and quality of meat the live animals will yield.

Each manufacturing operation must be done with expert skill and scientific precision. A highly perishable product must be handled with speed and care to avoid loss.

Chemists, engineers, accountants, and other specialists are required to take care of our intricate problems.

Alert wisdom and judgment must be used in getting stocks of goods into the open channels of demand through our four hundred branch houses. Branch house organizations must show activity and energy to sell at the market in the face of acute competition from other large packers, and hundreds of small ones.

All these requirements of intelligence, loyalty, devotion to the task, are met in the personnel of Swift & Company. Yet the profit is only a fraction of a cent per pound with costs at minimum.

How can the workings of this delicate human mechanism be improved upon?

Do you believe that Government direction would add to our efficiency or improve the service rendered the producer and consumer?

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar". It will interest you. Address Swift & Company, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill.
