Farm Bureau Notes

SEED WHEAT WARNING

The Department of Agriculture wishes to call the attention of all farmers who intend sowing wheat this fall to investigate the germinating properties of the seed they expect to use.

Owing to the small yield of winter wheat in many sections of the state the quality in a good many cases is considerably below normal. The normal percentage of germination tests made by the Division of Seeds of the Department for the year 1918 was 98.85 per cent. Samples of wheat reaching the Department's office in the past few weeks show as low as 50 per cent germination, the range being from 50 to 91 per cent.

In all cases where any doubt exists as to the percentage of germination of seed a sample of such seed should be sent to the Department of Agriculture, Lincoln, Nebr., where a germination test will be made free of charge.

Improved Oats For Distribution

As a result of eleven years of careful selection and testing, the University of Nebraska has developed an improved strain of Kherson oats, and it now has a limited supply of seed which it is distributing through the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture. As an average in a four-year test at the Experiment Station, this strain has outyielded the original Kherson oats by 7.8 bushels an acre. While the men who have been conducting the strain say it will yield better than oats which farmers are now growing, they are anxious to follow up the testing. Hence, they suggest that farmers purchase ten-bushel lots, altho more or less may be had. They ask that the oats be sowed to themselves, though they should join other oats, and that they be thrashed separately and a report made of the yield. Pure seed for another year may also be assured in this manner. The oats are sold at $1.15 a bushel, plus cost of sacks and freight. Orders should be made through County Agents, or direct to the Agronomy Department, University Farm, Lincoln.

County Agricultural Agent.

Old Settler Laid to Rest

Far and wide across this part of the country is known the name of P. M. Cochrane, an aged pioneer, an upright man and truly a veteran of the farm.

The end of a long, industrious and prosperous life came Monday morning, Sept. 15, 1919.

This venerable man had reached the natural ending of life's pathway and passed peacefully into the great beyond.

He was born in Scotland June 4th, 1838, and had seen 81 years of the joys and sorrows that constitute earthly existence.

He was a resident of Canada during early boyhood, and came here from the lake Superior region and resided in this section until the day of his death.

His wife and three children preceded him on the long journey. The surviving children are Mrs. Abram Newton, whose husband died but a week since; Carrie, Frank and Orville at home; and James who is teacher of an Indian school in Oklahoma; Mrs. Robert Cochrane, a widowed daughter-in-law, of Franklin.

Funeral services were held at the old homestead Wednesday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Mitchell, of Franklin. Interment was in Riverton cemetery.—Riverton Review.
