PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

Small Town People Had a Great Idea, but It Was Disappointing to the "Drummer."

A commercial traveler arrived for the first time at a small country town one evening. Early next morning he was awakened by a great blowing of whistles, steam sirens, buzzers, etc.

Rejoicing in the thought of doing a lot of business, he asked the hotel proprietor later on:

"This is quite a manufacturing town, isn't it?"

"Oh, yes; we're pretty busy," was the proud reply.

"What kind of factories have you?"

"Well—this time more slowly—flour principally."

"Only flour?"

"Yes, that's all as yet. But our flour mill's a good one."

"But I heard at least a dozen whistles going this morning."

"You did," agreed the proprietor, dropping his voice, confidentially, "but they are all at the flour mill. You see, we got the whistles we should want for the factories we are going to have, and put them in to make the town sound more lively. Quite 'cited,' ain't it?"

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION NOTES

Lincoln.—The convention opened this week's work by passing two proposals. One places rights of aliens in property under the jurisdiction of the legislature and leaves the rights of people of other states in property of this state the same as if they lived in the state. The other authorizes the state board of public funds to place all school lands for sale at auction instead of under the appraisal plan. A strong fight was put up by Bryant and others to keep the school lands from being sold.

Business colleges and other privately operated educational institutions will be subject to taxation under a proposed amendment to the state constitution approved by the convention. Only education, charitable and religious institutions operated without private profit will be exempt. The amendment also provides that tangible property be assessed at a uniform rate, while intangible property, such as stocks and bonds would be assessed at a rate to be fixed by the legislature. Household goods to the amount of $200 would be exempt.

Proposal No. 77, the Anderson proposition before the convention to make the American language the official language of the state, was discarded by a vote of 28 to 65, and in its place was taken a modified proposal which reads: "The English is hereby declared to be the official language of this state and all official proceedings, records and publications shall be in such language, and the common school branches shall be taught in such language in public, private, denominational and parochial schools."

Adoption of the principle of the short ballot by the convention is not favored if the action of the members on several propositions. In the way of amendments to the Jackson-Rynum bill can be taken as the real feeling existing. After several amendments had been proposed and disposed of a motion was made to send the bill back to the standing committee with instructions to draw up a bill cutting out the placing of appointments in the hands of the five elective officers and leaving it as it is now.

The constitutional convention in committee of the whole, adopted the legislative committee recommendation to raise the membership of the senate from 33 to 50. The house will remain as before, with 100 members. The proposition to divide counties with more than one representative into representative districts was defeated, while the present system of float districts will remain. A recommendation to raise the pay of the members from $800 to $800 for the session was adopted.

The convention has adopted Proposal No. 9, retaining the present senatorial and legislative districts until changed by law, and Proposal 71, providing that the compensation of any public official regulated by the legislature shall not be changed during the term for which that official is elected, nor compensation for contracts altered where the work has been completed.

Three standing committees of the constitutional convention to whom was referred two proposals intended to cope with the farm tenantry problem held a second open hearing the past week, but instead of taking definite action deferred the evil day by referring the whole matter to a sub-committee of six to be chosen by Cornell of Cherry and Bigelow of Douglas.

The committee on education has reported out three proposals: No. 323, providing state tax to support schools, No. 324, denying state aid to schools running below "minimum term required by law," No. 325, prohibiting sectarian instruction in public schools or institutions.

By a vote of ninety-six to two the convention adopted the suffrage amendment, which will remove the sex qualification for voters, as soon as ratified by the people next fall. L. J. Te Pool of Omaha and E. J. Speik of Saline county cast the dissenting votes.

The convention by almost unanimous vote adopted the Omaha home rule proposal. It provides that any city of over 100,000 population may adopt home rule under the present charter by a majority vote of the qualified electors of the city.

The convention, by a vote of 28 to 32, rejected an amendment requiring election of state legislators by districts in Douglas and Lancaster counties. A provision opposing division of smaller counties into districts carried, 38 to 17.

Proposal No. 221 providing for verdicts by five-sixths of a jury in all civil cases was passed by the convention on third reading last week.

The convention indefinitely postponed Proposal No. 246, by McLaughlin of Douglas, introduced at the request of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, to permit the levy of taxes for the purpose of city publicity.

Amendments providing that persons in military and naval service may vote at state elections, no matter where located, and for township organization in counties upon a majority vote of the people, received third reading adoption by the convention last Wednesday.

FIND WEALTH IN WINTER

Canadian Farmers Turn Winter Months to Good Account.

Large crops and good prices for the wheat, oats, barley and flax from Canadian farms have made the winter resorts in California at times resemble a meeting of a Canadian farmers' institute, but the practice among successful farmers of spending their winters, holidaying seems to be on the wane. After all, nothing can be more tiresome than having nothing to do, and the farmers of Western Canada are now finding winter employment right on their farms which rivals the attractions of the sunny South.

Live stock is the explanation, according to a six-foot Westerner who dropped into the Canadian Government Information Bureau at 311 Jackson street, St. Paul. He was on his way back to Western Canada with a carload of selected breeding stock which had carried off blue ribbons at several state fairs in 1919. "We have found," said he, "that there is just as much pleasure and a great deal more profit in developing a herd of prize stock as in listening to the murmur of the sea waves. Where we used to grow grain exclusively now we are raising stock as well. The fact that steers raised in Western Canada took the grand championship at the International Live Stock Show at Chicago two years in succession shows how well we are getting along. And instead of depleting our bank rolls we add a tidy sum to them."

"But don't you find the life monotonous?"

"Not in the least. You see, we have a rural club which meets in our school house, where we thrash out all kinds of problems. Here we exchange ideas and also have occasional talks from government experts, and the man who goes abroad for the winter only realizes how much he has missed when at a summer picnic he hears an address by a neighbor that would do credit to a college graduate."

"It was at one of these meetings that we decided to import a prize-winning stallion, and today our district is raising some of the best draft horses in Canada. The carload of breeding stock which I am now shipping to my farm is indirectly the result of our club meetings. We are going to make that little corner of Saskatchewan one of the big stock centers of America. Why shouldn't we? Everything is in our favor—climate, fertility, cheap land, free grazing land adjoining lots of farms, creameries, government supervision. You know how energetic the northern climate makes a man? Well, it's just like that with stock. They get to be great, husky fellows, hardy and big-framed—and that counts on market day."

"Come up and see me some time," were his parting words as he left to catch his train. "I'll show you some of the finest land and live stock out of doors, and treat you to a real farm meal—everything but the coffee and sugar grown right on my farm. That counts some in these days of high prices."—Advertisement.
