CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION NOTES

Lincoln.—Up to the end of last week the convention, which has been in continuous session since December 2, with the exception of the holiday adjournment, only four proposals had actually gone through the grist on second reading, which is practically final action. They are:

No. 109: Re-writing the initiative and referendum; reducing the necessary signatures of petitioners to 7 per cent of the total electorate to initiate a constitutional amendment, and 5 per cent for the referendum; also requiring only title of bill being referred to be printed on petition.

No. 221: Permitting legislature to authorize jury verdicts by a five-sixths vote in civil cases.

No. 158: Permits voting by citizens of this state while in the military or naval service.

No. 228: Equal suffrage.

Twenty-four additional proposals have been adopted in committee of the whole, and are now in the hands of the phraseology committee, and will come up for second reading during the present week.

The most important act of the convention the past week was the adoption of Proposal 326, one of the "language" proposals. The final vote came only after several amendments were rejected by so close a vote that friends of the bill became agitated for fear it would be defeated. The amendments, while not vital to the bill, gave opportunity for oratory. The proposal as adopted reads as follows: "The English is hereby declared to be the official language of this state, and all official proceedings, records and publications shall be in such language, and the common school branches shall be taught in said language in public, private, denominational and parochial schools."

Major-General Leonard Wood delivered a stirring address to convention delegates last Monday. The general laid particular stress upon the importance of encouraging greater production from the farms, by creating better markets for farm produce, and making living conditions in the country even better than they are today. To do this he advocates better roads and better schools and legislation that will improve agricultural conditions that will draw people from the congested cities. Universal military training was urged by the general, and he said he wanted the peace treaty approved with proper reservations that will make it truly American.

It is believed that the convention will be in session for at least two weeks longer and perhaps for three or four weeks. The most important proposals remaining to be considered include the question of the recall of public officials, the creation of an industrial court, the establishment of a system of state health insurance and of compulsory workmen's compensation laws.

The committee on the executive department has recommended a proposal making only the governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, attorney general and state superintendent the elective officers of the state, abolishing the office of lieutenant governor and giving the duties to the president of the senate, and making the land commissioner appointive.

By a vote of 56 to 34 the convention approved Proposal No. 98 by Ross of Merick county in amended form. It provides that private property cannot be taken for private use except for private ways of necessity, for drains, flumes, ditches or across lands of others for agricultural and sanitary purposes.

By a vote of ninety-six to two the convention adopted the suffrage amendment, which will remove the sex qualification for voters, as soon as ratified by the people next fall. L. J. Te Poe of Omaha and E. J. Speik of Saline county cast the dissenting votes.

Half a million dollars is the limit to which the state can go into debt, as reported out by the committee on public indebtedness. This raises the limit from $100,000 and will probably stop attempts made by some members to raise the limit of indebtedness much above that figure.

Proposal No. 323, Pugsley's pet amendment, requiring the legislature to provide legislation for a state school tax, struck a snag last week and went into the indefinitely postponed hopper.

Proposal No. 233 by Osborne of Morrill, one of the minister delegates, which provides for the reading of the Bible in public schools, was rejected by the convention by a vote of 48 to 34.

The convention has approved a proposal to turn in fees received by the department of fish and game into that department instead of into the school funds.

In spite of a great deal of opposition by lawyer delegates the convention went on record in favor of requiring a decision by five supreme court judges before any law may be declared unconstitutional.

A proposal for a provision giving the legislature power to create an industrial trial court to pass upon controversies between employers and employees "in which the public welfare is affected," was presented to the convention, by the committee on industrial conditions.

CAME NEAR DYING

Finally Used Doan's and Was Restored to Health. Has Been Strong and Well Since.

"Malaria fever weakened my kidneys when I was a young man," says L. W. Garrison, 23 F. St., Anderson, S. C. "Finally, ten years ago, I was in such bad shape that I expected to die. Medicine wouldn't help me any more. My back pained as if it were pierced with a knife. Many times I have fallen in the street and didn't have any strength to move until the awful misery was eased up. I couldn't sleep in bed for two years. The kidney secretions passed every few minutes and scalding hot water couldn't have burned any worse. I thought I was doomed to die, but a friend pleaded with me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I owe my life to his visit. Doan's helped me from the start and eleven boxes made a permanent cure which has lasted eight years. I have not had one sick minute since, nor missed a day from work." Sworn to before me.

Cultivate Mental Control.

Specialists tell us that most abnormalities are purely mental. If that be true, character is a question of mind balance. Permit yourself to go groveling in the cellars of mental vice and you are sure to develop the traits of your mental actors. Search out the victorious heroes who have mastered self and risen to distinction and you are destined to rise with them. Mental control will banish weakness more surely than will nostrums. You have many chances to rise but you have only one character to build. Every impulse you put into it will contribute to progress if the motive is right. There will be many to advise you, but you must be the realist and actor of your own ambitions. You must strive for goals, and in the striving you will force character in such fashion that it will stand any strain. The process builds strength for you.—Grit.

Good Local Talent.

Uncle Ezra (at theater)—George, where do all them actors live? George (the native)—Why, they live here.
