

ASPIRIN—Its Uses

First Introduced by "Bayer" in the Year 1900

The name "Bayer" identifies the true, world-famous Aspirin prescribed by physicians for nineteen years. The name "Bayer" means genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions of people.

In each unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" you are told how to safely take this genuine Aspirin for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis and Pain generally.

Always say "Bayer" when buying Aspirin. Then look for the safety "Bayer Cross" on the package and on the tablets.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages.

Aspirin is trade mark of Bayer Manufacture. Monocetate of Salicylic acid.

It's a pity a man can't put a plaster on his conscience when it hurts him.

Liver and Bowels

Twenty-five million boxes of Cascarets were sold last year to folks who wanted relief without injury, from Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Gases, Colds and Sick Headache. Cascarets work while you sleep, removing the toxins, poisons and sour, indigestible waste without griping or inconvenience. Cascarets regulate by strengthening the bowel muscles. They never weaken or shock the liver like calomel or harsh pills. Cascarets cost so little too.—Adv.

A Matter of Rings.

Kenneth Jeffries, who was graduated from Technical high school in January, 1918, was selected as one of the marines to escort President Wilson on the trip to France. One day when the liner was plowing through the middle of the Atlantic, Jeffries was viewing the water from the deck. Another marine, approaching him, inquired about the Tech graduating ring on his finger.

"I have a right to wear that," answered Jeffries. "I'm from Technical high school."

"I have one to match that," answered the other, and produced a similar ring. He was a member of the first Tech graduating class of 1912.—Indianapolis News.

For Government Regulation.

"I presume you're mighty glad the war is over."

"Well, I don't jes' know about dat," answered Mandy. "Cose I've glad to have my Sam back home an' all dat, but I jes' know I ain't never gwine t' get money from him so regular as I did while he wuz in de army an' de government wuz handlin' his financial affairs."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Electricity in Next War.

That the use of high explosives in modern warfare has about reached the end of its development, is the opinion of a French inventor of one powerful compound of that nature. Neither can poisonous gases, it is indicated, be made much more dangerous than were those contrived in the world war. Flying mechanisms of various types promise much greater menace, and it is probable that any new developments in scientific warfare visible in the next international disagreement will be electrical in their nature. Electricity's use in the last war was relatively small.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

KILLED MANY TO GET INSURANCE

TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

Unrivaled in the Annals of Crime for the Multitude of His Methods—Probably a Miser Who Hid His Gold.

Manchester, Eng.—Great murderers are more interesting to most people than they like to imagine. A really good murderer, a first ranker, is in a queer sort of way, a national possession. England has its Palmer, France its Gilles de Raiz, the United States its H. H. Holmes.

And we South Africans have Pierre Basson, a multiple murderer of the most interesting and dangerous sort, says the writer of a South African letter to the Manchester Guardian.

Basson insured, among many others, the life of a German farmer called Schaeffer for $7,500. Afterward Schaeffer disappeared. The papers sailed as near the wind of libel as they dared, but no one would say with whom he was last seen. One hot Saturday afternoon in December the police went and dug in Basson's fowl hockje.

Pierre watched them at their work from his window. When they had made some progress he ran into his mother's bedroom, in his shirt sleeves.

Took His Own Life.

He pulled out all the drawers of the wardrobe on to the floor, looking for his brother's revolver. His mother screamed to save him. His last words, which he said with his face streaming with sweat and tears, were "It's Toby's fault."

Toby Louw was arrested after a long search, and put on his trial. He was Basson's dearest friend.

The principal witness against him was Caroline. She passed one night, she said, down the road on her way to the tiny village in the Flats. She saw a light in the henroost. Curiously, she stopped and put her ear against the partition, which edged the road.

A voice inside said, "Toby, gee mij die kalk." (Give me the lime.)

"And the chickens prayed together with terror," she deposed. It was this statement which made the police go and dig in the hock that hot afternoon. Toby brought his girl, Miss Oliviera, a Portuguese, to cry for him, and he was acquitted.

Probably a Miser.

Basson (whom even the judge called "Peery" in his summing up in deference to his family) at the height of his career was a young man, not much more than thirty, and reputed to be the fastest walker in Capetown. He was educated at one of the best schools at the Cape, from which he was finally expelled for tormenting animals. He was an insurance agent and rent collector. Many—some say forty, twenty would be much nearer the mark—of the people whom he insured died suddenly.

Like William Palmer, his own brother was among the number.

If he killed them all he was unrivaled in the annals of crime for the multitude of his methods. In lonely walks, by pools in the windy sands of the Flats, in broad daylight, at night, in the crops at Stellenbosch, in the sick bed, by sudden falls from high cliffs, in drowning in the sea—these people ended their lives.

No one ever knew what he did with the money. He was supposed to have smoked opium with Chinamen in Rose street under Signal hall. The most likely theory was that he was a miser, and hid and cherished his gold alone.

Woman, Scalped, Gets Well.

Valparaiso, Ind.—Mrs. Helen Relmers of Wheeler has recovered from being scalped. Over 100 stitches replaced her scalp, which was practically torn from her head by her hair catching in an overhead shafting. Only a red scar remains on her forehead.

"TAKING STOCK"

Should Sentiment Always Have Precedence?

"Taking stock" of oneself is a periodical duty, probably not always practiced, and is as necessary as taking stock of your household effects or your "store goods." The right minded man will do this. In unmolested moments he gives way to deep meditation; he gathers his thoughts to ascertain if brains, energy, and ability are synopting properly, working together on lines that answer to an ambition that looks for a satisfactory return.

If there be a deficit, his endeavor should be to discover the leakage. It may be that he lacks the nerve to go into a retrospective analysis, or fails in initiative that will prompt him to throw his horoscope in the future. Unless he can do these things he will never be able to pull himself out of any "rut" in which his condition has placed him. He must "take stock."

"Stock taking" leads to modern-day efficiency, and is demanded of every worker if unsatisfactory conditions are to be overcome. In the case of the farmer it may be that he is working a "too high-priced farm"; interest and rent may be an "overhead" eating up the profits. There may be other reasons why profits are not shown. It is just possible that he is sacrificing profit and encouraging loss because of sentiment, but he does not realize that this is the cause. The farm was his birthplace; reared upon it, he knows every nook and corner of the old place. He fished in the brook, hunted squirrels in the woods, hid in the hayfield, grew to manhood upon the place, courted and married and brought up his family there. These are ties that commend themselves, and why shouldn't sentiment have a say? To many this will appeal. But are these good reasons to continue? Does not one owe it to himself and to his dependents to "take stock," and put in effect action that will bring a balance on the credit side of the ledger—the balance that will bring happiness and give a comfort far greater than a mass of unpaid bills and a house full of worry, and a devotion to sentiment? Should he not look around for more favorable conditions, which may easily be found?

Procrastination is said to be a thief. In this case the axiom is undoubtedly true. To allow the adverse conditions under which you may be laboring to continue may keep you for years longer in the present unsatisfactory position.

There was a man at Brazil, Ind., who made weekly visits for upward of a year to the office of the Canadian government at Indianapolis, Ind., and from the agent secured all the information he possibly could as to conditions in Western Canada. But he lacked decision, did not "take stock," or if he took it, failed to act. This was fourteen years ago. He lived on a small farm, which gave him a mere existence, and no promise of anything more. He is still on the same place and no better off today than then. He had a friend working in a glass factory, who also had but little means. He became interested in Western Canada. He possessed, though, spirit and action. With the impulse thus prompted he moved to Saskatchewan and took up a farm. Today he is the owner of a splendid section of land, has plenty of money in the bank, and could retire with a handsome competence.

That which has been the good fortune of the Brazil glass worker, who had "taken stock" and profited by it, may be that which will follow any other of like temperament and a firm wish to erect for a satisfactory future.

Western Canada submits for consideration and approval conditions in agricultural lines that are exceptional. There is land there that annually produces about the same return as any other farming land, and it can be purchased at but a portion of what the place which has not been a source of profit can be sold for. A section instead of a quarter-section, worked under western conditions, with no more effort, solves the big "overhead" expense. The social conditions, which are an important factor in deciding on a new home location, are ideal.—Advertisement.
