MESSENGER OF DEPARTING RACE AT CHAUTAUQUA

Princess Neawanna of the Ojibwas Eloquent Speaker.

One of the most accomplished Indian girls in the United States, Princess Neawanna, is recognized as among the foremost students of that interesting period when the far-flung continent of North America was passing from the hands of the Indian to the progressive ownership of our forefathers. She is an eloquent speaker, of strong personality, concise and clear-cut in her thinking and her addresses are described as "decidedly fascinating." While her exhibit of native work will be interesting, her best exhibit is her own culture, training and attitude of mind, according to the superintendent of schools of Middletown, O. She will be garbed in her beautiful native beaded costume, representing the Ojibwa princess of the seventeenth century.

SOMETHING THE MATTER.

There is something the matter with your child if it does not desire to join the Chautauqua Juniors. There is something the matter with you if you don't want him to. The expense is nothing compared to the benefit to a community.

Summer is the time designed by nature for picnics. Remember the kids. They need it as much as the older crowd. Give them a ticket to Chautauqua and they'll be better for it for a whole year through, possibly for life. It pays to cultivate a kid, even more than your fine stock.

BOB SEEDS SAYS

"Most Things That Can't Be Done Can Be."

Bob Seeds, the man who made an old run-down Pennsylvania farm so valuable that the state asked him to travel around and tell how he did it and people came long distances to buy some of that dirt at $1.50 per bushel, says: "Most things that can't be done, can be done if you go at them right," and he says he has demonstrated it on his farm. They told him he would starve to death on that "God-forsaken place," which had been abandoned for seven years—but he didn't. Instead, he accomplished a thing which has made his name known all over the United States. He says he only has three lectures: "How God Made the Soil Fertile," "Influence of Home," and "Mistakes of Life Exposed." The first tells how he makes his money; the second, the way he lives; and the third, his religion. Which one he will deliver here we do not know but any one of them will be well worth your time to hear when he comes during the Chautauqua.

"Poor Man's Weather Glass."

The figures of which the leaves of the horse-chestnut are made up keep flat and fanlike so long as the fine weather is likely to continue. With the coming of rain, however, they drop, as if to offer less resistance to the weather. The scarlet pimpernel is known in England as the poor man's weather-glass, and opens its flowers only when the weather is fair.

Christian Church History.

With much diversity of opinion on minor points, there is a general agreement in dividing the history of the church into three great periods: the first, from the birth of Christ to the time of Constantine; the second, from that epoch to the reformation, and third, from the reformation to the present time.
