The vaudeville performance at the Auditorium was well attended last evening. Those in attendance were well pleased with the show. The feature picture Justice Johnson in "Blackbirds" which was exhibited before the vaudeville acts was greatly enjoyed by the audience. The music by Mr. Windolph at the pipe organ and the Betz orchestra was especially pleasing. The vaudeville acts were as good as generally seen in the larger cities.

Our enterprising little city to the north, Blue Hill, has organized a first class ball team for the season and they have already won both games that they played. They expect to have several good games at that place on Sunday afternoons and those who like to see good clean ball will be amply repaid if they witness the game. The management of that team has sent out several complimentary season tickets to several newspapers and we wish to thank them for the favor.

The number of modern farm homes is growing rapidly every year. Few homes are now constructed that are not modern, and many old ones are being made modern. The State College of Agriculture, thru its Extension Service is encouraging modern farm homes by providing literature, suggestions, and blueprint plans. Those who have studied the subject believe modern houses will do much toward making farm life more satisfying. It is argued that the farmer who can afford an automobile can afford running water in his house. Likewise, the farmer who can afford a gas engine can also afford an electric light plant.

Learn From Past Errors. Mistakes of the past can never be corrected. Errors of the future only can be avoided. From the past we should learn how to live so that our lives can be free from needless regrets.
