STATE FARM NEWS

A number of Hereford breeders of Dawes county and fifteen boys recently met in Crawford and organized a Calf Club. Sam Swinbank, Clyde Buffington and Mr. Lemons were named on a committee to purchase calves for the club. Mr. Buffington was appointed local leader for the club. A pig club was recently formed and some interesting meetings will be scheduled this winter.

A large number of Duroc Jersey breeders of northwest Nebraska met at Hay Springs recently and organized the Northwestern Duroc Breeders association. The matter of a show to be held this fall was discussed at some length and 20 men agreed to enter their herds in case such a show should be held. This show probably will be held at Chadron. Four hundred dollars in premium money has been appropriated.

A farmers' livestock shipping association was recently formed in Frontier county. A number of farmers have been shipping together for some time and have found that it pays to do it co-operatively. The following officers were elected: President, August Olson; Vice president, F. H. Hecht; Secretary-treasurer, Thorwald Peterson; Board of Directors, Will Price, B. A. Wilford. E. J. Keogh was elected by the board as sales manager.

Officials of the U. S. Grain Growers' Inc., have just announced that because of the organization work which remains to be done the campaign for new members would not start in Nebraska for at least a month and that due publicity of this campaign would be given beforehand in the press. This warning is given the farmers of the state in order that they may beware of fraudulent solicitors, should such solicitors appear.

C. H. Gustafson of Lincoln, former president of the Farmers' Union in this state, was elected president of the U. S. Grain Growers' Inc., at a meeting of the board of directors held in Chicago last week following receipt of a telegram giving notice that the incorporation of the company had been effected. J. M. Anderson of St. Paul, Minnesota, was elected first vice-president; Wm. G. Eckhardt of Dekalb, Illinois, Treasurer; and Frank M. Myers of Fort Dodge, Iowa, Secretary.

Though free transportation rulings for Gift-Corn terminated on April 15, it does not necessarily mean that the project has been brought to a close in the state, according to H. D. Lute of the Nebraska Federation. Freight on cars billed out after April 15 is being met by the relief committees from the cash they have on hand. Figures from the Chicago office of the Gift-Corn project total 431 cars or approximately 800,000 bushels. On April 15, Nebraska had contributed 20 cars. Illinois led the list with 147 cars.

Several purchased livestock breeders throughout the state have raised objection as to the value placed upon their stock by assessors, according to Fred Dewese, head of the legal service department of the state federation. He is of the opinion that the county assessor should use his influence to have the precinct assessors use a method of valuation which will give to the same classes of stock the same value throughout the county. Purebred stock assessments may vary in adjoining counties and the State Board of Equalization may deal with that question, but uniformity within the county may best be secured by friendly co-operation between the breeders of purebred stock and the county assessor.

After an invitation to speak before the Omaha Chamber of Commerce had been withdrawn due to pressure from livestock and grain members, Clifford Thorne, General Counsel for the U. S. Grain Growers' Inc., the new farmers co-operative grain marketing organization, spoke to 300 farmers in Omaha last Friday afternoon and in no uncertain terms pointed out the defects of the present grain marketing system. He said that the greatest genuine grain marketing exchange in the United States had developed into the world's greatest gambling den. Mr. Thorne appeared upon an urgent invitation of the Nebraska Co-operative Grain and Livestock Association. He accepted an invitation to speak to the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce on April 30th.

G. A. Hart traveling freight and passenger agent for the Burlington from Beatrice, spent several hours in Red Cloud Tuesday attending to business matters.

Ted Manley returned to Casper, Wyoming, Thursday evening after spending a couple of weeks here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Manley.

MEETING THE ISSUE

When the Omaha Chamber of Commerce withdrew an invitation to Clifford Thorne, general counsel for the U. S. Grain Growers Inc., to speak before its members last week, it denied the right of the farmers to give attention to their economic problems. It refused to hear explained a plan which would, according to the farmers who drew it up, eliminate speculation in the handling of the farmers' grain. The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce on the other hand, acted wisely and justly in asking Mr. Thorne to appear before its members on Saturday of this week.

No city in the United States is more dependent upon agriculture than is Omaha. The business of Omaha during a twelve months period, reaches into the millions of dollars and much of this comes from the sale of farm products. Thousands of acres of fertile land in the Missouri valley furnish a steady flow of salable food stuffs with Omaha as the distributing point.

What then are the farmers of this state to expect when the Chamber of Commerce, the business representative body of any city, refuses to give them a hearing? It is folly to say the least. We doubt if the invitation of Mr. Thorne as withdrawn, expresses the sentiment of the business men of Omaha as much as it does the sentiment of a small group of individuals whose very welfare would be endangered if this plan or a similar one dealing with livestock, should succeed.

It may be, if we can take the action of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce with weight, that those opposed to the U. S. Grain Growers Inc., are going to use every effort in keeping the idea from receiving a hearing before the legitimate business interests and the public in general. If this be the case, then they fear to meet the farmer in open competition.

After all has been said and done, all the farmer contemplates doing is to set up machinery in competition with the one in existence. He wants to market his own grain because he sincerely believes that he can do it more efficiently, and by so doing, eliminate gambling on the open markets. But if he cannot do it more efficiently than at the present time, then the U. S. Grain Growers Inc., will not succeed. And the farmers will not want it to succeed for they are as desirous as the consuming public that their grain be sold by the shortest route and with the least waste possible and delay.

The farmers do not expect to, nor could they if they desired, form a monopoly for the selling of grain for an organization with such a basic principle could not long endure the eyes of the American people. All the farmer wants is a square deal.

In speaking of the action on the part of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce and the idea of the new grain

COAL

We are in the coal business and will try to have a supply of good coal on hand at all times, and will have a price on it that will save you money.

We have a car of Sunnyside Maitland now, and will have a car of NIGGERHEAD in a few days. You will find that these are extra good coals.

We are selling this coal on a close margin and will have to sell for cash. Please do not ask us for credit.

The Farmers Co-op Elevator
G. A. KAILEY, Mgr.

marketing plan in general, the Lincoln State Journal brought out several good thoughts in part as follows:

"There is little probability that the co-operative agencies of the farmers will ever take over entirely the marketing of grain. They are likely to make themselves a powerfully regulative force in that business. But private grain dealers, it is to be expected, will always be able to operate a shade more efficiently than the co-operative, and on that margin of advantage they will thrive in lively competition with the co-operatives. Private business in many lines faces the certainty of co-operative competition. People see in this a method of insuring themselves against too great exactions by private business organizations, and enough co-operative undertaking to satisfy that view we are sure to have. The enlightened representative of private business welcomes the invader and prepares to beat him by doing business more efficiently than his new competitor. In displaying that spirit toward Mr. Thorne and his enterprises the Lincoln business men displayed a game sense which their Omaha neighbors would have been wiser to match."—Nebraska Farm Bureau Review.
