Farmers Institute

October 25-28 are the dates for this year's Farmers' Institute. Already plans have been made for a bigger and better Institute than ever before. The schools will give a musical, moving pictures will show scenic Nebraska and her industries. University professors will be with us and all the entertainments and lectures during the evenings will be the best that can be obtained.

The dairy department will be a special feature this year and there will be a big show of horses. Now is the time to select your exhibits for the farm products department. A common remark at the institute is this one: "If I had known that there was nothing better than this I would have brought a real one." Do it now. The Institute is for all so let everyone enter something. There will be two parades and a big time for all. Lets go.

NOTED SINGERS IN RECITAL

HERE LAST OF MONTH
E. H. Newhouse will present Miss Jean MacNeil, and Mr. Emerson Williams, assisted by Chester Gaylord at Besse Auditorium Thursday September 29th.

This trio of artists comes to us with the highest tributes of press and public.

Miss MacNeil and Mr. Williams have occupied solo positions in the largest churches in New York, in addition to Concert and Oratorio work throughout America. While they specialize in songs of Bonnie Scotland, which they present in Scotch costumes, they never fail to please in the Oratorio and Concert numbers. They have contributed their share to the success of many of our worthy American composers.

Chester Gaylord is an artist who has made many friends among discriminating music lovers for his sincere musicianship and unusual ability.

There are indications that something out of the ordinary will be heard at the Recital, although E. H. Newhouse refuses to divulge just what it is. The reporter has his suspicions. If they are correct, those who attend are apt to have a very pleasant surprise.
