

WALTERS IS READY TO BUCK THE LINE

Declares Tanlac Ended Indigestion and Put Him in Pink of Condition.

"I would stake my last throw on Tanlac, for it can't be beat," says Floyd E. Walters, 1008 E. 13th St., Kansas City, Mo.

"My appetite was such a stacker I could hardly eat enough to keep going, and all the disagreeableness of indigestion, bloating, heartburn and palpitation fell to my lot. I would tremble from nervousness, sleep was almost a stranger to me, and my head and back ached so bad I could hardly stand it. I was as pale as a sheet, and that 'all in' feeling was nearly throttling me.

"But today I am in the pink of condition, feeling as hale and hearty as when I used to play football back in Leavenworth, Kansas, and the Tanlac treatment is what turned the trick for me. Yes, sir, I feel as fine as a fiddle, and am greatly indebted to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

Sleeves Minus or Transparent; Costume Knit of White Silk

"TO BE or not to be, that is the question" in regard to sleeves in summer frocks. Present-day modes indicate that extremists are answering according to their individual convictions.

True it is that long sleeves reaching beyond the wrist feature in many fashionable frocks, but these are outnumbered by sleeveless modes or those revealing the contour of the arm through transparency.

An interesting version of the sleeveless gown depends upon the deep lace really outstanding creation pattern in every detail—an example of what has been achieved in the styling of knitted outerwear. Perfection of knitted art is accomplished in the invisible-stripe skirt and coatee, all of pure white, with decorative motif rich in design, elaborate in coloring and vivid in contrast. This braided and embroidered design chooses orange, periwinkle and jade for its color scheme.

Satisfying to the extreme from an esthetic point of view, this lovely knitted costume promises double duty bertha to do double duty. That is, the bertha serves in lieu of sleeves as it charmingly veils the arm to the elbow. Ever so many canton crepe frocks, absolutely sleeveless, carry out this idea and the effect is modest and charmingly adapted to summer gowning. Such is the basic idea of the lovely silk frock here illustrated. The bertha effect is there, supplemented with a sheer malines semi-sleeve. The fabric of which this gown is fashioned is worthy of especial comment in that it carries throughout its weave a drop-stitch which gives the effect of draw-work, and this is an item of style advanced this season.

Fanciful sleeves which reveal the arm in openings and fantastic slashings are a paramount factor throughout dress design. Clever ribbon ties find favor in connection with the abbreviated sleeve and there is no limit to the charming effects which follow.

As the summer advances it is found that moire holds a place of vantage for silken afternoon frocks. Moire silk models with diminutive sleeves show a flare cuff close up to the shoulder. These flares are lined with a contrasting bright silk, which adds in a practical way. Not only does it supply a modish white skirt for the white lingerie blouse, but the tuxedo with bell sleeves may be charmingly worn as a separate summer sweater coat.

Among other entrancing white knitted apparel which will appeal to the bride-to-be is a long cape in fancy stitch done in snowy zephyr with a

a brilliant touch to the otherwise sombre black or brown.

Ideal among trousseau modes is a white-knitted costume, so exquisitely wrought as to become a classic in dress.

Surely, the creators of knitted fashions must have visioned the oncoming season of June brides, when they brought into being such a lovely array of white apparel expressed in terms of fine fibre silk and choice zephyrs as well.

Where is the happy bride-to-be who can withstand the witchery of a white fibre silk knitted costume such as is set forth in this illustration? It is a chin-chin collar of unspotted ermine. This would be charming over a white knitted skirt with a silk jersey-knit slipon. Handsome also are the white straight-line fibre-silk knit frocks with all-over design in embroidery effect set-toned to the background or in direct contrast. Simplicity itself is expressed in the wool jersey two-piece dresses, consisting of plaited skirt and plain slipover, the entire in pure white.

TO STAMP OUT ILLITERACY

State-Wide Effort in Progress in Oklahoma Under Direction of the American Legion.

A state-wide effort for the stamping out of illiteracy in Oklahoma is now in progress under direction of the American Legion. Dr. Frank H. MacGregor, chairman of the department of Americanism of the state Legion organization, is in charge of the work and has developed a novel plan to educate those unable to read or write in that state.

According to recent surveys, there are 56,844 illiterates in the state, of whom 5,483 are foreign born. It is hoped that it will be possible to include all persons coming under this classification in the Legion's plan for education. To this end the aid of educators, school organizations and of local officials has been enlisted through Doctor MacGregor's office.

The method to be used is known as the "Jones plan," so called from its introduction to the Greer county schools by Will C. Jones, superintendent and a Legionnaire. The first step is the organization of "principals' clubs," whose members are the heads of all schools in the district. The work of Americanization is thoroughly outlined to these men, and they pay personal visits to every illiterate in their district, offering assistance through the Legion plan, tabulating notes and making suggestions that may be of use to volunteer workers. The volunteer workers are to come from the teachers and students in higher classes. One person is "adopted" by each of these workers. A course of reading, English, simple arithmetic, and as the illiterate progresses, civil government and American history is given. The plan is in operation in several schools of the state, but it will not be put into complete use until the terms open next fall. Doctor MacGregor declares that if the work is undertaken in every school within the next two years he will be satisfied.

Doctor MacGregor, who resides in Mangum, Okla., served for 22 months overseas, a portion of which was spent in England. He was regimental surgeon of the famous Scottish Highland division—the "Laddies from Hell"—for several months. He was decorated by King George for "gallantry in action" during the second Marne campaign, and later became chief surgeon of the British base hospital at Hell.

DISABLED MAN AIDS BUDDIES

Hans Hunsdorf, St. Paul, Victim of Tuberculosis, Still Working for Fellow-Sufferers.

Disabled himself, perhaps no man in the Mid-West is doing more active work among disabled veterans of the World war than Hans Hunsdorf, now in the Aberdeen hospital at St. Paul, Minn. Hunsdorf has personally interested himself in the cases of his "buddies" who are suffering from the effects of their service in the World war and is endeavoring himself to these men by his splendid efforts in their behalf.

Hunsdorf was born in Eldswoid, Norway, in 1878. At thirty-nine he enlisted in the army at Fort McDowell, Cal., and went to France as a mechanic with the One Hundred and Eighty-sixth Aero squadron, where he made a splendid record. He received a certificate of disability in line of duty and is now totally and permanently disabled from the ravages of tuberculosis. This gave rise to a long period of hospitalization, during which time Hunsdorf has been in seven government institutions, beginning in France and ending at St. Paul, where he is now a patient.

Spurred on by conditions he saw in these hospitals among his companions, Hunsdorf set out by personal work to relieve the troubles of those about him. He has assisted hundreds in their claims for compensation and similar lines. He has attended every military funeral which has occurred in his locality, and has placed "the poppy of remembrance" on every coffin.

Recognizing the American Legion as one of the agencies for affording relief to World war veterans, Hunsdorf has put much effort into securing members for the organization. Since the opening of the 1923 campaign he has personally written the applications of 101, though this is probably the least of his service to the Legion. Without thought of the personal sacrifice involved, this man, of foreign birth, has given unstintingly for the country of his adoption, and now facing defeat because of the physical conditions brought on by his sacrifices, still devotes himself to the alleviation of suffering and anxiety among his former comrades-at-arms.
