The Fiddlin' Contest and Old Settlers Meet

The big celebration of last Thursday proves what co-operative boosting can do, and likewise the effectiveness of our local booster organization, consisting of the business men of Red Cloud.

When Mr. Linn decided to give a Fiddlin' Contest and taking all the responsibility of seeing that it went through in tip-top shape, and had plans well under way, the Booster Club got their heads together and decided to have an Old Settler's Meet and general celebration in connection, which was done with the result that Red Cloud had about 5,000 visitors that day, and a grand and glorious time for the old settlers, and the family, as a carnival company was on hand with a merry-go-round, ferris-wheel and numerous other things to entertain the children as well as the older ones.

About one hundred old settlers registered at the Besse Auditorium and took advantage of the free dinner and free movie tickets.

Joe McCracken, the only entry in the Fiddlin' contest, over the 75 year age limit, pleased the crowd with an exhibition of his skill, and was awarded the $5 prize.

Immediately after dinner the local band boys gave a concert in front of the auditorium, and soon after the auditorium was filled to capacity, and a program consisting of talks by Old Settlers, telling of their experiences in the early days, and readings, violin solos, etc, the meeting being concluded by Judge Blackledge with a short talk. The program lasting until late afternoon, the Besse exhibited the "Sheik of Araby" running a continual show until the Fiddlers contest was called at 9:30.

Garry Wilson of Smith county Kan., won first prize, the silver loving cup and $10 in cash; A. C. Cunningham, Red Cloud, second, $15 in cash; E. F. Payne, Inavale, third, $7.50 in cash.

At 4 o'clock accompanied by the band a large and enthusiastic crowd went to the Starke diamond where Superior played the local aggregation and lost to Red Cloud by a score of 13 to 1.

A big platform dance in the street, and the dance in the auditorium, with the entertainment furnished by the carnival closed the day's festivities late in the evening.
