The Red Cloud and Stillwater base ball teams, crossed bats and locked horns here last Friday. Both clubs support some strong players, and the game was thoroughly interesting from beginning to end, and each odd play good or bad, was cheered vociferously by the large number of ladies and gentlemen present; the boys played nine innings, which resulted in a 28 to 12 score in favor of Red Cloud. Not one cross word passed, and Cowles with her usual hospitality, invited both clubs to supper at the "Central House".

Capt. Platt, of the Red Cloud team, ran a foot race with Archie Isom, but being away from home, and among strangers, he came out second best.

HOG CHOLERA

Hog cholera is raging in this county. There has been out breaks in certain parts of the county in times past, but never was it so general and as early in the season as this year.

Some of the symptoms are off-shed. They may come to the trough, but only nibble at their food and then turn away. Great muscular weakness is shown by a weak, staggering gait, the hind parts sway from one side to the other. In many cases a cough will be noticed, the cough is usually dry and breaking.

It frequently happens that many hogs die before any particular cholera symptoms are noticed. These are usually affected with the septicemic form and peracute type of the disease. The only successful method of checking the disease and for prevention out-breaks is vaccination.

WOMEN OF THE OLD SOUTH

Had by No Means a Life of Idleness. Since Their Domestic Duties Were Many.

There is still widespread conception that the wives of the ante-bellum southern planters led a life of ease and idleness. Such was far from the truth, says a writer in the New York Sun. Women played a vital part in the old southern economic system, a role which kept her busy and loaded her with grave responsibilities.

She was the head of the domestic side of the plantation life. Not only did she supervise the housework of the mansion, but she had to look after the servants' quarters as well. As for the slaves, their food, their clothing, their health were under her care.

It is related that a distinguished southern gentleman was astonished, when he went to Mount Vernon, to find Mrs. Washington surrounded by negro girls, some as young as 10 years old, busily engaged in washing for the slaves of the plantation.

Wives of the square of the south were not idly defined. It was an important part of her life as it went on. It was dependent upon the plantation system out of which it grew. After the freeing of the slaves and the industrial revolution which it produced, the women of the South found themselves bereft of the occupation for which they were bred.

CARRY THE MILK IN BASKETS

Nature of Filipino Deliverers' Work Has Led to Their Superb Physical Development.

Traveling so lightly, the Manila milkmen deliver freshly pumping carabao milk in full Spanish wine bottles to his customers' front doors long before sunrise.

Unlike the American milkman, he has no equipment in which to transport his wares, but carries them in two wicker baskets slung from the ends of a bamboo pole which is laid across the shoulders through a wooden neck yoke.

Carabao milk is said to be delicious when served in coffee or chocolate, surpassing in flavor both cow's and goat's milk.

Because of their early morning track work, Filipino milkmen are superior physically to any other type of workmen in the islands, with powerful leg muscles and broad, strong shoulders.

Horseferry Road.

Visitors to London will remember a street back of Westminster abbey, which was called Horseferry road. It led to a bridge across the Thames and once had the only horse ferry allowed in London, a monopoly granted to the archbishops of Canterbury, and when most of the traffic of the old ferry was diverted by the opening of Westminster bridge, the see of Canterbury was granted $11,000 compensation for loss of revenue. The old ferry, which continued to ply until the erection of Lambeth bridge, 60 years ago, had a place in English history, for by it James II and his consort passed from Whitehall to the Surrey side one dark night in December 1688, en route for France and exile. The king threw the great seal into the river from the ferryboat during the crossing. It was picked up by a fisherman and given to William of Orange.

Carvings as Guides to Water.

In the country around Saline valley, Inyo county, Calif., Indian rock carvings can still be seen, and many whites know how to read them to the extent of using them as guides to water. In eastern Arizona these rock carvings were made by the ancient tribe from which the present-day Hopi descended. This is proved by the similarity between these pictures and those made in modern times by the Hopi, and by the fact that the sacred snake, worshiped by the Hopi for many centuries, was dug up in a ruin near Springerville. The Blackfeet have a tradition that many years ago a delegation was sent south to the land of the Hopi, by their head medicine man, to worship and pray before his sandstone figure, for the return of the buffalo herds to the Blackfeet country, after a migration.

Cursed to Wander Over Earth.

People without a country, the gypsies roam to all four corners of the earth. It is said that many years ago a Moslem saint of Turkey cursed the people with these words: "May you never more enter or belong to the 77½ races of the earth, but as outcasts be scattered, homeless, wretched and poor; ever wandering and toiling, never realizing wealth, never enjoying the fruits of your labor, and never requiring the esteem of mankind." The curse didn't work in all its particulars. For instance, a lot of gypsies are not poor. It is said that many have pretty fair bank accounts. And the saint cursed them to everlasting jail. But who ever saw a gypsy work?

Monster Planet.
Everything connected with the sun is staggeringly big. Those little dark sun-spots which you peer at cautiously through the medium of a smoked glass are, most of them, many thousands of miles across. One was measured and found to have a diameter of 13,000 miles—which means that the earth could have been pitched into it like a golf ball into a pail of water.

Lines to Remember.
Most of us seem to be hastening through the years weighted with the consciousness that more is being exacted of us than we can ever properly accomplish, until human life is fast threatening to resolve itself into a ceaseless pursuit of the things that are destined to remain undone. What shelter to grow ripe is ours? What leisure to grow wise?—Dawes Hicks.

Royal Flower Gifts Barred.

Faithless Husbands Evade Law.
Wife deserters in Nottingham, England, cannot be arrested on Sunday, according to the statutes. As a consequence 90 per cent of the warrants taken out against wife deserters are not served, though a reward is placed on the head of each man. The faithless husbands leave the city on Monday morning and do not return again until Sunday.

Proper Adjustments.
A little girl at Swope park Saturday afternoon was severely criticized by her mother for feeding popcorn to the goats from a pasteboard box. The child remonstrated that the goats were hungry. "Yes," said the mother, "but you should have given the popcorn to the ducks, and let the goats have the box."—Kansas City Star.

Pit Apparently Bottomless.
In a volcanic crater in the Sangre de Cristo mountains in San Isabel National forest is an apparently bottomless pit, with black marble sides, in which depth soundings of 1,500 feet have failed to touch bottom.
