The following, taken from a letter written by a Burlington official to Agent Bush, might be of interest to most of us, inasmuch as both the city and the Burlington have recently installed a chlorinator to treat their water supply. "To emphasize the necessity for keeping this plant in continuous operation quote for your information a few figures on chlorination. In Chicago from 1906 to 1911 there was no treatment and the average annual death rate was 14.9 per 100,000 population, from 1912 to 1916 while experimenting with chloring treatment this rate decreased 50%. From 1917 to 1920 the entire supply being treated and this death rate was reduced to 1.35 per 100,000 population showing Chicago almost free from water borne disease. Through carelessness the chlorinator was not in operation for eight days at Alpena, Michigan. Nine people paid for this error with their lives and 107 cases of typhoid. From many sources we have similar reports and conclude that where chlorinators are installed continuous operation and proper care is necessary."
