SCHOOL NOTES

The commercial department has begun the year's work with an enrollment of eighty, and the students are showing an interest in their work which is very commendable.

Business spelling has been added to the course this year and special drill is being given on the relation of correct pronunciation of words and correct spelling. Also considerable emphasis is placed on meanings of words similar pronunciation and therefore commonly confused. Students are required to keep lists of words commonly misspelled or mispronounced, and oral contests are given each week for drill in correct pronunciation and spelling of common words.

The class in business arithmetic is reviewing the fundamentals in preparation for advanced work, special emphasis being placed on accuracy. Each week a contest drill is given in rapid addition as accuracy seems to be the chief hindrance to good work in this subject.

Beginning typewriting classes find the Victrola a welcome addition to the equipment of the typewriting room. Writing to music makes the drills more interesting, also is very helpful in learning correct touch and developing a sense of rhythm which is essential to speed in typing. Each student keeps an individual chart showing his progress. Accuracy first, speed second, is the motto of each member of this class.

The commercial law class is making a detailed study of contracts and is becoming quite familiar with the essentials of valid contracts. Each week members of the class bring in examples of business in every day life for discussion as to their validity, in order that they may see the application of their (text book) knowledge to actual business affairs.

The Normal Trainees are the recipients of the news that much of the practice teaching is to be done the last twelve weeks of the semester. This means that much of the plan writing and observing must be done the first six weeks. Incidentally this accounts for the weekly procession from the Senior H. S. to the Grade building, the Normal Trainees are observing. The students are beginning to see that teaching is just a little more than a check at the end of four weeks.

The Smith-Hughes instructor visited a number of farmers the past week and they all seem to be well pleased with the plan of the agriculture work. They all expressed their opinions as feeling that the new course was the one that the farmer boy has been needing for a long time. Many country boys are much interested in farming and unless this interest is kept alert our future farmers may number less and less from generation. At the present time the class is taking out the east end of the shop and putting in a nine foot door. A large door is needed in order that large pieces, such as hayracks, may be taken in and out of the shop. The class recently visited Kellogg's farm where they studied and judged Duroc Jersey hogs.

The sixth grade won the flag contest by receiving the greatest number of votes at the lecture held at the M. E. church Friday night. You will see it floating from the Grade building flag pole every holiday this coming year.

In the tests given the Kindergarten class Friday in the Bolenzus reading, all but ten passed with a mark of 100%.

The football game with Guide Rock has been changed to October 12th in order that the game may be during the Farmers' Institute.

The street commissioner has been busy lately grading several streets and avenues in this city. Let the good work continue.
