

Raid on Dublin
Journal Plot to Seize City, Rumor
Raid Creates Sensation—Uneasiness Felt Over Further Activities of Revolting Republicans.

London, March 31.—(By A. P.)—It is widely believed in Dublin that the armed raid on the plant of the Freeman's Journal yesterday was part of a project for the seizure of the whole city, which failed through the lack of forces, which failed through the lack of forces, says a Daily Mail correspondent.

The raid created a sensation and there was considerable uneasiness last night, the people expecting some fresh coup by the republicans. The latter's claim of big secessions from the Free State section of the Irish republican army, including half the forces guarding the Bank of Ireland, has been given wide publicity, and seems to have added to the nervousness throughout the city.

The Daily Mail, in printing the dispatch, appended a note to the effect that the telephone operators in Dublin suddenly cut the connection during the transmission of the message, which is incomplete.

Latest reports agree that, although three rotary presses and 14 linotype machines were ruined in the raid, preventing the Freeman's Journal from issuing a complete newspaper, there was only slight loss from fire.

Constable Shot.

Belfast, March 31.—(By A. P.)—A patrol of special police returning from duty today was ambushed in Hill street, Newry. Constable Allen was shot dead and Constable Waring was wounded. While the other members of the patrol were picking up Allen and Waring they were heavily fired on with machine guns.

Two more men were shot and seriously wounded in the streets of Belfast last night, and a bomb was thrown. No one was injured by the missile.

Londonderry, Ireland, March 31.—Irish republican army insurgents today held up a train at Newton Cunningham, County Donegal, and burned all the newspapers it was carrying. Insurgents also ejected the free state troops from the barracks at Cardonagh and Moville, and commanded the Swilly hotel at Buncrana, the largest hotel in County Donegal.

Free State Bill Law.

London, March 31.—The Irish free state bill became law today when King George gave his assent to the measure. The house of lords decided not to insist upon amendments it had adopted, and an adjustment was reached between the two houses of parliament.

North Welcomes Peace Pact.

Belfast, March 31.—(By A. P.)—Sentiment in northern Ireland, as reflected by the press comment, welcomed the signing of the agreement acted on at suppressing the reign of disorder, but the editorial writers point to some of the difficulties to be overcome.

The Belfast News says the agreement has one merit which is worth a great many concessions, namely, the promise of co-operation between the Catholics and Protestants in support of the northern government in its efforts for the peace.

The Northern Whig, unionist, while admitting there is promise of brighter days, thinks it's a promise only.

"Though Protestant and Catholic unite," it adds, "we may, in hoping for a proper issue, have to lament one more bitter disappointment. It is worse than useless for one side to bury the hatchet if the other continues to flourish its own weapon."

The nationalist Irish News says: "The seeds of evil are deep-rooted and have been constantly sprouting the bitter crop flourishing in Ireland for centuries, but the peace seeds have been planted in the hearts of the masses of the people."

Unionist Press Enthusiastic.

Dublin, March 31.—(By A. P.)—The agreement signed in London is enthusiastically received by the unionist Irish Times and the nationalist Irish Independent.

The former considers that the terms represent broad-minded and generous effort to remove all causes of strife between the north and south.

The Independent says a policy of reconstruction is so much needed throughout the country that all sections should unite in the work of rebuilding the nation and increasing its prosperity."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt.—"I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting, and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good it was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well." — Mrs. L. A. GUIMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women. Mrs. Guimann's letter should interest you.

Marshal Joffre Brings Message of Peace to U. S.

Thousands Gather at Blaine, Wash., to Greet Hero of the Marne—International Portal Dedicated.

By The Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., March 31.—Marshal Joffre, the warrior, came to the United States at Blaine yesterday, bringing a message of peace.

Formally dedicating the international peace portal commemorating more than 100 years of peace with out fortifications along the boundary line between Canada and the United States, he expressed the wish that the peace now existing may never be broken. "But," the marshal added, "every nation must be ready to defend itself. True peace must come through freedom and equality of the nations of the world."

Thousands, both Americans and Canadians, gathered at the great peace arch to greet the hero of the Marne battle.

The ceremonies at the portal were simple. Mayor H. W. Hunter of Blaine welcomed the marshal in behalf of the people of Blaine and the state of Washington. Then Samuel Hill, president of the Pacific Highway association, introduced Marshal Joffre. The marshal responded in French, his address being translated after he finished. pected to join the suspension, but not the Nova Scotia district. The anthracite districts of Pennsylvania, which are half unionized, are expected to shut down completely, and, in addition, many bituminous miners in that state have been called on to join with the union men there. Washington also is expected by the union officials to experience idleness at the nonunion mines.

Big Supply on Hand.

The duration of the suspension in the union fields, as also the strike in the nonunion mines, is a matter of conjecture. The shutdown begins with warm weather approaching and with stocks on hand, the largest at any time for the last several years. Government reports place the stocks at 63,000,000 tons, a quantity as large as that which had been accumulated at the end of the war—armistice day, November 11, 1918. This supply, government officials estimate, will meet every demand for 43 days, and the depletion of this reserve is regarded by union officials as necessary before they expect the bituminous operators to indicate any willingness to confer with the union on new wage contracts.

Briefly, the miners' demands are that the basic wages be retained in the soft coal fields and that the anthracite tonnage workers receive a 20 per cent increase, with $1 a day advance being given to the anthracite day workers; rates for the soft coal workers range from $1.08 to $1.31 a ton for pick-mining, and the day men receive $7.50 a day. Exact tonnage rates in the anthracite fields are said by the union to be lower than in the soft coal district and the anthracite day men received from $4.20 to $5.60 a day.

Would Abolish "Check Off."

In addition to reduction in wages, the soft coal operators have refused to continue the interstate method of contract making. Reductions proposed by the operators generally amount to 40 per cent of the prevailing scales or a return to the wages established by contracts made in 1916. Some operators also insist in the abolition of the union's "check-off," the plan by which operators deduct union dues from the miners' wages.

While the union's affairs will be directed generally by the international executive officers and the subordinate district officials, all questions of policy have been vested in a special committee of 16 men, representing the various districts of the union. The committee will meet on the call of President Lewis, who said that future meetings "depend on developments of the strike."

Administrator Suspension.

New York, March 31.—Administrators of the three anthracite district unions left New York today to administer the suspension of work in the mines in the Scranton, Hazleton and Shamokin regions of Pennsylvania, in conjunction with the nation-wide strike of the coal industry.

Although the suspension order will not become officially effective until midnight tonight, reports from district headquarters indicate that cessation of the industry probably will be completed at sundown, it was said, and when all preparations for the protection of property will have been completed.

Three thousand two hundred men will be left in the collieries to prevent flooding of the mines and maintenance of property while the strike is in progress, according to estimates of union officials.

Under an agreement with the mine operators, made during conferences of the sub-committee on wage contract negotiations, the emergency men will be paid according to the scale agreed upon when the strike is settled.

Parmele Funeral Is Held in Plattsmouth

Funeral services for Thomas E. Parmele, former president of the Bank of Commerce at Louisville, Neb., and at one time mayor of Plattsmouth, Neb., were held at the home of his mother in Plattsmouth yesterday. Death occurred Wednesday in a Lincoln hospital following an operation.

Mr. Parmele was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Parmele, pioneers of Cass county. He was married about 20 years ago to Miss Nellie O'Rourke, an Omaha girl. He was elected mayor of Plattsmouth in 1910.

Surviving him are his mother and wife; three children, John, Mary Kathleen and Ruth; a brother, Charles C., of Plattsmouth, former president of the defunct Bank of Cass county; and two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Agnew, president of the Bank of Commerce at Louisville, Neb., and Mrs. S. H. Atwood, Washington, D. C.

Federal Agent Bolton and State Agent Fulton visited Odell and arrested C. C. Smith, his son, C. E. Smith, and W. E. Summers for alleged manufacture and possession of liquor. Two stills, 30 gallons of mash and 20 gallons of finished liquor were seized. The men were brought to Beatrice. The Smiths and Summers were arraigned before Judge Ellis, pleaded guilty and were fined $100 each.
