

Youth, 21, Goes to Wed, But Girl Has 2 Husbands

Love's Young Dream Goes to Smash When Brainard Lad Appears for Ceremony.

John J. Kugler, jr., son of a harness manufacturer of Brainard, Neb., arrived in Omaha yesterday morning with a harrowing tale of how he narrowly escaped becoming the third husband of a South Bend (Ind.) girl.

Young Kugler, 21, met the girl he intended to marry in San Francisco last September on his return from Hawaii, where he had been serving for nine months in the army.

They traveled together as far as Omaha. The girl, who Kugler says gave her name as Miss Dean Kollars, went on to South Bend. John went back to Brainard, to tell his parents of his new found love.

Gets Ring Back. A week ago, with his father's consent and money, he left Brainard for South Bend. The girl failed to meet him at the South Bend station, as she promised.

John produced a large pearl in a gold setting to prove this. "You're happy now because I didn't marry her," he said. "The trip cost me a little money, but it was worth it in experience. Of course I hate to go back to Brainard without a wife, after telling every one I was going to get married."

Worth Experience. John produced a large pearl in a gold setting to prove this. "You're happy now because I didn't marry her," he said. "The trip cost me a little money, but it was worth it in experience. Of course I hate to go back to Brainard without a wife, after telling every one I was going to get married."

But—well, maybe I can find some home-town girl who'll have me. His face clouded for a moment. "There was a girl before I left Brainard. But when I returned I let her know I was in love with the South Bend girl. I'm afraid she would consider me now."

R. B. Howell Raps Public Utilities. Senatorial Aspirant Also Scores Railway Commission in Campaign Speech.

Pawnee City, Neb., June 27.—(Special Telegram.)—After three successful meetings in Weeping Water, Syracuse and Tecumseh, R. B. Howell's auto campaign for senatorial office has been extended to Pawnee City.

Mr. Howell's ideas for the regulation of monopoly, that is, public competition, as illustrated in the case of Omaha's ice plant, were received with much interest and enthusiasm. He called attention to the failure of legal regulations of rates and stated that another attempt would be made next winter to give the state railway commission power over electric light rates, and declared public service corporations regarded the various state railway commissions as virtual sanctuaries.

All public utilities in this state would be under the state railway commission now were it not for the direct primary, he said, adding that these corporations want the direct primary abandoned.

Woman and Children Burned in Explosion. North Platte, Neb., June 27.—Mrs. J. Tenney was fatally burned and her three children, all small, are in a serious condition at a hospital here as a result of burnings suffered Sunday night, when gasolene exploded in the tent in which they were living. The Tenneys recently came here from a town in Minnesota.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Jack Is Prize Kitten

Mrs. C. C. Kemp, president of the Omaha Persian Cat society is holding "Jack," the silver Persian kitten that took sweepstakes honors at the kitten show Monday afternoon at the Burgess-Nash auditorium.

There were 75 entries in the eight classes of kittens on exhibition and the cages were variously decorated. One white Persian rested its head comfortably on a baby pillow, while next door, three energetic tortoise shell youngsters cavorted about a miniature circus ring.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors were Mrs. F. W. Bowers of Scribner; Mrs. William Nearing of Norfolk; and Mrs. M. T. Myers of Lincoln. Blue ribbons were awarded to the winners in each class, and Dr. Ethel B. Malloy of Omaha acted as judge.

The Persian Cat club has been in existence since a year ago last April and is a member of the National Cat Fanciers Association, Inc., of New York City. Mrs. C. Stevens is to be chairman of a full-fledged Persian cat show to be held next November in connection with the poultry show.

Personal. Mrs. John Rea of St. Louis, Mo., is visiting Miss Mildred Rhoades. Miss Helen Graham leaves Wednesday for a visit in Laurel, Neb.

Lawrence McCague returned Monday morning from several days in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Adams, with their three sons, will go to Lake Okoboji in July.

Mrs. R. H. Bailey of Pierce, Idaho, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kiewit will return Thursday from a motor trip to New York, Washington and Boston. Mrs. Kiewit attended the tenth reunion of her class at Wellesley.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pickard and their two daughters, Miss Eleanor and Miss Flora, will leave the first of next week for Pacific Grove, Cal., where they will spend the summer. Miss Evelyn Ledwith left Monday for Chicago to visit Miss Adelaide Moore, who will be remembered as a frequent guest in the city. Miss Ledwith motored down with Miss Dorothy Morton.

My Marriage Problems

Adole Garrison's New Phase of "REVELATIONS OF A WIFE"

The Delicate Way Madge Had to Handle Allen Drake. Allen Drake's pointed tribute made me flush in embarrassed fashion. Then I paled in the anger at myself which the foolish schoolgirl trick always rouses in me.

For a wrathful second or two, I told myself that I would prefer the slur I imagined in Mr. Drake's voice when he learned of my recognition of the unflattering characters in the code, to the hearty admiration he had just voiced.

As I forced myself to meet his eyes, and found that the indolent smiling hint of condescension which I so detested had gone from them, that instead there was in them a distinctly new expression, of camaraderie, of intellectual equality, my petty embarrassment faded.

That he saw my embarrassment and took the surest way to banish it, I realized when directly after his flattering little speech, he turned to my father with the most matter-of-fact air possible. "Chief," he said, "will you check me up while I dictate these names to Mrs. Graham."

"I Warn You—" My father put up a protesting hand. "Indeed we do no such thing," he said authoritatively. "You must get some rest before you exercise your brain any more. The morning will do for this. I would not have given this daughter here, save for the fact that I thought it would be a relief to you to know—"

"Relief!" Allen Drake exploded. "She's just naturally saved my life, that's all. And as for the rest, I can't do for this. I would not have given my every last molecule of help there's in me. And that you know very well."

There was a boyishness in his mien which I never had seen before, but there was also in his voice an intonation that betrayed the inexorable will beneath the careless manner. My father yielded at once. "I suppose I shall have to let you have your way," he said resignedly, "at least as far as dictating the names goes. But I warn you—"

A "Nonsensical" Code. "Pardon, chief. I know I'm an impatient cat, but my course after dictating the names is distinctly up to Mrs. Graham. If she needs my help—further—" he paused, looked at me hopefully.

"But I don't," I interposed quickly, warned by the real anxiety in my father's eyes, that the brilliant government agent was in danger of seriously injuring his health by his persistence in working beyond his strength. "That is," I amended, sensing suddenly that I was on delicate ground, "I don't need anything but the names until I have a chance to go over my old notebooks and those Prof. Severance gave me, to eliminate the things I don't need. Then I am afraid I shall be at a standstill without your aid. But I won't be able to get that preliminary work finished tomorrow. It will be at least a day after before I am ready to report to you."

I tried to make my tone properly humble and named as long an interval as I dared in order that the night have its rest, he so severely might have. But the sardonic little laugh which he gave when I somewhat breathlessly finished my little speech, told me that I had not deceived him in the least.

"Very-clever," he drawled. "And I promise you the original seven will be nothing on me as far as sleep is concerned in the time for which you ask. I am very glad to shift the burden to your shoulders, and now I'll give you those lists of—"

Western Trip Next Month. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Van Arsdale. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blackburn and Judge and Mrs. Howard Kennedy are planning a western trip the middle of July when the three men plan to attend a meeting of the National Bar association in San Francisco. Mr. Van Arsdale is the Nebraska member of the general council, and Mr. Blackburn is a member of the executive committee. The party will go on as far as Banff and Lake Louise together. Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn will then go east for a visit in Boston and will spend some time in the Breton Woods, Vt.

Carter Lake Club. Helene Margaret and Elice Holovitchner entertained at a picnic luncheon and swimming party Monday afternoon. The guests were Virginia Franz, Margaret Logan, Eloise Margaret, Letha Gant, Marjorie Pool, Pauline Nelson, Arline Rosenberg, Carman Longman, Eloise Musselman, Mae Thoeckle and Frances Johnston.

Parents' Problems

How can a boy of 10 be restrained from teasing his older sisters? This is not always easy to manage. Direct your efforts rather more to the sisters than to the boy. Advise them not to take the teasing seriously. If they laugh, thus showing that they are not teased, or that they are amused by it, the boy will very likely stop it.
