

Now Is the Time to Come to Aid of The Bee Ice Fund

Composing Room Crews Contribute—Total for Relief of Suffering Babies Nears $500 Mark.

There is a familiar line, extensively used for typewriter and penmanship practice, which reads: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party."

With the aid of a little paraphrasing it may be said: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the aid of The Bee Free Milk and Ice Fund."

Also, it may be stated that many good men and women are contributing to this fund, which is being increased every day.

This is the time when the infants need fresh milk and ice.

There are many homes where babies are threatened by summer-time ills.

The Bee's milk and ice fund reaches these needy infants through an efficient organization.

The night and day shifts of The Bee composing room sent in $15 with an expression of good will and hope that many infants will be benefited.

The fund stands as follows:

Previously acknowledged $130.00
H. F. H. 1.00
A. Friend, Imperial, Neb. 1.00
Mrs. H. E. Schmidt 1.00
A. Friend 1.00
H. H. and Funder, Neb. 1.00
Composing Room, The Bee 150.00
Total $433.00

Would Keep Home Rule Charter Off Ballot

Hearing on an injunction sought to prevent William D. McHugh, Jr., election commissioner, from placing on the primary ballot the home rule charter provision for Omaha, will be held in District Judge Wakeley's court next Monday morning at 10.

The petition was filed Thursday afternoon by Charles S. Copeland, 4804 Fontenelle boulevard, progressive candidate for the state legislature from the Nineteenth district.

Copeland alleges in his petition that the placing of the charter on the primary ballot would be a violation of the state law and constitution. He alleges that a charter commission must be elected before any such question can be submitted to the voters.

McHugh said yesterday that Copeland had overlooked the new state constitution, which permits the procedure undertaken.

Woman Says Man Shot Had Tried to Assault Her

A man who gave the name of Ziegler, Balowski, 621 South Eighteenth, with $1,140 on him, was found wounded, lying on the road at 4:30 yesterday morning at Fifteenth and Francis streets, by Elmer Pass, milkman, 3122 South Fifteenth street.

Police arrested Bee Buton, Libby hotel, who said that she went riding with Balowski early in the evening and that he attempted to assault her. Balowski said the taxicab driver demanded money and when he resisted he was shot through the arm.

Gov. McKelvie to Speak at Fourth Celebration

Governor S. R. McKelvie will deliver a patriotic address at the noon-day flag raising in Fontenelle park July 4 under auspices of the Fontenelle Park Celebration association. Arrangements have been made for baseball games, sports and fireworks.

Twelve special set pieces are listed in the program of pyrotechnics, among which will be "Custer's Last Stand."

Climbing Parson Leaves for Pike's Peak Summit

Rev. Joseph B. Cherry, 314 South Twenty-sixth street, Omaha's climbing parson, left Wednesday for Colorado Springs, where he is to attempt to shatter his former record in climbing Pike's Peak. Although 63, Rev. Cherry regards mountain climbing a pleasant pastime. He has been on the summit of the Colorado mountain 50 times.

HOW FLIES KILL BABIES.

In the very great improvement in summer health which the last 25 years has witnessed, a factor has been the disappearance of dysentery among adults.

In the good old days for which we so foolishly yearn, grown people were frequently overtaken by dysentery. Blackberry cordial and cholera mixtures graced every home medicine cabinet.

Now, when an adult develops a diarrhea, he stops eating, perhaps takes a dose of castor oil, and, 24 hours later, is back at work, never having called on the family physician for help.

Dysentery appeared from the daily hazards of the summertime life of the adult without being noticed.

Flies have been departing, too, as you noticed if you had your notices on. It looks like the city man may some day go to the zoo to see flies caged as he goes there to study the Royal Bengal tiger.

The country people need not buy their zoo tickets yet awhile. The summer of 1921 was a sizzler, and we had in our midst, in numbers, the ordinary fly, called variously the housefly, the typhoid fly, and musca domestica.

Drs. Youmans of Mukwonago, Wis., tell us that they had in their midst, meaning not what Col. Chamberlain of the Minneapolis Journal meant, but, meaning among the farmer folks of the country and citizens of the town, some nearly 200 cases of old-fashioned dysentery.

Water was not responsible. Drs. Youmans were convinced of that. Neither was milk nor other food.

While the heat in the hot weather was the cause, it had to have some agency through which it could operate. The germs responsible were not imported from Japan. In all probability they were Wisconsin products of brands, always present, but more at home, and, therefore, more virulent by reason of the excessive heat.

But such germs are deficient in transportation facilities. That's where the flies came from.

There were plenty of them in mid-June, 1921, and they are very obliging common carriers.

Drs. Youmans quote from the Journal of Agricultural Research the statement that a spread of flies of 13 miles is recorded, and "the remarkably rapid spread of eight miles in less than one day.

Not so remarkable after all. I saw some travel in a car from Chicago to Minneapolis last week in a night, and the same old fly can hop on a train in Denver today and hop off in Chicago tomorrow.

Obliging and willing, the fly can carry infection from a baby's diaper to a milk bottle; from the excretions of a man sick with dysentery in one farm house to the food of the neighbor in the next house down the road. If he does not want to fly all the way, he can hop on an automobile and ride.

None of these 200 cases of folks sick with bloody flux mucus stools, fever and pains, died or were even seriously sick.

The epidemic serves to recall to the elder Dr. Youmans, and to the older neighbors, the serious summer diseases of adults some 25 years ago.

Perhaps it meant to them that when it comes to the fly question, while the trees may not be so thick, we are not yet out of the woods.

It was a disturbing little epidemic for these grown people, and perhaps that was as far as it went.

But the babies are still paying the toll of lives to summer complaints, which Levy has shown are often due to files and exposed soiled diapers.

Too Young for Eggs. E. T. S. writes: "I. May a baby of 6 months, who lives in the city in winter and in the country in summer, eat a freshly laid egg if it has one boiled?"

REPLY. 1. No. Eggs are for older children.

2. Mother's milk or cow's milk heated, properly diluted, fruit juice, tomato juice and cereal.

3. Yes, if the place is all right and especially if the water and milk are safe.

Safety in Vaccination. M. E. S. writes: "I know a child in western Nebraska with smallpox, whose little sister (vaccinated) goes to school."

REPLY. "His father goes about his business and his mother, his nurse, writes letters and mails them freely."

This is safe enough, assuming that the little sister and the father have been successfully vaccinated.

This Baby Eats Mud. Mrs. E. L. H. writes: "I have a little niece about 18 months old. Whenever she is outdoors she eats dirt and mud by the handful."

REPLY. "I. Would like to know if this is due to something her system needs and does not get."

2. She is extremely fond of meat. What would be the proper diet for a child of that age?"

REPLY. 1. It is. 2. She should eat from the table. Give her a pint of good milk daily. She should have cereals, whole wheat bread, vegetables, fruit, meat and an occasional egg.

Youth Refuses to Tell Why He Turned on Gas

"Where'd they get all the pretty girls around here?"

Burton Powers, 25, in his bed at Lord Lister hospital, had just revived from the effects of gas which police claim was self-inflicted.

Powers was found unconscious in the kitchen of his bachelor apartment in the Browns apartments, 512 North Twenty-fourth street yesterday by Dorothy Brown. Four gas jets on the kitchen stove were open. Powers lay with his head on a rubber pillow.

Powers declined to tell why he had attempted to take his own life. He objected to talking about anything except the pretty girls about the hospital.

Powers and four other young men have been keeping bachelor apartments at the Browns for the last two months, police learned. He will recover.

Southern Pacific Company Attempting to Nullify Decision of Supreme Court of the United States Divorcing Central Pacific From Southern Pacific.

On June 27, 1922, the OMAHA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, our city and the business interests of our entire state are vitally affected by any movement or influence which would adversely affect the income of Nebraska railroads on through or trans-continental freight shipments, and which would tend to increase or justify higher rates on shipments originating in Nebraska; and

"WHEREAS, the control of the Central Pacific Railroad by the Southern Pacific Railroad has heretofore and for a number of years resulted in the diversion of Oriental and Pacific Coast tonnage destined for eastern markets, from the shorter and direct route through the Ogden gateway to the longer haul over the Southern Pacific through New Orleans and to the Atlantic Coast over that Company's lines, thus depriving the Nebraska railroads of the natural and proper income which they should receive on east and west-bound trans-continental freights; and

"WHEREAS, in a recent decision, the United States Supreme Court has decided and held that the ownership and control of the Central Pacific Railroad by the Southern Pacific Company is against the public interest and contrary to the laws forbidding monopolization and stifling of competition in interstate traffic; and

"WHEREAS, it has come to the notice and attention of this body that a movement is now being organized and promoted to induce and influence the Congress of the United States to pass laws which would nullify the recent decision of our highest court, and to influence the Interstate Commerce Commission to take such action as would have the effect to also nullify the said court decision;

"NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that it is the sense and desire of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce that the just and proper effect of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States forbidding unlawful and harmful combinations in interstate commerce be sustained, upheld and given effect.

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that our Senators and Members of Congress be requested to oppose the enactment of any laws which may nullify the force and effect of the said decision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Interstate Commerce Commission be also requested to refuse its sanction or approval of any order or act which would nullify the effect of the said decision."

The Business Men of Omaha approve the foregoing, and wish to call it to the attention of the Shippers, Taxpayers, Farmers and Merchants of Nebraska, all of whom are affected by this abnormal diversion of traffic.

The North Western CONFIDENCE IN AMERICA

Confidence of men in American institutions has brought prosperity to the American people.

The greatest institution of this country is its transportation system. The very life of this nation depends on the efficiency of its railroads.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Company is proud of the fact that the efficiency and loyalty of its employes has enabled the North Western to satisfactorily discharge its transportation obligations to the public.

Any disturbance to the discharge of the North Western's duty to the public would seriously retard the recovery of business from its long period of depression.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Company recognized the necessity of adjusting the disturbed conditions under which we are living. It voluntarily made many reductions in freight rates and accepted the reductions ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The North Western also increased—without question—the increase of wages ordered by the Railroad Labor Board.

We believe that North Western employes should show the same willingness as the Company to abide by the orders of the Railroad Labor Board.

This adjustment is fair. After the reduction ordered by the Labor Board, North Western employes will be paid a higher scale than labor in other industries.

The reductions in rates of grain, hay and other commodities that were made effective January 1, 1922, together with the reductions effective July 1, 1922, reduces our income—based on our 1921 business—by $13,900,000.

The reduction in wages ordered by the Railroad Labor Board effective July 1, 1922, reduces our expenses—based on 1921 payrolls—by $4,100,000.

A strike by North Western employes against the decision of the Railroad Labor Board will not only destroy at once the confidence which the years have given the North Western in its employes, but it will be a strike against this country's progress toward prosperity.

We believe that North Western employes will continue their faith in American institutions and let right and wisdom govern their actions.
