

Industries Join in Protest on Track Elevation

Plant Proprietors Say Embankment of Missouri Pacific Will Cause Them Heavy Expense.

Industrial interests located in the vicinity of Forty-eighth and Leavenworth streets joined J. A. C. Kennedy, representing the Missouri Pacific railroad, in protesting to the city council, yesterday, against immediate elevation of the railroad tracks at this point.

Missouri Pacific officials from St. Louis, who were expected to attend, were detained by the strike situation, they stated.

West Leavenworth district property owners demanded action on an ordinance passed December 26, 1917, calling for the elevation, as a safety precaution.

Traffic Increased.

"Since Leavenworth street was paved, there is five times as much traffic and consequently more danger even than when the ordinance was passed," urged John Wisler, president; W. G. Hammond, treasurer, and other members of an improvement club.

The Ak-Sar-Ben field, a new residence district opening up, a new golf course and the new tourist camp in Elwood park were given as more reasons for safeguarding traffic.

Kennedy, speaking for the railroad, acknowledged that the elevation must be made some time in the future, but said now was an unfortunate time to urge it.

"Danger has been minimized by watchmen and gates. Besides, there are only five trains a day crossing that intersection."

Action Postponed.

John Gamble, former head of the Chamber of Commerce, who is building a chemical plant at Forty-second; S. E. Howell of a coal and lumber company located there for 31 years, in which space he stated there had been but one accident; and the Industrial Lumber company proprietor declared they would be forced out of business or would be put to heavy expense if an embankment was raised adjoining their property.

Action was postponed for 60 days and a committee, including Mayor Dahlman, Commissioners Zimman and Hummel, named to confer meantime with members of the West Leavenworth Improvement club, property owners, industrial interests and the railroad with a view of reaching a satisfactory agreement.

Feature Transactions on Livestock Exchange

Fred Clark, whose home is at Tarkio, Mo., and who, with his partner, C. E. Walters, has a bunch of cattle on feed near Papillion, brought in a load of fat cattle yesterday averaging 1,070 pounds that brought $9.75 a hundred, a new high mark for cattle since November 14, last year.

Messrs. Clark and Walters bought a string of 105 cattle on the local market seven months ago and put them on feed near Papillion and the lot brought in yesterday was the last taken out.

Where Was Sir Walter Raleigh?

New Gown, Mud Puddle, Truck—Swish—Ruined Gown, Fight—But They All "Kissed and Made Up" in Police Court.

A new gown, a little rain, a puddle of mud and an automobile truck led to a path from church Sunday to central police court yesterday for a trio of motorists.

Saturday afternoon, Mrs. A. L. Goodall, 1321 South Twenty-fifth street, bought a new $30 crepe de chine gown.

Sunday morning, attired in this new gown, she went to church with her husband and L. A. Kurz, who lives at their home. After church, they started out in their automobile, Kurz driving.

On Fifteenth street, between Webster street and California, they met Sam Wolf, 1203 Douglas street, driving a truck. The heavy rain had created a mud puddle in the street.

Great Gobs of Mud.

As the truck passed the Goodall car, great gobs of mud flew up from beneath the wide heavy truck wheels and took refuge on that new crepe de chine gown.

Goodall and Kurz cried to Wolf to stop. He didn't. They gave chase and blocked his path with their machine.

Wolf climbed down from his seat in front of the Princess theater. Goodall and Kurz dismounted and demanded that he return to look at the damage his truck had done to the gown. Wolf is alleged to have refused, whereupon Goodall swung a mean right to the mouth, which he followed up with close in-fighting.

Driver Flees.

Wolf fled under the shower of blows into the Princess theater and called police.

Goodall and Kurz remained outside, calling upon him to come out and look at the gown.

They still were there when police arrived and escorted Wolf away.

In court yesterday morning, Mrs. Goodall told the judge that the gown was "a mess now" and that she was even ashamed to bring it into court to exhibit the damage which she claims is irreparable.

All Make Up.

"Well," drawled Judge Wappich in that pacifying way of his, "it seems to me you all have received punishment enough."

His words had an electric effect. Goodall turned to Wolf and stuck out his hand.

Wolf grasped it. They both grinned sheepishly as they shook hands. And someone claims he heard them say:

"What fools we must have made of ourselves."

Pawnee Telephone Company Asks Rate Boost of Dollar

Pawnee City, Neb., July 3.—(Special.)—The Pawnee Telephone company has filed application with the state railway commission for authority to raise its rates $1 a month. A hearing will be held soon at which the Pawnee Public Service club will be represented. The club will vigorously oppose the raise. The management of the company claims that the additional expense of putting all wires in the business section underground makes necessary this raise. The job of burying the wires is now being undertaken.

G.O.P. Motion to Curb Debate on Tariff Up Friday

Leaders Predict Ballot on Cloture, But Are Dubious of Obtaining Necessary Two-Thirds Vote.

Washington, July 3.—This week is to develop definite plans as to the fate of the tariff bill in the senate, according to a decision today by republican leaders in informal conferences.

It was announced that the republican motion to curb debate on the bill, which has been in circulation about 10 days, would be presented in the senate Wednesday and voted on Friday.

The cloture petition, which requires 16 senatorial signatures for presentation and which was said to bear 55 of the 60 republican names, was delivered today by Senator Curtis of Kansas, republican whip, who circulated it, to Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, manager of the tariff forces.

Leaders said they felt sure of a vote Friday.

That the necessary two-thirds vote for cloture could not be secured was probable, according to the sponsors of the petition. Several democrats were said to favor cloture, but the party as a whole was expected to line up generally against it.

The roll call on the cloture move, republican leaders said, would at least demonstrate a desire on the part of the majority to bring the bill to an early vote.

If substantial progress was not made on the bill, they were prepared to lay it aside and make a vigorous fight for the proposed new cloture rule, recommended recently by two republican conferences, to invoke cloture by majority instead of a two-thirds vote.

Candidate Seeks to Oust All Others

Municipal Judge Aspirant Files Suit Asking Exclusion of Opponents.

While W. D. McHugh, jr., election commissioner, was busy defending one mandamus action in District Judge Wakeley's court yesterday two more lawsuits in regard to the coming primary election were brought in district court.

William F. S. Thompson, attorney, seeks to enjoin McHugh from printing upon the official ballots at the primary election the names of any person as candidate for municipal judge except his on the ground that all filings must be accompanied with a petition containing a stipulated number of voters signatures.

A. J. Donahue wants to be sheriff but so far has been unable to run. Yesterday in a petition he sought a peremptory writ of mandamus be directed to McHugh commanding him to accept his nomination petition on the progressive ticket.

"Donahue was shot 17 times," said McHugh.

District Judge Wakeley yesterday denied temporarily the injunction sought by W. S. Copeland to keep Election Commissioner W. D. McHugh, jr., from placing on the primaries ballot the home rule charter for Omaha.

Is Money Ever "Spent" for Advertising?

A young and energetic executive took hold of a fine old retail business in New York.

"What this business needs," he told himself, "is a place in the mind of the public."

And deliberately he set out to sacrifice the greater volume of his profits and invest the sacrifice into the building of goodwill.

He did. And to this old business, advertising was the breath of life.

For six months had not passed before the business had grown so that the advertising cost was a smaller percentage than ever it had been and, because of a larger volume, the shop effected economies and gave far superior service.

That was five years ago. Today a certain percentage is spent, or supposed to be spent, for advertising. But as fast as the appropriation is spent, the more the business increases; and the more that the business increases, the smaller the percentage becomes.

Is money ever "spent" for advertising?
