

Irregulars in Dublin Surrender

Last of Rebels in Sackville Street Area Lay Down Arms to National Army Forces.

Call to Arms Expected

Dublin, July 5.—(By A. P.)—The last of the Irish republican irregulars in the Sackville street area surrendered to the national army forces at this evening, the press association says it has learned.

Dublin, July 5.—(By A. P.)—It is learned on excellent authority, says the Press Association this afternoon, that the Irish provisional government intends to issue a national call to arms tomorrow.

The government's decision to issue the call, it was understood, was made in response to offers of assistance from many sources.

Dublin, July 5.—(By A. P.)—Bombardments on the buildings occupied by the republicans remaining in their Sackville street stronghold was resumed at 1 o'clock this afternoon after a few hours lull.

The national army forces then trained an 18 pounder on the Hammam and on the general postoffice next door on the north, where the main force of the irregulars was believed to be concentrated.

The postoffice is more solidly constructed than the other buildings of the block in which the republicans have been making their desperate stand, and it is believed that it is there they will wage their final fight, the end of which is now thought to be near.

The Free State forces are reported in full possession of the Gresham hotel, which is separated from the postoffice by the Crown and the Granville hotels.

Dense volumes of smoke were pouring from the blazing buildings and occasional explosions were heard as the fire reached stored ammunition.

A vast crowd on the O'Connell bridge, the southern terminus of Sackville street, watched the tragic spectacle being enacted a few hundred yards away, heedless of the peril of flying bullets.

It is not known whether Eamon De Valera and the other republican leaders, including Henry Boland, are still with the garrison. It is believed a considerable number of the defenders have managed to escape and it is considered probable that they have gone to join the bands organizing.

The Gresham hotel, in Sackville street, was blazing furiously at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Ten buildings in Sackville street were ablaze at 3 p. m. The irregulars were still holding out in the Granville hotel, firing from the windows, while surrounded by an inferno of flames.

Art O'Brien, former representative of the Dail Eireann in London, and Sean O'Kelly, who used to represent the dail in Paris, were both arrested last evening, it was announced today.

Quiet in South. Cork, July 5.—(By A. P.)—The south generally continues quiet though the republicans are active.

The government forces forming the garrison at Broadford have capitulated to the republicans, whose forces after a short engagement also captured the barracks at Patrick's Well.

Trusty, Allowed to Cut Weeds, Escapes From Pen. Lincoln, July 5.—Edward E. Youell, 56, escaped from the penitentiary July 4.

Youell, a trusty, told prison officials he would like to spend the Fourth outside cutting weeds. As Youell, with other trusties, had done this sort of work before, his request was granted.

At night, when checking up, it was found Youell was missing. The fugitive convict was sentenced to one to 20 years for forgery in Fremont. He would have been eligible for parole next month.

More Spirit of Give and Take Urged

Candidate for Republican Nomination for Senate Lays Aside Political Discussion in Independence Day Address at Osmond, Neb.

(Following is the first of a series of articles from a staff correspondent of The Omaha Bee, covering the campaign of various candidates for office in Nebraska and endeavoring to picture the state of the public mind. The series will be published from day to day, covering republican, democratic and progressive activities.)

By PAUL GREER. Osmond, Neb., July 5.—(Special Telegram.)—Congressman A. W. Jeffers, candidate for the republican nomination for the United States senate spoke here yesterday. It was the principal speaker at Pierce county's Independence day celebration and political discussion was adjourned.

The address, however, gave the large crowd insight into the animating principles of Mr. Jeffers. His plea was for less intolerance and more of the spirit of give and take.

"America," he said, "is a miracle in the welding of so many races into one. We cannot look at the extent and diversity of our nation without realizing the need for moderation in our thoughts."

"We have succeeded as we have clung to the faith of the fathers of the republic. Things have changed and new needs have arisen, but today the spirit of give and take is more necessary than ever before. Each section of this country and each class within it must realize that there is a great diversity of needs and interests, and that these should be co-ordinated, instead of being brought into conflict."

Hero Not Yet Selected. The political scene is all set for the primary selection two weeks hence, but it cannot be said that the people have yet made up their individual minds who is to be the hero. So many voters crowd the stage that few voters can name all the candidates for even the main offices. In the articles to follow this one a conscientious account will be given of most of the leading figures in the campaign.

Political observers complain that there is little interest in the election of July 18, but the truth appears to be that the average citizen is confused. A man may have made up his mind as to who he will favor for one office but be in doubt concerning the other offices on the party ticket. People prefer to vote for someone they know.

Up here in northeastern Nebraska almost every one is acquainted with C. H. Randall, who is seeking the republican nomination for governor. Few of them are personally acquainted with the candidates for United States senator. This adds to the uncertainty and rouses the most diversified speculation over results at the polls.

Republican Year. The one thing that is pretty generally agreed upon is that this is a republican year. There are democrats who predict that Senator Hitchcock will be defeated, each giving some reason for the expected failure of his strength. Some of these democrats have said privately to Mr. Jeffers that if he succeeds in the primaries he will get their votes. The rapprochement between the Bryans and Hitchcock is not popular with some elements.

Outside of partisan considerations there is a sentiment against shifting control of the government to a return to a presidential form of government. Conditions are (Turn to Page Two, Column Five.)

All except eight of the 60 republicans in the senate signed the petition. Those eight were: F. Follett, M. F. Johnson, Moses Borah, Brandegee, Crow and Weller.

Immediately the petition was presented by Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, it brought a protest from Senator Underwood of Alabama, a democratic leader, who said the democrats had "courteously" consented to the committee's request that its amendments be considered first and that it was not fair for the majority to come in now and propose to take away from the minority their right to propose amendments.

Every Item of Interest. The democratic leader said that every item in the bill was of interest to some business concern of the country; that practically all of them were of interest to the consumers and that the majority should propose some rule which would meet the situation and not merely a gag rule.

"I have 1,000 amendments in 60 minutes!" he exclaimed. "Gentlemen on the other side had better suggest that we have no further debate."

Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, in a vigorous speech, raised the issue of good faith in the presentation of the petition.

"Every senator knows," he said, "that the motion just submitted cannot prevail. If the proponents of this rule believed it would be adopted, they would not dare submit it. I raise directly the issue of good faith in the presentation of this motion at this time. It isn't fair to the senate; it isn't fair to the people of the country when the most important portions of this bill are undisposed of and unconsidered, to attempt to shut off debate and prevent senators from offering amendments."

Lodge Claims Good Faith. Senator Lodge replied that the petition had been offered in "absolutely good faith."

"If any senator doubts that it was offered in good faith, let him vote for it and see if we don't put it through," said the Massachusetts senator. "If they (the democrats) think this tariff is beaten, why don't they bring it to a vote? They know it is not beaten."

Senator Lodge declared there had been a "reckless waste" of the time of the senate and the country in the discussion of the bill and urged the democratic side to set a time to vote on the bill.

Underwood responded that it was not possible to agree to a time to vote on a bill, which still was being amended by the finance committee, as opponents could not know what witnesses would be presented or whether portions now satisfactory would be changed later.

Republicans insisted that since they had 24 majority they had a right to legislate without keeping the senate in session until October or later. They invited suggestions from the democrats.

Move Made for Cloture on Tariff

Proposal by Republicans to Limit Debate Brings Bitter Opposition From Democrats—To Vote Friday.

Norris Against Scheme

Washington, July 5.—(By A. P.)—The republican proposal for cloture to shut off debate on the administration tariff bill was presented late today in the senate. It immediately provoked a bitter fight, which promised to consume much of the session tomorrow. Under the rules the issue must come to a vote at noon Friday.

There were 52 signatures to the petition, or 12 less than the two-thirds majority necessary to invoke the existing cloture rule, which would limit debate to one hour for each senator and preclude the offering of any amendments, even by the finance committee majority.

Although a number of senators are against it, the measure, which would cut down the number necessary for a two-thirds majority, some of those behind the cloture movement doubted that it would succeed.

Night Sessions Alternative. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican leader, told the senate that if it did not, it then would be for the republicans to decide whether they would lay aside the tariff and fight for a majority cloture rule or force the senate to resume night sessions as a means of speeding up a final vote on the tariff.

Immediately the petition was presented by Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, it brought a protest from Senator Underwood of Alabama, a democratic leader, who said the democrats had "courteously" consented to the committee's request that its amendments be considered first and that it was not fair for the majority to come in now and propose to take away from the minority their right to propose amendments.

Hopes for Early End of Railroad Strike Expressed

Union Leader Says Men Ready to Confer With Anybody Authorized to Bring Peace Proposals.

Chicago, July 5.—(By A. P.)—Hope for the speedy settlement of the country-wide strike of the railway shopmen was expressed today in statements issued by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board and B. M. Jewell, leader of the shopcrafts, who ordered the walkout.

In reply to a letter from Mr. Hooper, which was regarded as conciliatory in tone, Mr. Jewell declared that the strikers were willing to consider any negotiations with anyone in authority for settlement of the strike.

"We are willing to confer with anybody authorized by the railroad to bring peace proposals to us," said Mr. Jewell. "I include or exclude nobody, but if the labor board, for instance, came to us with a definite proposition, we would not hesitate to consider it."

Way Cleared for Settlement. In railroad circles it was declared that the way had already been cleared for a full settlement on the grave issues—that of contract work—by the agreement of 12 roads to abolish outside contracting, at the labor board meeting last Friday, when Mr. Jewell ignored an order to appear and explain his strike order.

Mr. Jewell said that the intervention of the board had come too late and that the only way to prevent disorders was for him virtually to defy the board and thus let the rank and file of the six shopcrafts organizations involved know that their leaders had their hands on the brakes and were in full control of the situation.

When development apparently showed the dead woman in the foreground, he hurried to the police. The latter made two visits to the spot, without results, except to learn the topography had been slightly changed by a landslide since the photograph was taken.

Name of Meyer Presented to Head Reserve Board. Washington, July 5.—(Special Telegram.)—A movement has been started here for the appointment of Eugene Meyer, head of the War Finance corporation, to succeed W. P. G. Harding as governor of the Federal reserve board.

The movement is meeting with approval from those who have opposed the reappointment of Mr. Harding. Much of this opposition comes from the farming states of the middle west. The activities of the War Finance corporation in extending financial aid to western communities has won him many friends in that region. Representative Andrews of Nebraska is one of his supporters.

Stationary Engineers and Oilers Walk Out—Two Men Left on Duty.

Fremont, Neb., July 5.—(Special Telegram.)—Ranks of striking shopmen of the Northwestern here were increased with the walkout of 18 additional men, affiliated with the brotherhood of stationary engineers, and oilers. But two men remain on the job at the Fremont roundhouse, a sand man and a sweeper, members of the maintenance of way union.

Daily meetings of the seven crafts on strike in Fremont are being held, keeping in close touch with the various branches. They are in a happy frame of mind and confident they will eventually win. Five pickets stations are maintained but nothing has happened to make their duties other than a recreation.

Northwestern headquarters report all trains are operating as usual. No attempt has been made to employ outside help.

About 40 passenger trains a day are scheduled through Fremont on the three roads, Northwestern Union Pacific and Burlington, in addition to the freight service.

Photograph Reveals Woman's Body in Brush. Los Angeles, July 5.—The police today admitted their bewilderment over a photograph taken more than two months ago, in Topanga canyon, 25 miles from here, which upon development Monday night revealed the body of a woman, partly concealed by brush.

B. W. Anderson, who took the picture, intending it to be merely that of two friends, declared none of the three had seen the body at the time the photograph was taken.

Anderson delayed developing the film for two months. When development apparently showed the dead woman in the foreground, he hurried to the police. The latter made two visits to the spot, without results, except to learn the topography had been slightly changed by a landslide since the photograph was taken.

Shopmen Given Till 3 Saturday to Get Old Jobs

U. P. Announces Employees Still Out After That Time Will Lose Seniority Rights.

Union Pacific system officials have given striking shopmen until 3 Saturday afternoon to return to work. Those who fail to return within this time will forfeit pension and seniority rights, officials said.

Notices to this effect are to be posted on shop bulletin boards and in other conspicuous places. The Burlington railroad has issued a similar edict, effective July 10.

Officials of the Union Pacific system federation and members of the local shopmen's strike committee predicted that the notices would influence few of the men.

The men knew the sacrifices they were making when they went out, was the comment of B. H. Furse, president of the system federation.

Given Till 3 Saturday. "The order indicates that the Union Pacific is in great need of men," said Joseph B. Watley, secretary of the federated shopcrafts. "The men have shown no inclination to drift back to Omaha."

"All men who have left the service of this company in protest against the decision of the United States Railway board must return to duty or register for their regular shifts not later than 3 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, July 8, 1922, in order to regain their pension and seniority rights."

Claim 11,900 Out. W. H. Guild, assistant to the vice president of operation of the Union Pacific system, said that the system already was employing men, but that an intensive effort to get men would be started if the strikers failed to respond to the notice.

That 11,900 maintenance of equipment men are out on the Union Pacific system, in addition to many maintenance of way employees, is indicated by messages received at the system federation headquarters, according to J. H. Johnson and F. M. Wageman.

Rail Shops Seized by Strikers

Nonunion Employes Driven From Jobs on Chicago and Alton—Officials Say Guards Arrested.

Men Returning to Work

Slater, Mo., July 5.—(By A. P.)—Striking shopmen here have seized the Chicago & Alton rail shops, driven out nonunion men brought in to work and are holding the shops this afternoon.

Eighteen men were driven from the shops today. Yesterday 25 were driven out. Union officials said the nonunion men were placed on trains and sent from the town. Other reports declared that the nonunion men were merely taken from the shops and that they left town voluntarily.

Sheriff John Logsdon is on his way here from Marshall, Mo., the county seat.

Alton officials said that three guards employed by the railroad at the shops had been arrested by local authorities and placed in jail and that their property was without protection of the county seat.

Chicago, July 5.—(By A. P.)—Striking railway shopmen, who walked out in answer to a nationwide call from the headquarters of the six shopcrafts unions here last Saturday, were reported drifting back to work today in groups of uncertain size.

Today was considered the turning point in the strike of the 350,000 to 400,000 workers. Although responding generally to the call last Saturday, railroad officials insisted today that many of the defections were due to the desire of the men to take a holiday over the Fourth of July.

Local union reports to the office of B. M. Jewell, head of the shopmen, reiterated the union assertion that the strike was 100 per cent effective at all points reporting.

Join Deserting Ranks. Freight handling clerks and stationary firemen and oilers joined the deserting ranks of shopmen at various points, although fully as many shops reported that men were returning to work today.

The maintenance of way union, whose officers yesterday decided to delay their threatened strike were given the sympathy and congratulations of the striking railway shopmen by B. M. Jewell, the shopmen's head today. He declared that the maintenance of way union's action was not a surprise and added that they can find many ways out of their difficulties they are to be congratulated.

Sign Up Men. The Chicago & Alton hired a vacant store room downtown here today, installed two tables and some chairs, and within an hour signed up 25 men to fill the strikers' positions. Fifty men were in line at the same time, waiting to sign up. Shop mechanics of all classes were sought.

The first wide rift in railroad strike clouds showed when the maintenance of way employees definitely abandoned the idea of a walkout at this time.

Credit for averting a rail strike which threatened to become general among all classes of railway labor except the "big four" brotherhoods and telegraphers, was generally conceded to Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board; W. L. McMenimen, labor member of board, and E. F. Grable, president of the maintenance men's "big three" in yesterday's conference.

Ultimatum Issued. Striking shopmen of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway and the Burlington system, have been given until July 10 to return to work. After that date, according to the railroad notice, the strikers (Turn to Page Two, Column Two.)
