Country Club Now Ready for Annual Transmississippi Golf Tourney

More Than 150 Golfers After Von Elm's Title

Visiting Contestants Spend Sunday Giving Course "Once Over" - Play Starts This Morning.

Aborants to the Transmississippi Golf association's amateur champion ship yesterday crowded the Qmaha country club course to put in their final practice sessions before the opening of the event, which will start at 8:30 this morning.

Practically all of the out-of-town entries reported at the club during the day. Weather conditions were ideal for golfing, and nearly all, who visited the club, played nine or 18 holes. One foursome followed another away from the first tee from as early as noon until late in the after-

Among those who didn't play vesterday afternoon were George Von Elm, the present title holder, and "Rudy" Knepper, Iowa state cham-Von Elm played sufficient golf on Thursday and Friday to familiarize himself with the course. Knepper, who appears to be one of the strongest contenders entered in the meet. spent the day resting.

Knows Course.

Knepper is acquainted with the ground, having played over the course last summer, when he and Francis Gaines were defeated by Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, British stars. Knepper has had a "man killing" siege of golf this spring and summer. Two weeks ago he competed in the eastern intercollegiate meet at Garden City, L. I., and reached Des Moines just in time to play in the qualifying round of the Iowa state meet last week. He successfully defended his title there on Saturday and reached Omaha Sunday morning. He walked around a portion of the course walked around a portion of the course and contented himself with watching the others play.

A player who attracted no little of attention was Carleton "Doc" Mc-Laughlin of Sioux City, the youngest golfer entered in the tournament. He is only 15 years old and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. McLaughlin. His home is located directly across the street from the Country club at Sioux. City and he virtually lives on the golf course. His playing is remarkable for a youngster. Last week he competed in the lows state tourney and succeeded in qualifying and reached the second round before he was eliminated.

There were several sensational plays during the match. In the morning round Knepper holed out an approach at the 240-yard 15th hole for a birdie of two. His drive left him five yards at the left of the green, but he chipped up and the ball rolled in the cup. In the afternoon, Bartlett, after teeing out of bounds at the eighth hole, carned a half on it with a beautiful downhill runup that left him beside the hole. He followed on the next green with a 40-foot downhill putt which gave him a birdie two. He made a long putt on the same hole in the morning round. In playing the 420-yard 12th hole,

St. Joseph, Tulsa, Witchita and Sioux City are not in favor of the split-season, while Barney Burch, owner of the Omaha club, is satisfied with the way things are running at the present.

This idea of a split in the Western league season just because two or three clubs are not playing the brand of ball that puts them in the running, isn't elping the league. Oklahoma City didn't register a kick last year. The Indians finished third, but this season it's different. Tris Clouts Homers New York, July 8.—Speaker's two home runs, one in the sixth inning, the comedian of organized base-George hands us the dope that Altrock is a comedian and he can't help it. All of Nick's funny stunts are not premeditated or intentional, declares Leidy. "It was back in 1898," said

George, "that Altrock had his first taste of big league baseball. In a game that Nick started, after going good for six innings he was yanked in order to give a pinch hitter working space. The batsman drove the first ball out for a two-bagger. Nick went wild and immediately dashed over to the third base coaching line and began to cheer on his substitute. Another hit sent in Nick's sub and in comes Nick with him yelling and cheering. Some of the players asked Nick what he was making all that fuss about. 'Why!' said Nick, 'I wanted that guy to score and I wanted him to make a hit so that it would boost by batting aver-
