Camp Iwaqua to Close Season July 31

This marks the sixth and closing week of Camp Iwaqua, the Camp Fire Girls camp at King's Lake, Valley, Neb., which has been a most successful camp season for Omaha Camp Fire Girls.

About 300 girls have attended the camp this year, some for one week more and some for the whole season and they all claim it is the best camp ever.

The fourth week was the largest when 69 girls were in camp. That was capacity and every nook and corner was filled. During that week the board of directors of Camp Fire Girls and the Concord club, composed of Omaha business men, who are now sponsoring Camp Fire, visited camp.

On Friday the ladies of the board found the girls engaged in their regular program while on Sunday, which is open visitors day, a large ceremonial was held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for the Concord club and other visitors. At that time honors were awarded to the girls and special honor was given to Louise Rosenthal who was voted the best all round camper for the week. Harriet Fonda and Mary Boyer tied for second and lacked just a few points of having as many as Louise.

Two new features of camp this year are the showers set up in by the Concord club, and horseback riding, both of which the girls have enjoyed very much. Three afternoons a week are devoted to riding.

The Other Woman Need Not Be a Problem

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Women make life miserable for worrying over any other woman who never has played—or ever will play—a part in a man's life.

Some wives are bitterly jealous even of a man's memory of the little girl who was a childhood sweetheart. The sense of rivalry makes a woman feel insecure even when she is fighting—ghosts.

The other day a splendid, upright man of beautiful ideals told me how his mother dealt with the memory of the woman who had preceded her in his father's life. I'm going to tell his little story here. And I hope it will give all of you who read some food for thought.

Mary Jane was a second wife. One day some one came down from the little town where Maria—the first wife—lay buried in an old cemetery. And the visitor told Mary Jane's husband that the tombstone over Maria's grave had fallen and lay prone on the ground.

John said it was too bad. Mary Jane told her husband that he ought to fix it. John said he'd go in a week or so.

"You go see to that tomorrow," insisted Mary Jane. "Maria was a fine woman. You weren't fit to have her love you the way she did, if you neglect her grave now."

And John went the next day to see that the stone stood erect and sturdy over his first wife's grave.

The gray haired man who was telling me the story smiled as he went.

"I can remember the beautiful patch-work quilt that was on the 'best bed' in the spare room. I can see my mother smoothing it gently and telling me to be very careful of it. 'It was Maria's,' she explained tenderly. And when I asked who Maria was, mother told me she was father's first wife and I must always revere her memory, for she was a good woman."

"As I see it now, mother figured that any woman who had loved father must have been pretty fine. Mother idolized father and she thought that the other woman who had loved him too much was worth her loving. I guess she figured that any woman father ever loved was all right."

A simple little narrative this. But doesn't it show a wonderful character?

Could a man ever fail in respect for a woman of such fine perceptions and such broad vision?

Can any man tire of a woman or turn elsewhere for companionship when she so generously understands and sympathizes with all which once was a part of his life?

The cruel sense of possession which makes women jealous tyrants is probably one of the greatest factors in driving men to wrong-doing—to faithlessness. But the man who finds a woman with a soul like Mary Jane's isn't going to do anything to lessen its devotion.

Jelly Jars.

The Old People's home, Fontelle boulevard, has hundreds of Mason and jelly jars which the board of directors are anxious to dispose of. Anyone interested is requested to call the superintendent, Mrs. Esplin, at the home.

Grant Relief Corps.

U. S. Grant Woman's Relief corps will meet for a Kensington Tuesday, 2 p. m., at the pavilion in Miller park. Mrs. M. Melvin will be the hostess.

B. T. Club.

The B. T. club of Railway Mail Service, will meet Friday, 2:30 p. m., with Mrs. J. N. Grant, 2125 Pratt street.

Scottish Rite Picnic.

The Scottish Rite club will hold its annual children's picnic at Elmwood park Friday afternoon, July 23.

Tested Recipes an Aid to Cook

Fried Smelts.
Clean the smelts, wipe dry, dredge with salt and pepper, roll in flour, then fry quickly to a light golden brown in olive oil or salt pork drippings. Arrange "fishbone" pattern on a hot platter, garnish with slices of lemon and parsley and serve with sauce tartare.

Shad Roe.
When the roe comes from the market parboil in salted water, to which a tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar has been added. Then put in the ice box until needed. This preliminary treatment not only prevents its spoiling, but lessens its tendency to "pop."

Plain Ice Cream.
Nobody seems to be quite sure who made the first dish of ice cream. It may, of course, have been a great French cook. But there are stories that it was a colored cook of old Virginia who first concocted the delicacy that has since, at any rate, become quite distinctively an American dish. The French still, of course, make delicious ices.

Here are some good recipes for making ice cream.
To begin with, here are two foundation ice creams which may be much varied by the addition of various flavoring ingredients:

Scald one pint milk; mix one cup sugar with two tablespoons flour, pinch salt, and two beaten eggs. Add to hot milk, stir over fire till thick and smooth, cover and cook 30 minutes. Strain and cool. Add one pint cream, flavoring desired and freeze. One can condensed milk and one cup milk may be mixed and added in place of cream. Very good ice cream may be made without the addition of any cream.

Shad Roe Croquettes.
For croquettes, after they have been boiled and allowed to get thoroughly cold, take off the skins and break the tiny eggs apart with a fork. Have ready a rich cream sauce, made from two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, two tablespoonfuls of milk and one of cream. Season with salt, cayenne and lemon juice. Add the prepared roes and let the whole mixture boil up a moment. Stir in a beaten egg and turn into a shallow dish to cool. When perfectly cold form into oval balls about the size of a walnut. Egg and crumb and fry in smoking hot fat to a delicate brown. Drain on soft paper and serve with cucumber or sauce tartare.

Philadelphia Ice Cream.
Scald one pint cream. Add one cup sugar and stir till dissolved.

Take from fire and add one pint of chilled cream. Freeze when cold.
Marron Ice Cream.
A delightful variant of this plain cream is made by adding marrons to it. Marrons are the large French chestnuts, which are put up in a rich syrup with either a vanilla or other flavor. The marrons are cut into small pieces and added with their syrup to the cream before freezing. This mock Nesselrode may be served with whipped cream which has been flavored with a little of the syrup from the marrons.

Be it in window displays, V-necks or free verse the proper thing's Reputation, with temperament breaking out in blotches like the measles.
