

Clean Movies Make Most Money, Says Will Hays

Declares American Manhood and Womanhood Sound and Will Support Moral Pictures.

Los Angeles, July 24.—One way for the public to help the producers make good motion pictures, is for the public to support the good pictures, declared Will Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors' Association of America, speaking before the Chamber of Commerce and leading motion picture men here today.

"I am not suggesting an alibi for the motion picture business; for the motion picture business is going through on the highway which leads to better pictures," Mr. Hays said. "I am only emphasizing that this is not a one-man job nor the job of one group; it is the multitude's job and in doing it, there is work for all."

"One of the largest producers has told me that in his opinion, the outstanding financial successes in the last 18 months have been clean pictures. I may not thoroughly know the picture business, but I do know thoroughly, the American picture business. I know that its manhood and womanhood are sound and will support clean pictures. And the American public is the real censor for the motion picture, just as it is for the press and the pulpit."

Blames Movies.

Pasadena, Cal., July 25.—The American motion picture was blamed for the troubles of American missionaries in the orient in a report from the women's board for foreign missions presented here today to the annual sessions of the Presbyterian synods of Arizona and California.

The report declared the natives of Canton, Shanghai, Tokio, Calcutta, Bombay and Jerusalem, viewing "western" pictures, concluded that all American men are "barbaric savages" who gamble for a living, drink whiskey like water, carry two guns and a bowie knife, and kill their fellow men as a pastime; that American women are dance hall girls, who smoke cigars, drink heavily and "sell themselves for a coin or a smile."

Autoists Jump to Safety When Train Strikes Car

Brookings, S. D., July 25.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lane and two children of this city had a miraculous escape from death when their car was struck by a passenger train at a crossing west of the city. Because of high weeds near the crossing the autoists were unaware of the approaching train until they were squarely on the crossing. Then the engine of the car stalled and the occupants barely had time to jump from the auto before it was struck by the locomotive. The car was carried a short distance on the pilot and then hurled into a deep ditch beside the track, almost a complete wreck.

LEPROSY'S BAD NAME.

A request comes for an article on leprosy.

The request is timely, because of several reasons.

Congress is being asked to make larger provision for the care of lepers.

An effective remedy against, and possibly a cure, for leprosy has been found and, finally, it is in the air for society to be more kindly to the leper than it has been since the days when the Bible was written.

Leprosy is due to a bacillus which, in some ways, is a kinsman of the tubercle bacillus. This bacillus attacks most any of the tissues, but it has an especial fondness for the skin and nerve tissues.

It is only mildly contagious. The very bad reputation for contagiousness is due to Bible stories, for which there are two possible explanations.

A few thousand years ago, leprosy may have been very contagious. Many diseases are known to have radically changed their characteristics, and especially their character to infect, in less than 2,000 years. In the time of Michael Angelo and Benvenuto Cellini, syphilis was as contagious as smallpox now is.

Another explanation of the incorrectness of the Bible stories of leprosy, when used as a present day guide, is that the Holy Writ called many different diseases, some of which were highly contagious, by the name of leprosy—about the only widely known contagious skin disease in that day.

The Bible is not supposed to be a treatise on pathology.

The treatment for the disease is Chalmers' oil. Recently discovered methods of purifying the oil have resulted in products which are much more effective against the disease and much less trying on the patient.

In Hawaii, most of the patients are receiving this treatment, and there is no question as to the good it is doing.

In the Philippine islands 5,000 lepers have been gathered together on Cullion island, and of these 3,900 are under treatment.

In all probability there are 1,200 lepers in continental United States. If the wild, unreasoning fear of lepers could be overcome, and if physicians could learn better how to diagnose it, we might find that there were at least twice that many.

Our fear of leprosy has been so great that, as a practical result, the lepers have been and still are going in and out among us, unhindered, eating at our tables and serving our food.

You see, we are so afraid of lepers that we will not have them as diagnosed cases in one state, but we have them as undiagnosed cases in our towns and even in our households. Queer folk, we are.

A few years ago the United States bought the Louisiana State colony at Carville. They now have 200 cases there. If they only had a house large enough, and beds enough, they could have 1,000 there, and that would be all the lepers in the United States that are in the contagious stage, if not more.

Albert says that no leper is contagious unless his lesions are discharging, and only about one-twentieth of them have discharging lesions. His contention is that lepers with no ulceration can be safely left to come and go as they please.

In Norway, the policy of gathering into colonies all the cases of leprosy, keeping them comfortable, and giving them the best possible treatment at the hands of the most experienced physicians, has reduced the prevalence of the disease more than half.

The policy of providing good care, and of giving the best treatment in proper colonies, is working in Hawaii and the Philippines. The afflicted are showing a willingness to go into the colony in the early stages. A disposition on the part of the community to be fair to the leper, to allow him the fullest liberty compatible with safety, providing plenty of beds at Carville, and giving him the latest and best treatment—these will cause lepers to seek diagnosis and treatment early, and will bring the disease well under control in a generation.

Tonic—Two Fine Ones.

W. F. S. writes: "Please prescribe a good tonic for the blood—poor blood, usually characterized by 'fever blisters,' and occasional boils."

REPLY.

The very best tonic is home made. Proceed as follows:

Plant a patch of radishes, mustard greens, peas and onions.

Work the patch before work in the morning and after you get home at night.

When ready, eat 'em fresh. Keep your skin clean.

Next best tonic: Hit up Lizzie and go far away to some woods.

Dig up some roots—sassafras, if it is there, if not, some other—take your time about the finding and digging. Go home as you came, make a tea of the gathered roots and drink same night and morning. Keep the skin clean.

Knotted Towel Suggested.

W. P. W. writes: "Will you kindly publish or send to inquirer C. E. C. the following remedy for his boy wetting the bed:

"When the boy is going to bed tie a towel around his body and make a big knot of it on the small of his back which will prevent his remaining on his back when asleep."

Coal Dealers Want Low Rail Rate Kept

Lincoln, July 25.—Petitions from coal dealers, wholesale and retail, have been pouring into the state railway commission for a number of days asking that body to assist in preventing what they say will amount to a closing of the Nebraska market to Routt county (Colorado) coal. The district, they say, is served by the Moffat road, in the hands of a receiver, who, the petitioners aver, has asked to be exempted from an order of the Interstate Commerce commission reducing coal rates 10 per cent. The Nebraska commissioners are asked to aid in preventing this exemption. The commissioners regard the situation serious enough to justify intervention, and will send a representative to appear at the hearing in Denver next Monday.

Strike Placards Taken From Stores

Emporia Merchants Follow Lead of Editor in Removing Offending Cards.

Emporia, Kan., July 25.—(By A. P.)—Placards expressing sympathy for striking railroad men were removed from the windows of stores here, the merchants following the lead of William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, who took down his sign Saturday, following the issuing of a warrant charging him with violation of the industrial law. Mr. White, who put up bond to appear in the court to answer the charge, said he would not continue to violate the law while the case was pending.

Governor Henry J. Allen, who was to have made an address here at the Kansas State Normal school, failed to arrive and will make his speech Tuesday.

White, sanctioned the arrest of the editor and there was speculation as to whether the two men would meet when the governor comes to town.

Mr. White has been a supporter of the industrial court law, but differed with the governor in his interpretation of it. He maintained that

They also claim it places in the hands of the state conventions the selection of delegates to national conventions.

The league deposited $100 in part payment of the expenses of printing their argument and objections. The protest is signed by Mrs. C. G. Ryan of Grand Island as president and Mrs. Edna M. Barkley of Lincoln as chairman of the special committee on the direct primary.
