

Governor Turns His Attention to Coal Situation

Makes Inquiries Regarding Naming of Commission—John L. Kennedy in Line for Fuel Administrator.

Lincoln, Neb., July 28.—(Special.)—Governor S. R. McKelvie today turned his attention to the threatened shortage of coal. He announced he would immediately confer with Clarence A. Davis, attorney general, to learn how much power the state has in governing the prices and the distribution of fuel. He also announced that John L. Kennedy of Omaha, fuel administrator during the war, would be asked to accept a similar position if one is created in the present emergency. The announcement followed receipt of a telegram from the governor from Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, asking McKelvie to name a state fuel commissioner to handle an anti-profiteering campaign and to supervise distribution of coal to best advantage. The governor discussed the fuel situation with Kennedy in Omaha yesterday. A telegram is being sent by McKelvie to Hoover asking how much of the expense of the fuel commission the federal government is ready to pay.

Vandals Multilate Grave of Noted Frontiersman

Deadwood, S. D., July 28.—(Special.)—Residents of the Black Hills have become angered by the action of vandals who have broken through the wire screen protecting the grave of "Wild Bill" Hickok in Mount Moriah cemetery, near Deadwood, and are making a practice of chipping off pieces of the monument for souvenirs. An old statue of "Wild Bill," which was carved many years ago and erected over the grave of the noted frontiersman, was mutilated beyond recognition by vandals and souvenir hunters, and the present monument seems destined to go the same way unless means can be found to put a stop to the operations of the vandals.

A baseball game between Fullerton and Central City proved to be the big card. The game went 11 innings before Fullerton won, 3 to 2. Over 5,000 people attended the races and ball game. In the evening a free outdoor picture show and dance were given.

It is thought the fire was caused by a lighted cigarette stub. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Checks Are Worthless; Columbus Man Sought

Columbus, Neb., July 28.—(Special.)—W. Hendrick, who operated a stage line between Columbus and Norfolk, has disappeared, leaving in his wake numerous checks alleged by several hotel and business men who cashed them to be worthless. The amount of the checks will total in the neighborhood of $800, it is estimated.

Hendrick is said to have left town after purchasing considerable merchandise by check, in a new Durant auto for which he is alleged to have traded his old car, promising to pay the remainder of the bill. The Durant dealer also is looking for Hendrick. Wednesday morning, upon reaching Humphrey in the big Buick which Hendrick was using on his bus line, the driver, Mr. Gleason, filed a lien on the car for his wages of $104. A Mr. Gordon of Norfolk, hearing of the attachment, came to Humphrey, paid the driver's bill, and secured the Buick upon which he held a mortgage of $1,100.

With the retirement from the field of the two buses which Hendrick was running between Norfolk and Columbus, the firm which has been operating a bus line between York, Columbus and Norfolk has put on a Packard bus which will make two scheduled trips between Columbus and Norfolk.

Falls City, Neb., July 28.—(Special.)—Richardson county is bigger by more than 500 acres this year than last, according to the report made by County Assessor S. H. Bolejack. The roving tendencies of the Missouri river, which shifted some of the sand bottom of Missouri to this county, were responsible for the change in area. The total value of land in this county is $30,768,630. The average per acre is $90.15, compared against $92.11 last year.

Common Sense

Are You a Blustering Boss?
Really successful employers never give emphatic orders to a helper, of either high or low degree, while any one outside the force is present. An employee who is worth while does not enjoy being instructed in a way which suggests that he cannot get his employer's idea without having it literally hammered into him. Pride is a part of every good man's or woman's character. The boss who follows such a practice as making employees conspicuous before others when he gives an order loses the best effort an employee is capable of making, or perhaps loses a good helper. It may be the result of circumstances, not ability, which puts one man in as head and the other as employee. There is no reason why an employer should treat an intelligent and energetic employe in a discourteous manner. It is not often that a capable man will stand this sort of thing. Once in a while circumstances might make it necessary. An employer who will take advantage of such a man is not a real man. (Copyright 1922.)

They were released on bonds.

Coal Famine to Cripple Wisconsin in Few Days

Madison, Wis., July 28.—(By A. P.)—Wisconsin faces a coal famine which will commence to cripple industry within a very few days unless relief is made available, the state railroad commission reported today on the basis of a survey of coal supplies on the docks. "The situation is worse than we dreamed of," L. E. Gettle, chairman of the commission, said in commenting on the result of the investigation. This survey showed that large dock companies generally received from 50,000 to 100,000 tons of coal each month during the shipping season had received only negligible amounts since the first of the year. Practically no fuel remains on the docks. Six hundred telegrams ordering radio sets were received one forenoon by one manufacturing concern.
